SECURITY BILL TAX FEATURE IS ATTACKED

But G. O. P. Loses Fight in House.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—The Democratic steamroller in the house of representatives late today squashed a Republican attempt to strike out the compulsory old age benefits section, with taxes on employés and employers, from the New Deal's social security program. That effort lost, 125 to 49.

This action followed one victory after another for the majority in the house. The administration followers successfully squelched Townsend-Lundeenites and representatives from the poorer states who wanted the federal government to bear the burden for the old age pensions section of the bill.

Snell Blocks Speedy Action.

The house adjourned late amidst confusion after Minority Leader Bertrand Snell [Rep., N. Y.] forestalled an attempt of the Democrats to rush through passage of this pet New Deal measure tonight. The bill will probably be passed tomorrow after the minority has made what appears to be a futile attempt to send it back to committee for further study.

The motion to erase the old age benefits section of the bill was made by Representative Allen T. Treadway [Rep., Mass.], ranking minority member of the ways and means committee, who charged a hardship would be wrought on labor and capital alike.

This section would provide payments from $15 to $85 a month, according to the size of the employeé's salary during his working lifetime to people 65 years of age or more.

A taxing provision of the bill would impose a levy of 1 per cent on wages of employés starting in 1937 and increasing to 3 per cent by 1949. An excise tax of the same percentages would be imposed on employers.

Treadway Attacks Tax Plan.

"This is the worst section of the bill," asserted Treadway. "It is unconstitutional and eventually would amount to an annual tax of 1 billion 800 million dollars on industry.

"But the majority party doesn't care about industry. Yesterday the secretary of agriculture [Wallace] insulted New England when he laughed at importations of Japanese textiles. He told the manufacturers that they should seek new fields of endeavor. They are not going to yield supinely to his orders."

Says Workers Would Pay.

Representative Thomas A. Jenkins [Rep., O.], declared the benefits would be paid out of the "sweat and blood of the working people."

On a standing vote, 41 votes were obtained for Treadway's motion while 131 were mustered against it. Then the teller vote, with the members passing through the center aisle for a count, resulted in the 49-125 tally.

The Democrats immediately started on another section.

"I understood that the agreement was the house would quit after disposing of this section," Minority Leader Snell shouted. "You can't fool us like that."

Chairman Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.] of the ways and means committee, author of the administration bill, hurried over to Snell and held a whispered conversation. Meanwhile various members were shouting for recognition. Doughton finally gave in and the house adjourned.

Basis of Day's Discussion.

The major portion of the afternoon was consumed in connection with the old age section of the bill, not to be confused with the compulsory old age benefits provision with its taxing provisions. The old age pensions would be financed equally by the federal government up to payments of $15 a month per person 65 or over and the states that agree to the plan.

Thus Uncle Sam would pay out $15 and a state would match this outlay dollar for dollar for a $30 pension. The strategy mapped out by house leaders had been to take pension plans one by one and defeat them. As various proposals were made as amendments to the administration's pension plan they were voted down during the afternoon.

Townsend Plan Defeated.

First to fall by the wayside was the Townsend plan, providing pensions up to $200 a month, financed by a 2 per cent tax on all commercial transactions. It was offered by Representative Joseph P. Monaghan [Dem., Mont.].

"We must take the older people out of industry," he said, "and then shorten the hours of labor."

The plan was opposed by the more

OPEN NEW DRIVE FOR PERMANENT LIST OF VOTERS

Threaten to Put Bill Before Senate.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 18.—[Special.]—Indignation grew in the legislature today at attempts of the Chicago Democratic machine to inter the permanent registration bill in a house subcommittee.

As yesterday, the Republicans were loudest in protests and promises were made that if the measure is allowed to remain with the committee more than a week an identical measure would be introduced in the senate and attempts made there to pass it.

"Statements have been made," said Senator Earl B. Searcy, minority leader, "that the committee does not intend to bury the bill. Yet we hear that Pat Nash, the Democratic chairman of Cook county, does not want it passed. Those assertions don't jibe. We'll give them one week. If the committee is sincere, it will report the bill—favorably or unfavorably—by that time.

"If they do not, I will introduce the bill in the senate so that we can keep the fight alive in two sectors. Permanent registration is a fine measure, dedicated to honest, economical elections and aimed at graft and the employment of 'floaters' and 'stingers'."

Sent to "Embalmers."

Last week the bill was shunted into a subcommittee of the elections committee after Arthur Sullivan, attorney for the Democratic party in Cook county, and Frank Righeimer, counsel for the Chicago board of education, had appeared against it. Michael F. Hennebry [Dem., Wilmington], chairman of the whole committee, named Frank Ryan [Dem., Chicago], chairman of the subcommittee. Other members are John R. McSweeney [Dem., Chicago], Charles A. Koehler [Dem., Cairo], Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Libertyville], and William J. Warfield [Rep., Chicago].

Thus, as is customary, three Democrats and two Republicans compose the membership of the group. The theory was that the three Democrats could outvote the two Republican in case the latter became obstreperous and proposed something the Democrats wouldn't want.

Lyons, one of the most active members of the Republican side, said today he would not become a rubber stamp for the Democrats and would demand the bill be reported out of the subcommittee next Tuesday.

"As a member of the subcommittee, which, according to rather substantial report, is expected to 'sit tight' upon this bill until the end of the session, I, for one, will do my utmost to see that this procedure is kicked over," Lyons said.

He Won't Be Pallbearer.

"The appointing of burial subcommittees has happened here before. The majority of the subcommittee always wears the undertaker's gloves. But it won't use me as a pallbearer. If it was somebody's idea that I would be a good guy and 'go along' with the Democratic embalmers it was a bum idea. I won't.

"Tuesday the Illinois League of Women Voters will send proponents to speak for the bill before our committee. One hearing should be enough. I will move to report the bill favorably after these women have been heard. The entire elections committee was given all of the arguments for and against it at previous hearings, and an agreement that the roll should be called then in the committee was violated.

"Orders were certainly obeyed during the committee session, which resulted in the bill's being sent to our subcommittee. Pat Nash gave the orders to bury this bill, and how the lads leaped to say, 'Yowsah, boss.'

"If anybody doubted that Nash did give such orders, it was conclusively proved when the Democratic majority leader, Ben Adamowski, admitted on the floor of the house that Nash was against the bill and out in the open about it.

Will See Who's Boss.

"Who is Pat Nash to tell eight million people in Illinois that they can't have honest, decent and economical elections? I hope that we will be able to show him that while he may be the boss of the Democratic party he's not the boss of all the people in the state."

It was rumored today that Chairman Ryan would like to take the subcommittee on a junket to Detroit to see how permanent registration works out in that city. Reports here are that it works fine. Such a junket, to be made with money from the contingent expense fund of the house, would not, it was believed, meet with the approval of Speaker John P. Devine, who is out for a record on economy and believes that he will make it.

Wrote Kidnap Notes, Youth Tells Police

Leo Magnus, 17 years old, 1831 North Francisco avenue, a first year student at Tuley High school, was arrested last night by federal agents and confessed shortly afterward that he was the writer of two ransom notes received by Max Perrot, 4110 North Maplewood avenue, whose 4 year old son Richard has been missing since April 4.

Magnus was seized beside a comfort station in Humboldt park, near North and California avenues, as he was picking up a dummy package planted there as directed in the ransom letters. Questioned by the department of justice agents, who had watched the spot since the first letter was received April 10, and Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan, the youth said he "did it for a thrill."

Seeking Fun, He Says.

"I never saw the missing boy," he asserted, "and I didn't want the $150 I asked for very much. I just read about the case in the papers and thought I'd have a little fun writing the father for the money."

Magnus said that he was near the comfort station early Sunday, but was afraid to try to pick up the package. Later he learned that Perrot had told the police about the note. He therefore wrote the second note, informing the father that he was playing with dangerous forces, and threatening again to kill little Richard unless the money was placed at the spot originally named.

The investigators were inclined to believe Magnus' story. The youth, who resides with his mother and a brother, has been a somewhat backward student, but has never been in trouble before. Chief Sullivan said he probably would be turned over to the postal authorities for prosecution, as the ransom demands were sent through the mail.

No Trace of Lost Boy.

No trace has ever been found of the Perrot boy. One theory is that he was drowned in the north branch of the river. The other is that he was kidnaped by a moron.

Police Captain Thomas Condon announced yesterday that he plans to question Joseph Bothe, 45 years old, again in connection with the mystery. Bothe, who once escaped from the Elgin hospital for the insane, was returned there after he had been arrested as a suspect in the case. He has denied any share in the lad's disappearance and the police have been given a fairly good alibi for him.

Lester Johnson, 3617 Pittsburgh avenue, who reported seeing a boy on a street car with a man resembling Bothe the day Richard vanished, will view the asylum inmate today.

SCIENTIST HOLDS 'FOG' OF ENERGY POSSIBLE UNIVERSE IN EMBRYO

Philadelphia, Pa., April 18.—(AP)—A photon fog, which offers a new idea of the creation of the universe, was described to the American Philosophical society tonight by Dr. W. F. G. Swann, director of the Bartol institute.

Photons are the small units into which the radiations or rays of stars are divided. They are the heat, light, and other energy radiations constantly streaming away from sun and stars. Science has believed this radiation could have ultimately only one end, sun and stars at last cold, the present universe at an end.

But Dr. Swann showed how it may be possible, though proof is yet lacking, for this lost star photon energy to form a universal fog, out of which a new creation might arise.

Sinclair Hopes to Extend His Epic to All States

Santa Barbara, Cal., April 18.—(AP)—Emphatically denying dispatches quoting him as saying he was leaving politics, Upton Sinclair announced here tonight he hoped to extend his "end poverty in California" program to the other 47 states of the Union.

Flees Asylum, Leaps to Death from Tower

Kenneth Orts, 20 years old, a former shipping clerk, living at 3516 West 64th place, Chicago, escaped yesterday morning from the Elgin state hospital, where he had been committed April 11.

Six hours later he plunged to his death from the 150 foot water tank of the Kerber Packing company plant, about a mile from the hospital, as firemen were racing desperately with a net to save him.

Orts contrived to elude guards and flee from the hospital grounds about 10:30 a. m., but was not missed until some time later.

Sighted Atop Tank.

Shortly after 3 o'clock employés of the packing plant, which is on the banks of the Fox river, saw him on top of the tank.

They shouted at him to come down, and he threatened to leap.

State police were called, and Troopers O. E. Olson, Herbert Wright, and Philip Paschke responded. As they started toward the ladder Orts called down:

"If you touch that ladder I'll jump."

Wright ran to a phone to call the Elgin fire department, while Olson and Paschke remained, arguing with Orts and trying to dissuade him from leaping. In the meantime a crowd of more than a hundred persons had gathered.

Race with Fire Net.

By the time Fire Marshal Robert Whalen and his men arrived Orts had climbed over a low railing on the tank, and was poised to jump. Firemen, holding the net, started toward the base of the tower.

"Here I come!" Orts yelled, and leaped.

At his words the firemen with the net raced forward in a last effort to catch the plunging body. It missed the net by some twenty feet.

In Orts' pocket police found a letter addressed to his mother, Mrs. Agnes Orts, with whom he had lived in Chicago, telling her that he intended to kill himself, and bidding her farewell.

The young man's relatives revealed that Orts had suffered from several nervous breakdowns during the last year, and members of the family decided to have him examined by an alienist. His commitment to Elgin followed.

Saves Robber Who Let Him Go to Prison

EDWARD SINGLETON.

Ralph E. Harwood, 23 years old, a Hammond furniture salesman, stood before Judge William J. Murray in the Lake county [Ind.] Criminal court at Crown Point yesterday and heard the facts of his crime recited.

Four years ago Harwood donned a mask, got a gun, and went out for some "easy money." He robbed a grocery.

Subsequently the police arrested Edward Singleton, then 39 years old, a world war veteran and a painter, living in Hammond. The victims of the robbery identified Singleton as the bandit. Their identification was positive despite the evidence that the bandit was masked.

Four Years—and Innocent.

Singleton was sentenced to ten years in Michigan City penitentiary.

A little less than a month ago Harwood's conscience got the better of him, and he confessed the crime. Singleton, after four years in prison for a crime of which he was innocent, was released.

Yesterday Judge Murray was about to pronounce sentence on Harwood when a man stepped before the bench. It was Singleton.

"Your honor," he said, "this young man isn't a real criminal. He has 'gone straight' since that robbery four years ago. I served four years in prison for that crime. Let that be enough. I bear no grudge against young Harwood. I am pleading that you show leniency."

A Parole—Though Guilty.

Judge Murray paused a minute, then replied:

"If the man who suffered for the crime innocently is now big enough to appear in his behalf, I am big enough to grant his request. The sentence is suspended and Harwood will be put on probation. Mr. Singleton, may I parole him to you?"

"Ordinarily I would say yes, your honor," replied the war veteran, "but when I get my full pardon I want to leave Hammond and start over again in some other place."

So Harwood was put in the charge of the court parole officer.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS' VACATION WILL START APRIL 26

The annual spring vacation of the Chicago public schools will begin on Friday, April 26, and continue to May 6, Supt. William J. Bogan announced yesterday. The Catholic parochial schools, closed during Holy week, will reopen next Tuesday, April 23.

The public school holidays will coincide in part with Clean-up week, April 22 to May 4, and Chicago Youth week, April 23 to May 1.

As part of Youth week five high school seniors are to receive university scholarships Thursday at the Civic Assembly luncheon in the Union League club. Two scholarships are in Northwestern university, two in the University of Chicago, and one in Armour institute. Central Y. M. C. A. college is to award 35 1935-'36 scholarships to the winners of a competitive examination on May 10 and twelve more to the winners of a discussion contest on the city manager plan.

The Chicago safety council yesterday urged Chicagoans to coöperate with school children during clean-up week. The council said 11,000 fires here in 1930 were in buildings one to five stories high and that 80 per cent of these fires began in rubbish piles.

LEAGUE IS TOOL OF DEFAULTERS, SAYS IDAHOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—The league of nations was assailed on the senate floor today as "a spineless tool" in the hands of the war debt repudiators, who condemn Germany for violating a treaty and threaten punitive sanctions against acts of which its own leading members are guilty.

Senators James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.], and William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], both members of the foreign relations committee, drew attention to the inconsistency of denouncing Germany when the league is dominated by nations which have broken their compacts with the United States.

Would Bar Foreign Loans.

Senator Borah introduced a resolution making it a crime, punishable by 10 years' imprisonment and a fine of not more than $100,000, for any person, firm or corporation, public or private, to lend money or extend credit to any foreign government or nation except governments on the American continent.

"The resolution with respect to Germany," Senator Borah said, "demonstrates the obedience of the league to its masters and shows it to be a spineless tool in the hands of a few nations. The institution can no longer make a pretense of being an independent body interested in the cause of peace.

"The European governments now are preparing for war. It may not come within the next two or three or five years, but the preparation is going on. Any money loaned to them is in the aid of war. The best authorities on European conditions give as their opinion that war is virtually inevitable within the next five or ten years.

"Contributing to War."

"Therefore we virtually are contributing to the preparation of war by any loans we make. Money loaned will be used to increase armaments and make war more certain.

"If war breaks out and we have a large investment in Europe, it will be used as a powerful factor in bringing us into the war. Furthermore, loans in Europe are unsafe. Europe has repudiated more than 11 billions of dollars loaned under the most sacred circumstances."

Senator Lewis drew attention to the fact that the four great debtors to the United States of some 11 billion dollars have resolved that a duty "lies upon all members of the international community to respect undertakings they have contracted."

Demand Debt Be Paid.

"On this basis, laid by the council as to the obligations of Germany," Senator Lewis declared, "we, the United States, demand the same faith and obedience to the obligations these debtor nations owe to the United States on the obligations they have contracted with the United States."

Senator Lewis recalled that upon three different occasions the defaulting war debtors had had their debts reduced, settling on compact for payment in allotted sums at stated times until the full payment should have been made.

"These debtor nations now condemn Germany for failing to respect 'undertakings that they have contracted,'" he added.

Shows England's Boast.

Lewis quoted from dispatches from London showing how England has balanced her budget and reduced taxes and is boasting to the world of her surplus.

"Still England refuses to mention in her budget the debt of billions due the United States," he said. "France, with an excess of money, engages to loan billions of francs to European nations which are to spend millions and millions upon increased armaments. Italy advances her forces into a new territory involving large expense and contracts for financial aid to countries once her enemies, now to be her allies."

Senator Lewis also asserted that securities originally placed in the treasury for portions of the war debts since have been removed and allowed to be returned to those who pledged them. He demanded an investigation and such appropriate action as congress might take with a view to substituting new collateral for those which he termed "lost, strayed, or stolen."

BRITISH COOL TO PROTEST

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 18.—Germany's expression of indignation to Great Britain and Italy over the league of nations condemnation of her violation of the military clause of the Versailles treaty left the British government cold today.

There was no formal protest, said British officials, but simply a conversation between Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to Berlin, and B. W. von Buelow, Nazi secretary of state for foreign affairs.

Von Buelow sharply criticized the league council resolution presented jointly by England, France, and Italy and passed unanimously with only Denmark abstaining. Nevertheless, it was said by British officials there was no indication the criticism was aimed at Britain.

A Slap at Germany.

As for the council's resolution slamming the door on Germany's return to the league, an official source said:

"It cannot be said that Germany showed much disposition to return before the resolution was passed."

The same source added that Germany and her sympathizers overlooked one point in her violation of the treaty by restoring military conscription. That was the way she did it.

It was pointed out that the restoration of conscription came at the very moment when Britain, France and other powers were ready to replace the military clauses by a new arrangement and accept Germany on a basis of equality in all international deals.

Fails to Ruffle British.

The assumption was, said the same British source, that Germany was not so interested in limitation of armaments as she claimed.

The German expression of indignation failed to ruffle the British government, which continued to wind up business so as to spend the Easter recess comfortably in the country.

REITERATES PLAN OF U. S. TO TRY MARTIN INSULL

Martin Insull will be brought to trial with his brother, Samuel, and eight other defendants on the remaining federal indictment against them, Attorney General Cummings announced yesterday in Washington. Martin Insull is now somewhere in Canada. If he will not return to Chicago voluntarily, Mr. Cummings said, the government "will certainly proceed to bring him within the jurisdiction of the trial court."

Dispatches from Washington early yesterday indicated that the government would proceed to try his former associates without Martin, but Mr. Cummings' subsequent assertion was interpreted to mean that the United States would revive the extradition proceedings it started a year ago against him.

Mr. Cummings' department dropped its original attempt to bring Martin back for trial when the state of Illinois effected his return. After acquittal of state embezzlement charges here last December Martin returned to Canada.

The Insulls and their co-defendants will be tried on a federal charge of violating the federal bankruptcy act by the transfer of $2,500,000 of the assets of the Corporation Securities company just before it went into receivership in 1932 and when they are alleged to have known it to be insolvent. Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson is expected to set a trial date on Monday. United States Attorney Green said yesterday that he will require a month to prepare his case.

FISH SAYS NEW DEAL FAILURE IS ON ROOSEVELT

Philadelphia, Pa., April 18.—(AP)—Hamilton Fish Jr., representative in congress from New York, asserted today President Roosevelt is "responsible" for the "breakdown and failure of the New Deal" and for appointing "Socialists and near-Socialists" to office.

"No President has fumbled the situation so completely," the Republican congressman declared in a statement issued prior to delivering a speech on "Americanism" at the Penn Athletic club.

"I do not propose that Republicans should put on a campaign to smear Roosevelt as the Democratic publicity agents did to Hoover for two years," Fish went on, "but the time has come to tell the truth . . . and place the responsibility for the breakdown and failure of the New Deal measures squarely where it belongs—upon Franklin D. Roosevelt."

GERMANY FIGHTS TO ESCAPE "IRON RING" OF POWERS

Hitler Talks with Leaders on League's Censure.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 18.—As a nightmare of complete isolation gripped Germany today, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler conferred with Foreign Minister Baron Konstantin von Neurath and his personal adviser on foreign affairs, Joachim von Ribbentrop, in a Munich hotel all day long.

No statement was issued. Official circles said that the Nazi government will remain silent until it is officially notified of the league of nations council's condemnation of the reich's violation of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty.

Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to Berlin, who was summoned to the German foreign office yesterday to hear Germany's expression of indignation over the league's action, appeared there again today.

Deny Germany Got Warning.

It was rumored that the French and Italian ambassadors also had called at the foreign office to warn Germany that if she started to rearm in the demilitarized zone in the Rhineland and the Saar the powers would consider this an act calling for intervention. This rumor was later denied by French, Italian, and German officials.

To divert public attention from the league's censure and the feeling that the reich is completely isolated, the German press, taking its cue from the propaganda ministry, launched a bitter attack on the powers assembled at Geneva. Newspapers branded these nations as "tools of world bolshevism" and "servants of the soviet political bureau." This added to the general indignation.

Many German political leaders, however, see in the hurried trips of the Polish ambassador, the Rumanian and other ministers to Geneva and their respective capitals "the gradual forming of an iron ring of powers to isolate Germany."

A desperate effort is being made to break this isolation without making concessions which would weaken the government in the eyes of the despondent Germans.

Suspect They Are Persecuted.

"We are doomed to persecution," said an elderly Nazi worker discussing the situation while a younger and more truculent colleague tried to console him by saying, "Others are just jealous of us, that's all."

Young and old, it seems, share the national persecution complex.

A long string of incidents on the European continent has increased uneasiness in Nazi quarters. The arrest of Bulgarian Nazis in Sofia alarmed Berlin circles, who had hoped Hitler had won King Boris to Nazi ideals and the Nazi cause. The sentences passed by Hungarians against leaders of German minorities and also the compulsory Magyarization of German names caused the Germans to lose faith in their Hungarian friends.

Czechoslovakia has ordered the suppression of the magazine, German Language Association, for two years because of its Nazi activities. Hitlerites bitterly resent this action.

In all the incidents in the southeastern Europe the Nazis see the hand of Premier Mussolini of Italy. They suspect he is uniting the Balkans in a solid bloc against Germany. The reich had anticipated that southeastern Europe would prove a fertile field for export business.

Seek to Compromise Nations.

German leaders, meanwhile, are making frantic efforts to collect material designed to stir up bad feeling against France and Czechoslovakia for being military allies of communist Russia. They charge the soviet has succeeded in inducing the Czechs to build a tremendous number of airports which could be placed at the disposal of soviet flyers in case of an European war.

German officials recently drew the attention of French diplomats to this fact. They asserted they had material to prove the Russians were "carrying on military preparations in non-Russian territories, notably the airports of Czechoslovakia."

6 MILLION BRITONS VOTE IN FAVOR OF LEAGUE MEMBERSHIP

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York News.]

LONDON, April 18.—Great Britain's popular unofficial referendum on the question of war and peace, which Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, denounced in the house of commons as a regrettable device for ascertaining the opinions of uninformed people, today passed the 6,000,000 mark in the total vote. The balloting is under the auspices of the League of Nations Union.

The first of the six questions on the ballot is whether this country should remain a member of the league. So far 6,083,597 British citizens of voting age have replied in the affirmative, and only 18,391 have voted in the negative. That gives 97 per cent for the league, which tops the list.

On the question of all around reduction of armaments by international agreement the vote stands at 5,732,940 yes, 467,712 no; on the question of abolition of naval and military aircraft, 5,206,391 yes, 942,971 no; and on abolition of private profit from the manufacture or sale of armaments, 5,712,022 yes, 430,273 no. To the question on whether nations adopt economic and other nonmilitary sanctions against an aggressor the vote is 5,455,836 yes, 347,551 no. On the question should military measures be taken against an aggressor the returns gave 3,692,271 yes, 1,287,424 no.

SILT IN DRINKING WATER LESSENS AS LAKE SUBSIDES

The prevalence of silt in the city's drinking water, caused by recent storms which have stirred sediment from the bottom of Lake Michigan, is rapidly diminishing and the water should be restored to normal by the end of the week, A. E. Gorman, head of the city's water purification division, said yesterday.

Numerous complaints about muddy water have been filed with the water bureau by persons fearing the silt might prove harmful.

"The muddy water offers no danger, since we are tripling the amount of chlorine introduced into the water," Mr. Gorman said. "It is impossible to stop the influx of mud without adequate filtration plants. The presence of the material should end soon, however, unless there should be another storm from the north."

FRENCH CABINET TO ACT TODAY ON PACT WITH RUSSIA

Laval Brings Home Text from Geneva.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, April 18.—Foreign Minister Pierre Laval returned to Paris this evening from the league of nations council session at Geneva, bringing with him the text of the Franco-Russian mutual assistance pact negotiated with Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov of soviet Russia. The agreement will be submitted to the cabinet tomorrow.

If it is approved it will probably be initialed at once and signed when Laval goes to Moscow, probably about the middle of May. Although no date yet has been fixed for the visit it is now considered less urgent than formerly, and Laval is anxious to remain in Pars for the muncipal elections in the district of which he is mayor.

Accord Has Three Articles.

So far as can be learned the accord is condensed into three articles. The first of these is in effect an extension of articles 16 and 17 of the league of nations covenant to make applicable to nonmembers of the league the measures of sanction stipulated by article 16.

The importance of this article lies in the fact the nearest neighbors of both Russia and France, Japan and Germany, are no longer members of the league. Article 16 begins with the words: "Should any member of the league resort to war," and lays down what the league member should do.

France and Russia in the proposed agreement will mutually promise to apply similar measures against nonmembers of the league who resort to war. It is, of course, the hope other countries will make similar agreements, thus creating in effect a little league of league of nations members bound to act in common against nonleague members should any of these resort to war.

May Act as Own Judges.

The second article of the agreement deals with the situation which would arise if the league council, by not being unanimous, leaves to members the right to act as a judge necessary for the maintenance of right and justice.

In the Franco-Russian accord the steps to be taken and the matter of consulting and acting in common are specified.

GERMANY'S MILITARY RECRUITS FACE SEVERE MEDICAL EXAMINATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 18.—Recruits for Germany's new army, navy and air force will be picked by severe physical examinations, according to medical instructions issued today. Both conscripts and volunteers will be divided into seven classes ranging from absolutely fit to completely unfit.

Youths not physically developed or recovering from illness will be marked "temporarily unfit." The minimum height for military service is 5 feet 3 inches, but under special conditions recruits will be accepted if they are over 5 feet ½ inch. Requirements vary according to branches of service. The infantry needs men able to march. The cavalry does not want men weighing more than 143 pounds. Signal and motor corps men must not be color blind. Strength and alertness are the chief qualifications for the medical corps.

Similar regulations apply for the navy. Endurance, mental alertness, good sight and hearing are compulsory. The air force men are to be selected by special tests, especially as to intelligence. Aviators must not be under 5 feet 5 inches, or over 6 feet 2¾ inches in height.

RAID FOUR MORE LOOP PLACES IN HANDBOOK WAR

Four new suspected bookmaking establishments were raided by the police yesterday in their campaign against gambling. In a place at 64 West Randolph street they arrested Sidney Grant and 17 patrons. At 227 North Wabash avenue, raiders destroyed furniture and furnishings. At 411 South Wabash avenue, they arrested Frank Stone as keeper, and at 227 North Wabash avenue, they seized Joseph Fields as the proprietor.

Judge Frank M. Padden in the South State street court yesterday fined the proprietors of two loop establishments raided during the campaign.

George Donovan, 1338 North Hamlin avenue, was fined $50 as keeper of a handbook at 167 West Ohio street. Morris Gottstein was fined $25 as the keeper of a similar gambling place at 342 West Van Buren street. Fifteen men seized in eight other raids were discharged.

FRENCH POILUS CHEER MUSSOLINI IN UNITY DISPLAY

2,000 Vets in Rome; Hint Military Pact Brewing.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 18.—The solidarity of the Latin races, revived through the three power Stresa conference and the earlier Franco-Italian agreement in Rome, was given an ostentatious display for the benefit of the "Teutonic north" in Rome today. About 2,000 former French combatants, carrying flags and wearing war gadgets paid their respects to King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Benito Mussolini.

The French ex-soldiers are visiting Rome for five days and everything is being done to make the visit cement the newly shaping Italo-French friendship.

Speeches today and other indications gave rise to reports that a bilateral air pact, which Gen. Victor Denain, French air minister, is coming here May 1 to negotiate, will be turned into a general military alliance between France and Italy if Germany continues to refuse collaboration with the western nations.

Would Copy Franco-Russ Pact.

The Franco-Italian military alliance would be along the same lines as the purported alliance between Russia and France which French Foreign Minister Pierre Laval is expected to sign at Moscow. These alliances, it is said here, give Germany the option of coöperating for European stability or seeing a continental military ring strung around her.

The French ex-soldiers today decorated Italy's unknown soldier with a French war cross and military medal. Later, when Mussolini appeared on a balcony of his office dressed as a general, spectators were treated to the unique sight of a French crowd, which used to hoot Mussolini as a dictator, cheering the premier with almost as much enthusiasm as his own Black Shirts. The Frenchmen's only difficulty was in pronouncing the word duce, which they uttered somewhat sibilantly.

Addressed by Il Duce.

"We are both descendants of the same Latin mother," he told them. "We are strong peoples and peace belongs to those who are strong."

The veterans also visited King Victor, who received them in the courtyard of Quirinal palace, made a short speech and shook hands with crippled members of the delegation.

Meanwhile, the Italian government prepared for the Danube conference to be held here toward the end of May. Eight European foreign ministers are expected to attend this conference, the purpose of which is to draw up a pact for noninterference in Austrian affairs.

Hope Germany Will Attend.

Invitations will be sent out next week, an Italian government official said, and it is hoped Germany will attend, although this seems doubtful.

The Italians hope Germany will attend, for they believe a Danube pact without German participation would have a doubtful value. But it is admitted here Germany is not satisfied with the definition that has been given her of "noninterference" in Austria. Germany is still asking if noninterference would mean that Italy and France could not intervene in Austrian affairs to prevent a restoration of the Hapsburg monarchy.

LINCOLN LETTER OF 1860 BOUGHT BY THE TRIBUNE

Acquired from Payne Collection.

An original message written by Abraham Lincoln six days after his election as President in 1860 was purchased yesterday by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE from the collection of the late Edward W. Payne at Springfield.

The message reads:

"Springfield, Ill., Nov. 12, 1860.

"Mr. Hale will oblige me if he will send by the bearer the CHICAGO TRIBUNE we were looking at this morning. Yours truly,

"A. LINCOLN."

Purpose of Request Unknown.

Lincoln scholars yesterday were unable to name the issue of THE TRIBUNE referred to in the letter, nor could they explain Lincoln's purpose in asking for it.

The document is framed with wood taken from the oak floor of Lincoln's Springfield law office. The letter was examined by Paul M. Angle, state historical librarian and former secretary to the Abraham Lincoln Association of Springfield, and Benjamin P. Thomas, secretary of that association, and both pronounced it genuine.

Copy Made for Records.

Mr. Angle has stated his belief that the Mr. Hale referred to in the message was the Rev. Albert Hale, at that time pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Springfield, now known as the Westminster Presbyterian church.

Both experts declared the letter has never appeared in any of the collections of Lincoln's writings and that therefore it has hitherto been unpublished material. The Lincoln association has a copy for its records, its endeavor being to acquire a complete record of all Abraham Lincoln's writings.

The Payne collection includes old coins, cloisonne, ivories, and more particularly Indian and stone age relics, its collection of the latter said to be one of the largest. The estate was placed in the hands of a receiver for liquidation. The Lincoln letter was offered for sale to THE TRIBUNE and yesterday the Circuit court at Springfield approved the purchase for $100.

MRS. FARWELL ASKS COURT TO TREBLE ALIMONY

Mrs. Loretta E. Farwell of the Edgewater Beach hotel petitioned Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy yesterday to increase to $1,200 the $350 a month alimony she is receiving from J. Arthur Farwell of Beverly Hills, Cal.

Judge La Buy set the hearing for May 23, when he will also hear Farwell's petition, filed on May 6, 1933, that the payments be reduced. When she was granted separate maintenance in 1920 Mrs. Farwell was allowed $120 a month. The present figure was set July 29, 1932.

In her petition Mrs. Farwell set forth that her husband is now receiving $55,000 a year income from two trust funds. She seeks also $4,200 in attorney's fees incurred, she said, in fighting court moves of her husband against her.

TWO DIE IN CRASH.

East St. Louis, Ill., April 18.—(AP)—Horace A. Adams, 41, reputedly wealthy East St. Louis colored political leader, and his chauffeur, Paul Crawford, were killed and two other colored persons injured today in a collision between here and Belleville.

NRA SINS MINE, AVERS JOHNSON; ASKS EXTENSION

Don't Throw Baby Down Drain Pipe, He Pleads.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 18.—Taking the sins of the NRA upon himself as due to his own "bad administration," Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, estranged father of the Blue Eagle, today pleaded with the senate finance committee to clean up the NRA but not to "throw the baby down the drain pipe with the dirty water."

Johnson, co-author of the recovery law and its first administrator, asked that congress continue the NRA experiment after its June 16 expiration date, saying that "the next step will be abolition of the profit system and page Mr. Stalin" if 1932-'33 conditions return.

Wants Clearer Definitions.

Clearer definitions of price and production control, interstate commerce, monopolies, unfair trade practices, and labor policy should be written into any revised recovery law passed by congress, he advised. Johnson also predicted that unemployment will not be solved until working hours are cut and wages raised from those levels he established in the codes.

Figuratively crying "mea culpa," Johnson appeared as the last witness on the NRA before the finance committee and read an 88 page statement packed with characteristically bombastic language, in which he took upon himself much of the criticism directed against his "baby."

"Let's Scrub Infant."

"Let us scrub our infant offspring vigorously, but let us not throw the baby down the drain pipe with the dirty water," he pleaded.

"I do not for one moment contend that there were not serious lapses in this rapidity of progress [under NRA], that rotten provisions did not creep into codes, that personnel was not far from perfect, that code authorities were properly organized, that administration has been perfect or even good.

"But I do contend and I think I can show that such faults as arose were due to my bad administration rather than bad law, that many if not most of these errors of mine are in process of effective correction. I am very sure that to destroy NRA because there are these creaky joints in its structure would be like burning down your house to get rid of a few rats in the attic."

Trapped by King.

Johnson was caught in a bad hole when Senator William King [Dem., Utah] asked him about his own statement that NRA was "dead as a dodo." Johnson said he had meant the administration of NRA was dead because he did not believe that the board which succeeded him at the helm could do "much more than wiggle."

Although he fought the charge that NRA helped or was a tool of large industries against small, Johnson admitted the charge that section 7-A, the labor collective bargaining section, has "substantially failed of its original purpose" and now "is so obscured by the conflicting interpretations that it does not and cannot be construed as a definit labor policy."

Would Replace 7-A.

To replace section 7-A he suggested a law providing that workers could organize with "no coercion on either side," that is, neither from employers or unions, that only the union chosen by the majority in any shop or department would be recognized by the employer, and that "membership in no union be made a condition of employment."

RECOVERY HELD BACK BY NRA, EXPERTS HOLD

Washington, D. C., April 18.—(AP)—An opinion that NRA has had a "substantial" retarding effect upon recovery is expressed by a group of Brookings institution experts who for months have been conducting a survey of the recovery law's operations and results.

The report, just now being rounded into final form, has not yet been officially released, but copies of major portions of it became available in the capital tonight.

The study group was headed by Dr. Leverett S. Lyon, economist and former dean of the school of commerce and finance of Washington university and former assistant NRA administrator. The Washington Post said that among the signers of the report, which aims criticism at the theory of NRA, will be Leon C. Marshall, a member of the recovery board itself.

"The conclusion indicated by this resumé," the report said at one point, "is that the NRA on the whole retarded recovery. To what extent it was detrimental no one can say with assurance. . . . We do not feel justified in stating our own judgment more definitly than to say that the retarding effect of NRA has been substantial."

ARMY INFORMED COLT FIRM HAS LOST NRA EAGLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—The American army's supply of machine guns was in danger tonight of being cut off abruptly because of a row between the Colt Patent Fire Arms company and the NRA.

Acting on a decision reached secretly yesterday by Donald R. Richberg and his NRA governing board, the recovery administration today was going through the formality of informing the war department and other government agencies that the Colt company has lost its Blue Eagle for alleged violations of the collective bargaining section of the NIRA.

All government purchases from the Colt company, including the army's supply of machine guns, must stop as soon as this formal notice reaches the various departments. Since the Colt company owns the patents for and is the sole maker of the Browning machine gun, the army will not be able to buy this crucial weapon until the controversy is straightened out.

Delays Sending Notice.

Richberg had delayed sending formal notice of the Blue Eagle removal to the various departments since March 26, the day the Eagle was snatched. During this time he sought to compose the disagreement between Colt and its employés which had led to the alleged NRA violation and thus to pave the way for Blue Eagle restoration and continuance of government arms purchases.

These mediatory efforts broke down, however, and yesterday Richberg and the NRA board which he heads decided that the only course remaining was to proceed with the formal notice, already delayed more than two weeks, of the Blue Eagle removal, regardless of the effect on machine gun purchases. This decision was not made public until late today.

Colt Case Year Old.

The Colt case, after a year of preliminary negotiating, finally reached Richberg last month from the National Labor board. The labor board claimed the company had refused to bargain collectively in good faith with its employés and asked Richberg to snatch the eagle as punishment.

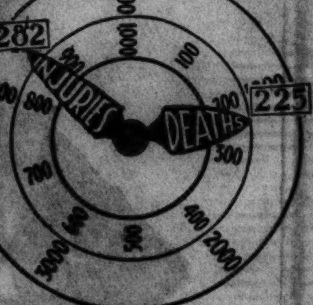
Within 10 days the eagle was snatched, but Richberg then held up the notice of this fact until yesterday. This unique procedure has led to the criticism that Richberg favored the Colt company.

Washburne Continuation School Praised by U. S.

The Washburne continuation school, 655 West 14th street, was called the finest of its type in the country yesterday by R. V. Billington, chief of industrial education, United States department of education. He spoke before delegates to the industrial education conference in session at the Hotel Sherman. Mr. Billington said: "The students turned out at the Washburne schools have no trouble finding positions in industry because they are skilled artisans in their trades."

HANDS OF DEATH

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

2 PEDESTRIANS HIT BY AUTOS DIE OF INJURIES

Albert Lang, 80 years old, died in the Henrotin hospital yesterday of injuries incurred Monday afternoon when he walked into the side of a taxicab in front of his home at 1026 North Clark street. Milton Mehel, 42 years old, 4454 North Lawndale avenue, was driver of the cab.

Fred Taylor, 45 years old, 2420 South La Salle street, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by an automobile at 24th street and Wentworth avenue. The driver fled after the accident. Taylor, whose identity was established through a relief card, died soon afterward.

These deaths increased to 277 the number of fatalities in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Until 4 p. m. yesterday the trafic toll within the Chicago city limits this year stood at 225, with 4,282 injured.

REPORT ELECTION PETITION SHORT 66 SIGNATURES

County Judge Jarecki made public yesterday the report of an investigation which showed that the nominating petition of Charles W. O'Brien Jr. for alderman of the Seventh ward had been disqualified by the election board because it was 66 names short of the required number of signers and not because affidavits which attacked the petition contained forged names.

O'Brien had charged that his name was kept off the Democratic ballot by the use of fraudulent affidavits. He charged that the affidavits had been prepared by James W. Ryan, chief deputy clerk in the county clerk's office. Yesterday Ryan denied he had any connection with the affidavits.

SCARLET FEVER CLOSES SCHOOLS IN LIBERTYVILLE

Three grade schools in Libertyville were closed yesterday by order of the village health officer, Dr. Charles O. Edwards, because of scarlet fever. Ten cases have appeared among the pupils. The motion picture theater in the village and all Sunday schools also were closed.

Schools in Lake Forest and Lake Bluff, closed on April 8 to prevent the spread of measles, will open next week, those in Lake Forest on Monday and in Lake Bluff on Wednesday.

There were more than 100 cases of measles in the two suburbs, but Dr. A. J. Rissinger, health officer for both, said yesterday that the situation was much improved.

"EASTER GREETINGS"

SENATE PASSES BILL TO TIGHTEN SMALL LOAN LAW

Also Okays Mayor Kelly's Home Rule Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 18.—[Special.]—Reforms of the small loan law proposed by the department of insurance were approved by the senate today, 28 to 11. The upper house passed the bill without discussion.

Before adjourning for the week-end recess, the senate also passed Mayor Kelly's bill to give Chicago a measure of home rule in the control of public utilities. The vote on that bill was 26 to 3, objectors being Noah M. Mason [Rep., Oglesby], James S. Mundy [Dem., Marshall], and Jerome O'Connell [Dem., Morris].

Ward Handles Kelly Bill.

Mayor Kelly's bill was handled by Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], spokesman for the mayor in the senate. It would give the city complete power to permit or deny the use of Chicago streets to street car, bus or elevated companies, give it control over grade crossings, the Chicago Tunnel company, and gas, electricity and telephone companies.

Going now to the house, the bill will be handled there by Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago], the Democratic floor leader. Adamowski introduced an identical bill last Tuesday but since the senate measure has passed, it will be pushed and the house bill will be dropped.

Ward also was the sponsor of the small loan bill, the general provisions of which have been approved by the Russell Sage foundation and many other organizations which have fought "loan sharks" for years. Similar bills have been passed in Indiana, Wisconsin, Kentucky, and Iowa.

Tightens Supervision.

Paramount in its provisions is a section giving the insurance department the right of close supervision of loan companies. "Slick" operators who make loans now without a restraining power to control them would be put out of business if the bill becomes law, Ward said.

Rate reductions also are provided for. At present, the low permits concerns to charge 3½ per cent per month on loans up to $300. The Ward bill would cut this to 2½ per month on loans in excess of $100, the present rate continuing to apply on loans for less than that.

Another feature widely approved would force lenders to accept advance payments from a borrower, thus reducing interest costs. No such provision is now in the law. In the house the Ward bill will be handled by Joseph L. Rategan [Dem., Chicago].

Union Head Charges False Arrest; Sues for $25,000

James Cuba, president of the Chicago Excavating, Paving, and Grading Teamsters' union, local 731, filed suit for $25,000 damages in the Circuit court yesterday, charging false arrest, against Lieut. Frank Stevens, Policemen Joseph Burke and Lawrence Redelan, and Anton Plebanek, 2434 West 24th place, a butcher. Cuba was freed on a directed verdict by Judge John C. Lewe in January after being charged with being one of four men who robbed Plebanek of $389.

FORMER FEDERAL RECEIVER LOSES MOTION IN SUIT

Federal Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger of Milwaukee, sitting in the federal court here, yesterday overruled a demurrer to a suit brought on behalf of 124 bankrupt estates to recover $240,000 from Sam Howard, former federal receiver, and his surety, the Continental Casualty company, 910 South Michigan avenue.

Chester A. Willoughby, who has replaced Howard as trustee for the properties, filed the suit to recover on deposits made by Howard in the Phillip State Bank and Trust company, which closed in 1932 with losses of $418,000 to the estates. Howard was bonded only for $240,000. Willoughby has already recovered $50,000 which the bank had scheduled as surety.

Counsel for Willoughby allege that Howard was negligent in failing to withdraw the deposits when he knew, or had reason to know, that the bank was in an unsafe condition.

Attorneys for Howard and the surety company argued that Howard was never asked to investigate the condition of the bank inasmuch as the institution had been designated as a regular depository by the federal court. The case is expected to go to trial in the fall.

DIES AFTER FALL ON ICE.

Injuries incurred in a fall on the ice Dec. 21 caused the death in the county hospital yesterday of Peter Green, 74 years old, 14200 Wallace street, Ivanhoe.

SENATE VOTES TODAY ON NEW FARM FINANCING

Bill Would Create Vast Corporation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—The senate debated today, and probably will pass tomorrow a bill that will lay the groundwork of a vast federal overlordship of the land resources of the nation and create, at the same time, a new burocracy like the HOLC and the other major alphabetical agencies of the New Deal. It is the Bankhead bill to create the Farmers Home corporation, FHC, with a $50,000,000 capitalization from the new work relief fund and a fully guaranteed bond issue of one billion dollars.

In the sense that it will operate with bonds, guaranteed as to principal and interest by the government, it is similar to the Home Owners' Loan corporation, which has a bonding limit of 3¾ billions, and the federal land banks, with a bonding limit of 2½ billions. These lending agencies, however, merely refinance mortgages, while the FHC would buy land and equipment for farm tenants and share croppers and sell it on a 60 year amortization basis.

Immediate Vote Blocked.

The bill probably would have passed in the senate but for the efforts of Senators Ellison D. Smith [Dem., S. C.] and Josiah W. Bailey [Dem., N. C.], who wouldn't permit a vote because they were afraid Senator Edward P. Costigan [Radical Dem., Colo.] was going to call up his anti-lynching bill. Senator Bailey began his address by reading selected chapters from the Book of Genesis.

Both Smith and Bailey are opposed to the Bankhead bill, but it has the enthusiastic support of Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas and the radical senate bloc headed by George W. Norris of Nebraska.

The author of the bill, Senator John H. Bankhead [Dem., Ala.], fathered the disastrous cotton limitation law which, together with the operations of the AAA, has virtually destroyed the cotton export market and paralyzed the cotton textile industry, to the benefit of Brazil on the one hand and Japan on the other.

Poem Used as Defense.

Senator Bankhead, an uncle of the glamorous Tallulah but a critic of the arts in his own right, defended his bill by reading a poem from a woman in Georgia, after due apologies for "the crudity of its poetic form and language." That little pastoral written by the humble wife of a tenant farmer, he said, told the whole story of his program. Bald and bulldog-faced, the senator read with great feeling:

"O, Mr. Bankhead, I've always wanted a home,
But over the country I've had to roam.
We've rented land here, we've rented land there,
In fact, we have lived just anywhere.
We have farmed on halves and hired, you know.
We are most naked, I'm barefoot myself."

The poem goes on to describe the carefree pranks of the oldest son, 14; Louise, 6; little Max, just 3, and "last but not least the twins," Rachel, the girl, and Sidney, the boy, and ends with another appropriate tribute to Mr. Bankhead.

Demands Loan Limitation.

Senator Thomas P. Gore [Dem., Okla.], assailing the bill as an unwaranted opening of the treasury door to all comers, demanded that some limitation be placed on the amount of money a farmer could borrow and the amount of the acreage that he could purchase.

"If a man can't make a living on 40 acres anywhere in the United States the experiment ought not to be undertaken on that kind of land," Senator Gore said. His plea went in vain, however, for Senators Robinson and Norris contended that farm conditions were too diverse to permit uniform standards. Senator Norris grew eloquent as he described the Utopian possibilities of the scheme and recalled similar experiments in Australia and California.

Tells California Experiment.

"The state of California," he said, "did, to quite an extent, the same thing that the government of Australia had done. They borrowed money, bought a ranch, we will say, and divided it up into farms. They usually got water on the land, leveled it off, paid all the incidental expenses, and then sold it to men who wanted farm homesteads.

"I believe that the experiments that they tried out resulted successfully. I do not see why, on a larger scale, this corporation could not carry out the same thing all over the United States."

Nobody rose to deny that the scheme might not be carried out "all over the United States," but Senator Gore warned that a "scandal" was brewing.

"If there is no limitation provided as to the area which the government may buy and cut up into farms and sell, we are opening wide the door to scandal," he said.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] said he wondered whether the government had been doing a favor to tenant farmers by converting them into proprietors, whether they would not immediately become candidates for cotton, corn-hog, and wheat benefits paid for the curtailment of their production. He also assailed the provision for capitalizing the proposed corporation with $50,000,000 from the 4 billion dollar work relief fund.

"I object to the use of one little portion of that greatest appropriation in the history of the world as a springboard for a billion dollar supplementary experiment," he said. "You already have 500 million dollars in that work relief bill dedicated to rural rehabilitation and now you want to issue bonds for another billion."

Lists Eight Farm Creditors.

Senator Vandenberg then enumerated eight separate agencies already engaged in lending money to farmers, each on different terms, as follows:

Federal Land banks, 4½ per cent, for thirty years, up to 50 per cent of the value; land bank commissioner, 5 per cent, ten to forty years, 75 per cent of value; Producers Credit association, 5 per cent for twelve months; Emergency Crop and Feed loans, 5 per cent for one year; Commodity Credit corporation, 4 per cent on cotton at 12 cents, and corn at 40 cents; Regional Agricultural Credit corporation, 6½ per cent [now in inquidation]; Subsistence Homesteads corporation, 3 per cent; loans to farm coöperatives under the marketing act of 1929 for as low as ½ of 1 per cent.

"Now we propose to set up a new corporation to make loans for sixty years at 3 per cent up to 100 per cent of the value," he said.

In addition to the 50 million dollar capitalization which the President is authorized to subscribe from the work relief fund, the capitalization may be increased from time to time by the board of directors, consisting of five members to receive $10,000 a year each. An increase in the bonding power, however, would require an amendment to the act, which congress has done for the HOLC on two occasions.

SECURITY BILL'S TAX FEATURE IS HOTLY ATTACKED

conservative Democrats. Among them was Representative Frank H. Buck [Dem., Cal]. The plan originated in California, and its staunchest supporters are in that state.

Move Toward Revolution.

"Authors of the scheme have conceded that it is an attempt to work an economic revolution," Buck contended, "and although a revolution would certainly result, it would be a revolt of every workingman against the plan."

Representative Charles V. Truax [Dem., O.] proposed capital tax levy on all incomes over $5,000 a year to finance the Townsend scheme. The Townsend plan lost, 206 nays to 56 yeas.

The Greenway-Scrugham amendment providing $5 from Uncle Sam to $1 from a state was beaten, 165 nays to 87 ayes. But that was the largest vote mustered for any amendment.

The Lundeen bill to tax wealth to raise 8 billion dollars a year to pay the unemployed prevailing wages obtained 158 nays to 40 years.

Chairman Doughton said to Ernest Lundeen [F.-L., Minn.], author of that bill: "You can't place all the taxes on wealth or wealth will disappear and then where will you be? We have federal, state, county, and city taxes, as well as taxes for the living and taxes for the dead."

Representative Clare Hoffman [Rep., Mich.] said old age pensions were not needed until the Democrats began to raid the national treasury.

HOODLUMS SHOOT OUT WINDOWS OF PACKING PLANT

Deering street police sought last night to solve the mysterious actions of a carload of hoodlums who on two occasions drove by the C. A. Burnette Packing company plant, 944 West 38th place, and fired blasts of shots at the building.

The car first appeared about 6 p. m. after the plant had closed. The first volley broke one window. Neighbors notified police. About 10 o'clock the car put in another appearance and the occupants shot out another window.

Police found the building locked and no watchman on duty. Efforts to find C. A. Burnette, the owner, were unsuccessful.

SEIZED ON CHILD'S CHARGE.

Andrew Evanchuk, 55 years old, 747 Temple street, was seized in his home by the Racine avenue police last night and identified by a girl 9 years old as the man who had attempted to attack her earlier in the evening.

GOV. TALMADGE DUBS ROOSEVELT STRONG RADICAL

Predicts Third Party in Field for 1936.

Atlanta, Ga., April 18.—(AP)—Referring to President Roosevelt as "an extreme radical," Gov. Eugene Talmadge today predicted a third party ticket in the 1936 general election.

The governor's criticism of the President brought almost immediate condemnation from leaders in the house at Washington, and Public Works Administrator Ickes announced cancelation of four Georgia allotments, totaling $210,000, because Talmadge had vetoed a bill to validate the sale of state highway certificates to the federal government.

"Any man who condones the NRA, the AAA and other things now going on in this country is a radical," Gov. Talmadge said.

Sees Only "Gimme Crowd."

"The greatest calamity to this country is that President Roosevelt can't walk around and hunt up people to talk to. He can only talk to those his secretaries and assistants allow to come in to see him—and 99 per cent is the 'gimme' crowd."

The governor flung pointed remarks at the national administration in general, including some of the officials, and predicted the "New Deal" government would end within a year and a half.

Interrogated about a third party, he replied "there probably will be" one in the United States next year. Asked directly if he would head a third party, the governor answered:

"The real fight in this country is Americanism versus communism mixed up with some kind of crazy 'gimme.'" He did not elaborate further.

Next President A Worker.

"The next President who goes into the White House," Governor Talmadge continued, "will be a man who knows what it is to work in the sun fourteen hours a day.

"That man will be able to walk a two-by-four plank, too."

The governor centered his previous attacks on Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Relief Administrator Hopkins. Today he rung in Rexford G. Tugwell, undersecretary to Wallace.

The governor said he knew very little about Tugwell but added: "They tell me he's poison ivy to the farmers." As to Wallace:

"What they ought to do with him, if he is to remain secretary of agriculture, is sentence him to two years behind the plow with a 12,000 pound mule and a good stiff boss to make him turn around at the end of the row and hustle back."

House Leaders Stirred.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—(AP)—House leaders vigorously condemned today the assertions by Gov. Talmadge of Georgia that President Roosevelt is a radical and that there would be a third party next year.

Representative O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.], rules committee chairman, said:

"Any man who would make that personal reference to our President is unfit to be elected a dog catcher, let alone governor of one of the greatest states of the union."

Speaker Byrns:

"Few people will approve of what Gov. Talmadge had to say about the President, who enjoys the confidence of the country, and under whose leadership the country is fast climbing back to prosperity."

11 SHARE REWARD FOR CAPTURE OF BANDIT KILLERS

Ten policemen and a fireman last night were given shares of a $306 community reward for the capture of three young robbers who last Jan. 31 killed Mrs. Anna Schmitt in her bakery at 7745 South Halsted street.

The money was distributed from the stage of the Capitol theater by United States Marshal William H. McDonnell. Fireman Peter Sperling was given $125 and the remainder was divided among Police Captain John Norton, Lieut. John Hardy, Sergt. Albert Woodrick, and Detectives Thomas Torpy, Edward Henning, George Miller, John Touhy, Joseph Lenert, Henry Goebel, and Stewart McCutcheon.

The reward money was donated by business men of the Auburn Park district. The three youths who confessed the murder and who are now serving terms in Joliet penitentiary are Peter Sinkus, Ray Halverson, and Joseph Zvirblis.

G. O. P. CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS WILL START AT ONCE

Getz Tells Drive Plans in Illinois.

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—Republican leaders from five states meeting here today with Henry P. Fletcher, national chairman, set Monday for the opening of a drive for funds with which to rehabilitate the party for the 1936 campaign. Fixing a quota of $250,000 for New York county, the officials said solicitation will follow in upstate New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, and New Jersey shortly.

Half of the money collected in this drive is to be retained by the state and local organizations. "Strength of the party lies in the wards and precincts, and they must have money to carry on in 1935," Fletcher told his conferees.

Chicagoans at Conference.

George F. Getz, national treasurer, and his assistant, C. B. Goodspeed, both of Chicago, outlined their ideas for the campaign in Illinois.

Coincident with the campaign fund meeting today came speculation concerning the political future of Herbert Hoover, whose recent cross-country trips have been followed by much Republican activity. That the former President can do nothing to affect his political destiny was the opinion emanating from G. O. P. ranks.

William Allen White, Emporia, Kas., publisher, in New York to attend a meeting of editors, declared Mr. Hoover will remain impossible or become inevitable. "The Hoover curve may be upward; it cannot be downward, and it may be a straight line," he said.

Favor Regional Meetings.

White and Henry J. Allen, former Republican senator from Kansas, discussed projected regional meetings of Republicans, particularly a meeting in Kansas of Republicans from a dozen midwestern states and both agreed the meeting should be held. White added:

"Response of Republicans to this suggestion for meetings shows how deeply the people feel about the whole business. The regional meetings should develop, out of this feeling of bewilderment, some real thinking on the subject of revamping the party for 1936.

"And this is dead sure: When any thinking is done politically in this country, the Republicans will do it. No one can presage tomorrow's issues, but these regional meetings may develop a creed.

Basic Cures Lacking.

"No one will pretend that these Rooseveltian court plasters, liniments, massages and physic shots in the arm are basic cures for a disease which has not even been diagnosed."

New Deal policies came in for further attack today when Dr. Ray B. Westerfield, professor of political economy at Yale and member of the American Liberty league's national advisory council, declared in an address that "it appears that unless some unforeseen preventives are originated we are faced with an inflation that will exceed anything our country ever experienced."

Dr. Westerfield declared any gains made by farmers, manufacturers, speculators and profiteers under the present setup would be at the expense of other people. Salaried persons and wage earners would suffer and those who pay them would benefit because they would pay less actual value.

Policeman Loses Job for Accepting $2 Bribe

Policeman Joseph J. Niemtus, 5622 Miltimore avenue, assigned to the Irving Park station, was dismissed from the force by the civil service commission yesterday. He was charged with receiving a $2 bribe from a motorist, intoxication while on duty, conduct unbecoming an officer, and leaving his post without permission.

DR. ICKES FINDS REAL CAUSE OF HUEY'S VAPORING

'Halitosis of the Intellect, if Any,' He Asserts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. [Call Me Honest] Ickes today resumed his attack on Senator Huey [Call Me Kingfish] Long over the Public Works administration in Louisiana.

"The trouble with Huey," Secretary Ickes said, "is that he is suffering from halitosis of the intellect, presuming that he has one."

In addition to renewing his attack on Senator Long, Ickes also aimed a few barbs at Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, another critic of the administration. He declared that Gov. Talmadge "does not know how to do business with the administration."

Admits Tirade Inspired.

Asked if his verbal duel with Long were personal or dictated by the White House, Secretary Ickes said:

"When I used to read 'Ivanhoe' you didn't enter the lists except under certain conditions."

Ickes announced that he was holding up approval of several new Louisiana PWA projects, totaling $248,000. He also said he was withholding approval of Georgia projects totaling $218,000 because Gov. Talmadge had vetoed a bill to validate the sale of state highway certificates to the federal government.

"At the rate the 'emperor of Louisiana' is going," Ickes said, "he will soon have a considerable share-the-unemployment program going in his state."

The secretary referred to his threat to rescind PWA allotments to Louisiana because the state legislature passed Long's proposal to place control of federal construction and relief money under the Long dictated machine.

How About Bodyguards?

Told that Senator Long had promised to "nail his ears back" in the senate next Monday, Ickes' reply was another question.

"With or without bodyguards?" he asked. "I'm not making any boasts. I wouldn't attempt to meet Emperor Long in any combat of objurgations and expletives."

After the conference newspapermen cornered Ickes' press staf in an effort to determine authorship of the remark on Long's "halitosis." The newspapermen argued that the remark was too sparkling to be of Ickes' own coining. The press agents merely smiled.

Another administration official, Federal Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins, was silent on his battle with Long. Hopkins, who met Long's attempt to seize control of relief funds in Louisiana by putting in his own state director, said he was going to keep right on administering relief in Long's state.

State to Have No Say.

Hopkins said his new Louisiana administrator, Frank Peterman, will "continue to spend relief money himself and none of it will go through the state administration."

He added that he was "not worried at all" over the action of the Long dictated legislature in making Peterman criminally liable if he distributed relief money without allowing Long's organization to administer the funds.

Hopkins refused to be drawn into an attack on Long. He characterized his replacement of former State Administrator Harry J. Early as being made "to improve a lot of details in distribution of unemployment aid."

Huey Dislikes Diagnosis.

Baton Rouge, La., April 18.—[Special.]—Smarting under Secretary Ickes' verbal shaft that he was "suffering from halitosis of the intellect," Senator Huey P. Long prepared today to return to Washington to answer his antagonist.

Meanwhile, the Louisiana legislature pushed the Kingfish's bills toward final passage in the face of threats from Secretary Ickes that he will withold federal funds from the state.

Sweeping aside all opposition, both houses of the legislature were put through their paces in the routine of enacting into law bills which have brought the fresh outbreak in the Louisiana "dictator's" war with the Roosevelt administration.

The senate finance committee quickly approved Long's bills designed to place supervision of federal expenditures under a state board, block New Orleans refinancing in federal court, and compel the appointment of elections officials by Long's fief holder, Gov. O. K. Allen.

'SCIENTIFIC TWINS' AT BIRTHDAY PARTY, AND DOES TRAINING TELL!

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—Jimmy and Johnny Woods, twins who for their first two years were subjects of scientific experiment at the Normal Child Development clinic of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical center, saw their first circus today as as part of the celebration of their third birthday.

Johnny Woods was given the benefit of expert training in behavior in the clinic. Jimmy was allowed to go his own willful way. But the effect of the experiment was scarcely discernible in their attitudes toward the greatest show on earth. Neither paid much attention to it.

ICKES PENS 500 BILLS FOR STATES TO GET PWA CASH

Broadens Participation in Work Relief Plans.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—(AP)—A statement by Secretary Ickes that the Public Works administration had drafted 500 proposed state bills designed to permit broader participation in the work-relief program today topped disclosures of the plan to put 3,500,000 to work.

President Roosevelt continued conferences with leading officials, but a definite time for the four billion dollar appropriation to go to work remained unannounced. Ickes said, however, that the Public Works administration was ready for its part.

Complete Idle Census in Fall.

Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, said that an already existing survey of the relief population and for what work it was best suited would form the basis for the start of the program. A census of the unemployed will not be completed until fall.

Ickes said suggested bills had been submitted to the legislatures of every state except Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Virginia, where "the legislatures have not been in session or because no bills were requested."

As an example of the legislation, Ickes said one state had received these bills:

Clarifying authority for cities and political subdivisions to undertake PWA projects; authorizing issuance of bonds secured only from revenues of the projects; validating loan and grant agreements with PWA; setting up state rural electrification authorities and authorizing setting up power districts or farmers' electric membership corporations.

Finance Transmission Lines.

The work act authorizes expenditures of 100 million dollars for rural electrification. State authorities would be privileged to finance transmission lines from bonds payable from revenues.

Hopkins set out today to quash all talk about whether the relief administration will pay back 262 million dollars of public works funds used during the delay in passing the work-relief bill.

For weeks Secretary Ickes had been saying he expected to be "paid back," while Hopkins was equally insistent he wouldn't.

Hopkins announced today:

FRED A. POOR BETTER; TO QUIT HOSPITAL SOON

Miami, Fla., April 18.—[Special.]—Fred Arthur Poor, president of Poor & Co., Chicago railway supply manufacturers, who was injured in a fall from a horse at the polo grounds in Miami Beach on March 4, was reported today to be well on the way to recovery. He is at the St. Francis hospital.

Mr. Poor had pneumonia following the accident and an operation on his jaw. Dr. Cayepone Panettiere, attending physician, said there would be no disfigurement from the operation. Mr. Poor probably will leave the hospital within three weeks.

Mr. Poor was riding with David J. Molloy of Lake Forest, Ill., where Mr. Poor has a summer home, at the time of the accident.

River Hermit's Body Found Floating at Rock Island

Rock Island, Ill., April 18.—[Special.]—Although he had money in a Davenport bank, Wesley Holeb, 68, estranged from his wife and family, lived in a houseboat on the Mississippi river. He made no friends. His body was found floating near his half submerged boat. It was not known whether he dived into the river or was drowned while fishing.

SOLEMN WORSHIP TO MARK CLIMAX OF LENT TODAY

Many Churches Will Hold Good Friday Services.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Lent enters its closing 24 hour period at noon today, but that hour will find the devout Christian engaged in his most intense spiritual exercise of the season. While the discipline of Lent is withdrawn at noon tomorrow—the beginning of the eve of Easter—yet today, Good Friday, is marked by three hours' devotion of the cross, the most somber period of Lent. Hundreds of Chicago churches of all names will observe the three hour period from noon until 3 p. m. Many churches will hold special night services.

Last night Cardinal Mundelein presided at special services known as tenebrae in Holy Name cathedral. This service, conducted on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights in Holy week, symbolizes the church's grief at this particular time of the ecclesiastical year. By means of 15 candles which are extinguished one by one, leaving the church finally in darkness, the desertion of Christ by the first apostles is symbolized.

Protestants Plan Services.

While tre ore, or three hour, services commemorating the agony of Christ on the cross will be held in all Catholic churches and in an increasing number of Protestant churches, main religious attention of Protestants in the city will center at the Chicago temple, 77 West Washington street, where the three hours are conducted under auspices of the Chicago Church federation. Seven well known pastors will offer meditation on the seven last words of Christ on the cross.

In many metropolitan communities union three hour services will be conducted in centrally situated edifices. A dozen or more churches of the midway section will unite at a service beginning at noon in the University of Chicago chapel. Dr. Albert W. Palmer will be the preacher.

Forty-six churches in Englewood will unite in the ninth annual three hour service conducted under auspices of the Englewood council of churches. Services in three sections will be held at the Englewood Methodist church, 64th street and Stewart avenue; Calvary Methodist church, 78th and Morgan streets, and Ashland Church of Christ, 42d and Laflin streets. Nine churches will combine in three hour services at the Grove theater, 76th street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Episcopal Musical Service.

Many Episcopal churches, in addition to the three hour services, will also hold Good Friday musical services tonight. The Rev. Dudley Scott Stark, of St. Chrysostoms church, 1424 Dearborn parkway, announced that Arthur Kraft will assist the parish choir in presenting "The Seven Last Words," by Dubois tonight at 8:15. A similar service will be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the Kenwood church, Greenwood avenue and 46th street, where "The Seven Last Words" will also be sung.

Catholic loop workers will attend tre ore services at Old St. Mary's church, 9th street and Wabash avenue; at Old St. Patrick's, Adams and Des Plaines streets, and St. Peter's, Polk street at Clark. Tre ore meditations will also be conducted at St. Patrick's from 6 to 9 p. m. Downtown Episcopalians will make their way to the Cathedral Shelter, Washington and Peoria streets, where Canon David E. Gibson has announced services from noon to 3 o'clock.

Legion to Retain 'Comrade,' Even If Reds Use It, Too

Indianapolis, Ind., April 18.—[Special.]—Efforts to substitute "buddy" for "comrade" in the American Legion ritual, because Reds calls each other "comrade," is not receiving serious consideration at the Legion national headquarters here. With the Legion aggressively opposed to communism and similar tenets, several had urged that "comrade" be dropped.

NEW COMMANDER OF COAST GUARD ARRIVES IN CITY

Capt. Le Roy Reinburg arrived in Chicago yesterday to take command of the Chicago division of the United States coast guard comprising fifty-two stations along the shores of Lakes Michigan, Huron, and Superior. He relieves E. A. Coffin, who has been acting commander of the division and recently was appointed chief of staf of the service in this district.

Capt. Reinburg has been in the coast guard service for thirty-three years. His father came to Chicago after leaving the United States navy after the civil war and entered the real estate business here. Capt. Reinburg was graduated in 1905 from the United States Coast Guard academy, New Haven, Conn. In 1910 he served eight months as supervisor of anchorage here.

Before his appointment here, Capt. Reinburg was in charge of the public relations department of the coast guard service at Washington, D. C.

Accompanying him to Chicago were his wife and three children, Virginia, 15 years old; LeRoy Jr., 11, and Eleanore, 2.

EXPLODE BOMBS IN SPAIN TO STOP HOLY WEEK RITES

Terrorists Kill One and Wound Two.

SARAGOSSA, Spain, April 18.—(AP)—Bombs set off by terrorists tonight in an asserted effort to hinder tomorrow's Holy week procession killed one man and wounded two.

A note issued by the governor of Saragossa province said the terrorist plot was engineered by anarcho-syndicalist leaders with the purpose of halting the procession. Nevertheless, it will be held, he asserted.

Four bombs exploded in different parts of the city, two near the Church of San Pablo.

Headquarters of the radical national labor confederation are here, and the governor's note accused the anarcho-syndicalists of plotting in Saragossa recent terroristic acts in Barcelona. Seventy were arrested in connection with the plot.

Priests Prepare Altar Stone.

VATICAN CITY, April 18.—(AP)—A solemn procession of priests passed before the central altar of St. Peter's basilica this evening to bathe the altar stone in preparation for tomorrow's anniversary of Christ's passion and death.

The ablutions were of wine and water which symbolized the blood and water that flowed from Christ's side as he hung on the cross.

Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state and high priest of the basilica, conducted the ceremonies with the assistance of the priests.

At sundown these canons carried eight chalices, seven of crystal and one of gilded metal, into the cathedral. They passed around the altar, which was bared of all coverings and ornaments, and poured wine and water on the altar stone. Then each performed the purification with the aspergillum.

Use Sacred Lance.

The liquid was then wiped from the altar stone with sponges and the procession moved to the center of the nave, where a blessing was imparted with the use of reputed portions of the cross, the lance with which the centurion pierced the Savior's side and the holy veil of Veronica.

This morning the holy eucharist was removed from the altar and carried in procession to an altar of repose as part of the holy Thursday ceremonies.

In the early afternoon worshippers at St. Peter's saw another traditional holy Thursday ceremony. The cardinal grand penitentiary seated himself at the tribunal of penitence and heard the confessions of confessor priests of the basilica. The grand penitentiary tapped each confessor on the head with a long wand in commemoration of the penance which in olden times was done in public.

After a brief period of ringing the "Gloria in Excelsis" this morning, the bells of Rome's 400 churches were muted today. They will remain so over Good Friday, to ring out again at noon on Holy Saturday to prepare the faithful for the resurrection.

CHILDREN OF CHICAGO PREPARE FOR EASTER AND HUNT FOR EGGS

At the Children's Memorial hospital, Fullerton avenue and Halsted street, Miss Anne Smith, recreational director, assisted by three volunteer public school teachers, wheeled a cart of eggs and dyes to the bedside of each of the 150 young patients and helped them to color the eggs. On Easter morning the eggs will be tucked about them in their beds and each child will have his own egg hunt among his blankets.

Preparations for an Easter egg hunt in Sherman park, 53d street and Racine avenue, to which all south town children under 15 years old are invited were going forward yesterday. Two thousand decorated eggs will be hidden, and at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon a bell will start the youngsters on their search. Seventy-five of the eggs will be numbered and the finders will be given prizes.

Easter Flowers Telegraphed All Over the World

There is no material thing that can quite express the fullness of the meaning of Easter. Flowers, in full bloom—Nature's way of coming to perfection—are faithful interpreters of the true beauty of Easter. . . Easter flowers bring peace and happiness to all people—even to the humblest home. As gifts they silently say words no poet could utter. This year Easter flowers will bring great joy to the world because Nature has seemed to provide an abundance of floral beauty when the world so sorely needs it.

BARKER LAWYER TELLS OF ACTING FOR MERCHANTS

'Got To' Red, Milton Smith Testifies in T-N-T Trial.

Milton D. Smith, former assistant state's attorney, testified yesterday that he found it profitable to be an attorney for George [Red] Barker, slain hoodlum. Attorney Smith was a witness in Judge Michael Feinberg's Criminal court in the trial of eleven business men and union officials who are charged with conspiracy in connection with the operation of the Trucking and Transportation exchange [T-N-T].

The attorney said that his law firm not only represented Barker but also received a fee from a group of independent coal merchants who wished to ask the hoodlum not to make them join "any association."

Recounts Meeting with Two Merchants.

In the spring of 1932, Attorney Smith related, he was summoned to the office of Attorney Sam Weinshenker, who introduced him to Joseph J. Heritage and Sidney Gordon, independent coal dealers. Heritage and Gordon, Smith testified, wished to "get to" Barker, who, the state now charges, was boss of the T-N-T. Attorney Smith asserted that he agreed to talk to his client, Barker, on behalf of the independents. For this service, he said, the merchants paid him a fee.

"I went to Barker's office in the 1 North La Salle building and told him that I represented a group of independent coal merchants, who came to me through another attorney," Smith testified.

"I told Barker that the independent coal men did not want to join any truck owners' association [presumably the T-N-T] because they felt that it was controled by the big fellows in the trade, who through the organization could force the independents into line on prices and other matters. I asked him if it would be all right for the independent to wait until after all the big fellows were actually in the organization before the Independents would be called on to make a decision as to whether they wanted to join.

Joining Just Delayed.

"Barker said to me, 'Who do you represent, me or the coal men?'" continued Attorney Smith. "He finally said it would be O. K. for the independents to wait and I so reported to them and collected my fee."

Heritage testified earlier in the day that subsequently he was approached by Daniel Cain, brother-in-law of Barker, who sent him to the Chicago Coal Teamsters' union where he was invited to join the T-N-T. He refused and a strike was called, he testified. He joined the T-N-T, he said, and the strike was called off.

Yesterday's session of the trial ended with a spicy argument between Assistant State's Attorney Donald Thompson and Defense Attorney Joseph Harrington. This dispute arose when Edward R. Miller, a driver for Heritage, was being cross-examined. Miller's direct testimony was that he went on strike in 1932 when two unidentified gunmen told him to stop work.

The Testimony Before the Clash.

"One of the men showed me a gun in his pocket and said 'No work today,'" testified Miller. "I asked him who he was and he said 'Report to the union hall and you will find out.' I did not work for three days and when we started again I found that T-N-T tags were on our trucks."

Chief Defense Attorney Benedict J. Short took the witness on cross-examination. The chauffeur became confused when asked for details and finally blurted out that "Prosecutor Thompson was the first one to suggest to me about the gun." He did not know, he said, how Thompson knew about the incident.

"It never happened at all," said Attorney Harrington in a stage whisper which could be heard throughout the courtroom. The prosecutor and Harrington immediately engaged in a verbal clash, which ended with Judge Feinberg telling Harrington that his remark "was highly improper."

2,501 MORE CAR OWNERS HANDED 'TAG SUMMONS'

The police, continuing their campaign against unlicensed automobiles, issued 2,276 summonses to motorists lacking city windshield stickers and 225 to those without 1935 state plates, yesterday.

Last night, ending the third day of the drive, the total number of drivers who had been tagged since Tuesday morning was estimated at 13,000. At the city collector's office in the city hall and at Secretary of State Hughes' office at 120 South Ashland avenue there was another busy day, with automobile owners paying fees that were due on Jan. 1, but on which no enforcement was attempted until the political campaigns were ended.

NUDISTS SCOFF AT LAW THREAT TO COVER THEM

New York, April 18.—(AP)—Undaunted by threats of restrictive legislation, the nation's million or more practicing nudists are going ahead with militant plans for the summer season in eighteen states, their leader said tonight.

The Rev. Ilsley Boone, Baptist minister who is spokesman for the international nudist conference in this country, said more than 3,000,000 Americans now are supporters of nudism, but that not all of them practice it.

Meantime, he is preparing for tests of the bill passed by the New York legislature prohibiting gatherings of three or more nude persons—in the event that Gov. Herbert H. Lehman signs it, and is directing a campaign against a similar measure in Michigan.

The conference now has fifty-one organizations listed with it, almost double the number last year. Nearly all of the organizations have their secluded camp properties, where members live, discarding clothing, he said.

COLLEGE HEADS WELCOME QUIZ ON RADICALISM

Hutchins Asserts U. of C. Will Be Vindicated.

An investigation of radicalism in Illinois colleges and universities by a committee of five state senators was "welcomed" yesterday by the presidents of Northwestern university, the University of Chicago, and the University of Illinois. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, declared the inquiry will vindicate his institution, which has been the chief target in accusations of radical activities.

In Springfield, where the state senate on Wednesday night voted the investigation, Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan said he would name the committee of five senators next Wednesday. Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] is being considered for the chairmanship of the committee. State Senator Charles Baker [Rep., Monroe Center], sponsor of the resolution authorizing the inquiry, will by legislative custom be a member.

Result of Walgreen Charges.

The investigation is the outgrowth of the withdrawal of Miss Lucille Norton, a freshman on the Midway, from her classes at the instance of her uncle, Charles R. Walgreen, head of the drug store chain system. Mr. Walgreen charged that Miss Norton had been subjected to radical propaganda at the university and offered to submit evidence to an open meeting of the university trustees. This offer was rejected by President Hutchins.

The senatorial inquiry, however, will be welcomed by the university, President Hutchins said yesterday. Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, and Dr. Arthur Cutts Willard, president of the University of Illinois, likewise expressed their willingness to coöperate with the investigators and their assurance that the inquiry will fail to uncover radicalism at Evanston or Champaign.

Hutchins Explains His Views.

Dr. Hutchins, for the first time since the Walgreen incident. expressed in detail the view of the University of Chicago in a radio address yesterday.

"Freedom of inquiry, freedom of discussion and freedom of teaching—without these a university cannot exist," Dr. Hutchins said. "Without these a university becomes a political party or an agency of propaganda. The university exists only to find and to communicate the truth."

The present protest against radical teachings, he said, was but a repetition of other attacks upon academic freedom. The same charge of "corrupting the youth" that has been made against present day professors was that on which Socrates was condemned to die in ancient Greece, he declared.

Knows No "Red" Professor.

"I have never been able to find a Red professor," Dr. Hutchins continued. "I have met many who were conservative and some who would admit that they were reactionary. I have never met one who hoped to improve present conditions through the overthrow of the government by force.

"I have heard a great many times in recent years that more and more students were getting more and more Red. In universities that are intelligently conducted I do not believe it. They way to make students Red is to suppress them. I venture to suggest the value of encouraging intelligent, calm and dispassionate inquiry into methods of bringing order out of chaos.

"Wherever freedom of inquiry, discussion and teaching have been abolished, freedom of the press, freedom of religion and freedom have been threatened or abolished, too. The universities of Russia have sunk to be mere mouthpieces of the ruling party. In Italy, only those doctrins which the government approves may be expounded. The universities of Germany are now a mere shadow, because their freedom is gone. These are the ways of communism and fascism."

JOBLESS WORKMAN ENDS LIFE.

Rehearing Will Be Sought on School Bonds' Validity

The board of education will ask the Illinois Supreme court for a rehearing in its June session on the decision handed down Wednesday denying the validity of bonds issued by the board to redeem outstanding tax anticipation warrants for 1928 and 1929. This was announced last night by Richard S. Folsom, attorney for the board. The court held unconstitutional the law, passed in 1933, under which the board authorized a $10,000,000 bond issue to retire the warrants. Folsom said the bonds have never been sold.

COURTNEY PICKS LIEUT. KELLY TO HEAD HIS POLICE

Acting Lieutenant Thomas J. Kelly of the state's attorney's police was appointed by State's Attorney Courtney yesterday to be chief investigator for his office. Lieut. Kelly succeeds Capt. Daniel Gilbert, who recently was named head of the uniformed division of the Chicago police.

Lieut. Kelly has been secretary to five police captains since he became a member of the Chicago force eleven years ago. Although he holds only a civil service rating on patrolman, he was appointed an acting lieutenant when he was assigned to the state's attorney's force to be secretary to Capt. Gilbert. While in that office Lieut. Kelly was in charge of the investigation of the $1,000,000 arson ring that was broken up last summer.

In commenting upon the appointment, Mr. Courtney said it was a "reward for good services." The prosecutor also praised Lieut. Frank Johnson of his staf, who was offered but refused the appointment.

Lieut. Kelly now will draw a captain's salary of $5,000 annually. He is 37 years old and lives with his wife and seven children at 1401 North Austin boulevard.

BUSES TO OPEN SERVICE SUNDAY ON HIGGINS ROAD

Feeder bus service on Higgins road and the Northwest highway will be opened by the Chicago Surface lines Sunday morning, the company announced yesterday. Both routes will start from the street car terminal at Milwaukee avenue and Higgins road and run to the city limits, the Northwest highway route at Ozark avenue, and the Higgins route at Canfield road. Transfers without added charge will be allowed between the buses and the Milwaukee avenue street cars.

The Greater Higgins Road Improvement association and 16 other community clubs will hold ceremonies celebrating the new service tomorrow afternoon at the Jefferson Park fieldhouse and at Raven street and the Northwest highway.

THE PERMANENT REGISTRATION BILLS.

The arguments presented to the legislature to compose an alibi for a failure to enact the permanent registration bills will not serve that purpose. The pretense that voters will be disfranchised in the enforcement of these measures will not bear reference to the proposed regulations. It is manipulated elections that disfranchise voters. What the bills will do is put reasonable checks upon fraudulent voting, and if buried it will be because of underground influences which do not wish to be deprived of the easy methods now practiced to win elections in spite of the voters or of patronage created by unnecessarily cumbersome registration machinery.

The attempt to smother safeguards to honest elections provided in the permanent registration bills is a brazen defiance of the whole body of reputable citizens. It is equivalent to telling them that the forces responsible do not intend to recognize the right of honest voters to have their will registered at the polls. The Democratic organization has won sweeping victories recently, but it has not been elected an autocratic ruler of the people, authorized to cancel honest votes with crooked. It is going to impose heavy taxes upon the people of the state and, to the extent that they are needed for relief and are honestly spent for that purpose, the people will bear the burden philosophically. But they will certainly resent the defeat of legislation which will lighten that burden—it has been officially estimated at a million dollars a year—and at the same time save the voter inconvenience and add some new safeguard against corrupt elections.

MAC ARTHUR ON FUTURE WARFARE.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staf of the army, has made about the first intelligent suggestion from high authority since the outbreak of the world war. It is a truism that generalship is usually thinking in terms of the last war, or even, as one military critic has insisted, in terms of the war before last. Gen. MacArthur is one of the few military thinkers whose minds and imaginations are not dominated by sacred formulas and who are thus incapable of drawing from experience the lessons it teaches in blood and failure. The unnecessary sacrifices imposed by military Bourbonism make a dreadful chapter in the history of every war, including the late war, which found in the high command on both sides military pundits who could not or would not face intelligently the radical changes in the conditions of warfare which the swift developments of science had brought about.

Kitchener, for example, and his military burocrats of the British war department refused for months to heed the appeals from the commander in the field for the high explosives necessary to deal with a deeply entrenched enemy. He had become famous for victories in open warfare, where shrapnel was effective. He had his story and he intended to stick to it. It was only after months of sacrifices for the fighting men and when the pressure of the highest civilian authority, with the weight of terrible facts, was applied that he modified his resistance. In due time he was unostentatiously sidetracked and his influence tragically quenched forever in the North sea. Even then he was superseded by generals no less stubborn and opinionated.

This experience of military Bourbonism was not confined to the British army and readers of the war records will be glad to find that there are forward looking men in the American army.

Gen. MacArthur's views of future warfare envisage a radical change of means and method, of equipment, and the tactics and strategy which it permits or imposes. He foresees a far greater mobility and the use of a relatively smaller though more powerful army. Mechanization and modernization will permit rapid movement and new weapons will greatly increase the efficiency of the soldier. There will be fewer frontal attacks, he predicts, and Americans who have read the history of the western front in the late war will hope he is right. In that ghastly stalemate, generalship seemed to have no better plan than to try to raise more soldiers than the machine gun could mow down. That was the policy of attrition which proposed to win the war by slaughtering more men than the enemy could contrive to do. A more hideous policy cannot be imagined and for the allies it was criminal folly, for it worked against them, since the enemy had more or better artillery, and, deeply entrenched in allied territory, had only to hold their own, exacting, it has been estimated, three casualties of the allies to two of their own. Fortunately for the allies the Germans finally returned to the offensive, which wasted their reserves, and with the aid of the fresh forces from America the balance was turned against them. But the war had become a vast shambles at the front and stupid, overweening burocracy in the high places at the rear.

Yet the Nye committee and the other proponents of war legislation are trying to put the whole war machine in a stupid and murderous strait-jacket.

Gen. MacArthur shows there is still opportunity for enterprise in generalship. If it can be encouraged and developed it will prevent or diminsh the sanguinary blunders of the great war. But the blundering will be repeated if the national defense act remains to put competent generalship in the background while the legislation devised by men like Nye disqualifies competent management of production and supply, substituting for it burocratic pig-headedness and political mismanagement.

THE CHICAGO FAIR.

The success of A Century of Progress has led many citizens to hope that something of the sort can be established as a permanent summertime attraction in Chicago. The plan to use a part of the Fair site for the purpose will be generally approved, provided the exposition is of the right character.

The kind of show desired will include industrial displays such as the automobile companies provided last summer. No mere industrial museum can ever present that kind of material so well, partly because the rapid changes in technology make the models of only a few years ago obsolete. The industrial nucleus of the fair could be changed from year to year. After automobiles, airplanes. After airplanes, agricultural machinery, railroad equipment, chemical products, and so on.

A fair built around such a nucleus could offer, in addition, high grade entertainment such as orchestral concerts and less high-brow attractions such as the villages and the Midway provided last summer.

To run a fair of desirable character requires a nonpolitical management. The reason A Century of Progress was a success in every sense and the Philadelphia fair a flop can be summarized in a sentence: the Chicago management was nonpolitical while the Philadelphia management was political. If a permanent fair is to be successful in Chicago, the first consideration should be to provide a management which will resemble that of A Century of Progress, the Art institute, the universities, the Field museum, the Brookfield zoo and the Planetarium. Control should be vested in a nonpolitical, self-perpetuating board of responsible citizens, owing no obligation to any politician or political organization.

The best citizens will be proud to serve if they have the assurance that their work will not be interfered with. Under political control, on the other hand, the fair must be expected to degenerate promptly into something frowsy and nauseous because of the customary political grabbing for jobs and gate receipts. To expect anything else would be to neglect the lessons of experience.

The bills now before the legislature authorizing the creation of exposition authorities, should be examined in the light of the principles here laid down. As the bills stand, the control is to be political. The trustees are to be appointed by the mayor, with the consent of the city council, for five year terms. That might not be disastrous with Mr. Kelly in the mayor's office, but he will have successors.

The first step toward the creation of a permanent fair should be the setting up of a nonpolitical self-perpetuating board of trustees upon which the powers of administration might then be conferred by legislative enactment. And as at best the enterprise is experimental, it should be expressly limited to a definite number of years. If it demonstrates its value this period can then be extended.

END OF A FOOLISH EXPERIMENT.

A resolution repealing the municipal income tax has just been passed by the New York City assembly without a dissenting vote. Mayor La Guardia, it was said, would promptly sign it, and probably has. The tax, which levied 15 per cent on the income taxes paid into the federal till, has not been enforced because of public protest and it was obviously advisable to get it off the books. The local inheritance tax, it is predicted, will soon follow it into the discard. They would have brought a rush of taxpayers out of the state. The Illinois assembly has shown its common sense by refusing similar exactions from the people of this state. New York has demonstrated the wisdom of our legislators' policy.

Editorial of the Day

DROP THE PROCESSING TAXES.

[Syracuse, N. Y., Post-Standard.]

Get rid of all processing taxes.

No more constructive suggestion for helping the country can be made at this time. Processing taxes add to costs the consumer must meet without actually helping farmers. Every Syracuse family must pay more for food because of these taxes.

Cotton growers and owners of textile mills are up in arms against the cotton processing tax, which is threatening to destroy the whole cotton industry, mainstay of the south. But why confine the opposition to the cotton industry?

Get rid of all processing taxes.

The processing tax is unsound. It seeks to force higher farm prices at the expense of the consumer. The levy is imposed upon the manufacturer, but he passes it on. Experience of the last two years has proved this to be true. The money is taken from the city family, but it does not help the farm family.

The unjust effect of the levy is particularly emphatic in New York. It not only takes money out of the pockets of New York consumers, it also takes money out of the pockets of New York farmers. This is so because consumers have less money with which to buy their products. If they must pay more for beef or pork or wheat or cotton out of their food budgets, they have less with which to buy milk and vegetables and maple sirup and honey and beans produced in this state.

The farmers of the country, even those receiving checks, are not actually helped. As long as the money is taken from consumers, as it is, the market for farm products is reduced. There is no creation of wealth, merely an unsound and unjust transfer of wealth.

Even more harmful, costs are pegged at levels that are too high. All of the products upon which processin gtaxes now are levied enter into world trade, the result being that the United States loses its share of this trade to other countries. It thus loses in demand both at home and abroad. There is nothing sound or wise about the AAA processing taxes and they should be abandoned.

THE DREAM

MATTHEW, XXVII., 19.

By Terry.

CLAUDIA:

Ever yon tumult rises, roar on roar.
Strange that such hate engulfs
One lowly Nazarene! O absent Pilate,
I pray the ægis of our divinities
Attend thy judgment in this night
So grave with omens. How yon light
Streams corpse-green in the lattices!
And all my thoughts are shroudish
And deathly, too. Uneasy is the home
Of wife whose husband serveth Cæsar.
Would we never had departed Rome
For this uncouth outpost, whose sun
But sets to usher sleepless night . . .

A VOICE:

Truth trembles on thy lips, O Claudia!
All suns have set to yield their grume
Unto this night. All Chaos,
Moons, bats, vampires and slimy things
Distill their rheum of foulest essences
For this. Doth sleep despite? Know now
This night hath Chronos outlawed sleep.
Lo, thrice hath the cock crowed,—
For even trusty Chanticler bewilders,
Awed by a Day without a dark or dawn:
Dumb yet full-knowing Time's pendulum
Stills in terror for the Timeless One!

CLAUDIA:

Nightmare 'thout end! Who art thou,—
Aloof in thy unnatural quietude,
In form so dark and fearful?

A VOICE:

I am the Summoner of the august Shades
Ferried this night o'er Charon's river
To witness for the Christ.

CLAUDIA:

What Christ? I own the gods of Rome.
Help, help, my Abigail!

THE SUMMONER:

Vain rings thy imperious bell, milady!
So calm, Claudia: tumult doth confuse;
And blind themselves, thy racial gods
But vest the soul with blindness.
Stark clarity is meet tonight for thee
Whose husband blindly weigheth Truth
'Gainst Error in Lithostrotos . . .
Come forth, great spirits,
By mystic Death unprisoned! Advance,
Blest Shades,—lest all hope fail,
And in our region starless
A dreader darkness fall! Speak ye,
Pale priestess of Demeter Chamyrne,
From whose somber orbs
One thousand human sacrifices
Have not seared all human tenderness:
Prophesy, O Sybil of Delphos!

THE SYBIL:

Within my cave of vapors dire
I saw fiercer than Prometheus' fire
Lambent on a Virgin's breast. Then
Pan and the gods died, one by one,
Before that one Lord of Life,
That Lamb pain-slain but never dying,
Yet e'er by Death made free.
I breathed Breath beyond all living;
I tasted Wisdom beyond words;
Wrapt high 'yond Olympian ecstasies,
My tongue shredded with prophecies,
With words more honeyed than the dew
Of rarest apple of Hesperides . . .
Yet no one heard,—unless a bird,
That 'scaping unto the blue empyrean
Tumbled its lay along an endless Day.

THE SUMMONER:

. . . And thou, shy poet of Mantua,
Whose eye pierced with prophecy
Foretold for Earth its Golden Age:
How scans thy Eclogue in this gloom?

VIRGIL:

The Child foretold by Cumæ's Sybil,
Heaven's offspring, Jove's great seed;
For Whom Apollo's commingled choirs
Sang sweetest pæan, and lion and lamb
Lay down beside as olden Eden sires;
With thorn, not arum, now encrowned
Treads His wine-press, mills His wheat
Unto most awful Blood and Meat.
Lo, how Creation quakes its dome:
Firmaments, continents, vasty deeps;
And hale oak sweats the dew of pain.
Wife of Pilatus, if bears oaken tree,
Pray it be acorns, nor Divinity . . . !

THE SUMMONER:

. . . Time ends. At postern gate
Clanks chain and armor. Mark well
This visitance, O Claudia! Farewell!

CLAUDIA:

. . . Dread within and dread without,
I saw their gaunt sad eyes look out;
So stood they all, e'en as thee,—
Fear-rooted in Eternity . . . !

PILATE (Entering):

She dreams! Wake, Claudia,—'tis I:
Pilate thy husband, and sore-wearied
Lawing the outlawed. We sup. Awake!

CLAUDIA:

O Pilate, whose husband words so oft
Do soothe my sad perplexities,
Judge not that Galilean! Last night
In vision, in imagery of the grave,
Came noble spirits; piteously prayed
Release of that just Jesus. Hear . . . !

PILATE:

. . . Thy dream was strange. A god!
Some say He is a fool. I do not know;
Save this night judging,
Myself by Him wast judged. If dream
Be true, and beyond the Stygian portal
He King is of the realms immortal,
Then sole in death, mayhap, may He
Outsnare Caiphas' cunning trap.
And you say well: A Galilean He, Whom
To judge is rightly Herod's province.
O subtle thought: Antipas judging,—
Pilate unpollute! Now for His embassy,
Trusting we to the imponderable Fates
Who despite even Rome and Cæsar
Weave inscrutably their looms . . . !

VITAMINS IN DRIED FRUITS.

The preservation of fruits, vegetables, and meats by drying, canning, etc., has become a worldwide industry of huge proportions. Preserved foods of wholesome character are now available to all households. Home canning is really unnecessary and probably is more expensive, although the flavor of the home canned article may seem better to some of us. We still surround "mother's" jellies, jams, and pickled peaches with fond gastronomic memories.

In our present day consciousness of vitamins and their importance the questions are often raised, "Are dried fruits as nutritious as fresh fruits?" "Have changes occurred in the drying process that render them less valuable as foods?" Ordinarily dried fruit costs less than an equal quantity of fresh fruit, particularly when fruits are not in season. For example, it requires 5½ pounds of fresh apricots to make one pound of the dried fruit.

A recent report, based upon experimental data, indicates that proper drying processes preserve a very high proportion of the vitamin content of fruits. Dried peaches, prunes, apricots, and grapes were tested for vitamins A, B, and C. Following careful feeding experiments in which white rats were used (inasmuch as this particular animal is susceptible to slight variations in vitamins) it was shown that from 86 to 100 per cent of the vitamin A content was retained in peaches, whether sun dried or dehydrated (water extracted by currents of dry air). In prunes that were treated with sulphur dioxide gas and dehydrated 91 per cent of vitamin A remained, but in unsulphured and sun dried prunes only 43 per cent was preserved. Apricots showed the lowest retention of vitamin A of any fruit, varying from 16 to 51 per cent.

Apparently the use of sulphur dioxide gas is not deleterious. In addition to its value as a preservative the sulphuring process kills any insects that may be present, prevents fermentation during drying, and in most fruits conserves vitamins A and C.

On the contrary raisins lost a large proportion of their vitamin B when treated with sulphur dioxide gas. During the drying process only one-half the vitamin B is retained under the best conditions. In unsulphured peaches only 30 to 56 per cent of vitamin B remained. Dried fruits, therefore, cannot be considered a substantial source of vitamin B, although unsulphured raisins retain the most.

Vitamin C in peaches was totally lost when sun dried unless they were treated with sulphur dioxide gas, in which event the total vitamin C content was retained. Prunes, if dipped in lye, then exposed to sulphur and sun dried, retained 100 per cent. All unsulphured prune products lost their vitamin C content.

The report further considers the value of dipping prunes and raisins in a lye solution and indicates that this process aids in the preservation of vitamins A and C. Furthermore, it is noted that these vitamins in lye dipped prunes are preserved in increasing amounts when the fruit is exposed to sulphur dioxide.

Fruits are of value because of their mineral content. There is very little loss of mineral matter in the process of drying and many fruits contain iron, copper, calcium, phosphorus, sodium, potassium, and sulphur in varying amounts.

We must understand that dried fruits are not as high in vitamins as certain other types of foods and it is well known that cooking destroys vitamin C. Vitamin A will not withstand prolonged cooking in the presence of air, hence, in order to preserve this vitamin, the process should be carried out in a covered dish and at a high temperature for only a short period. Vitamin B is stable at ordinary cooking temperatures.

NOTES OF INTEREST.

Many types of skin disease—ringworm, scabies, eczema, various forms of dermatitis, etc.—are unnoticed by individuals and their friends unless they appear on the face or the hands. Portions of the body that cannot be seen by direct mirror vision may harbor skin lesions of considerable importance.

The suggestion has been offered that a two or three panel mirror be installed in shower baths or dressing rooms, particularly in industrial plants, where skin diseases are likely to spread and cause discomfort and loss of efficiency. A two panel mirror, each 20 to 24 inches in width and from 4 to 5 feet in height, can be fastened to the wall in the corner of a room at small expense. This plan will afford a front, side, and back view of the body. If a corner is not available a mirror stand of two or three panels may be constructed.

Because skin diseases frequently lead to systemic illness their appearance anywhere on the body should be recognized promptly and preventive measures instituted.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

SALE OF FARM PRODUCE.

Chicago, April 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is a person, engaged in the business of producing and selling eggs, and using a motor truck in the procedure, considered as either a peddler or a jobber? 2. If he is classed as either, or if he does not fall into either classification, what is his status? Is he subjected to any license fee or fees of any other nature? 3. If a person buys eggs from a producer and sells to the consumer, is he classed as a peddler or a jobber, and if so, is he subject to any fees to operate under the protection of the law? C. M. G.

1. An old Illinois statute appearing as section 91 of the chapter on agriculture in the Smith-Hurd Illinois revised statutes provides that every farmer may sell his produce "in any place or market where such articles are usually sold" without paying any license fee. If a city is a "place" for the purpose of this wording, it would follow that the farmer would not be subject to the peddler's license requirement on your facts, but it seems more probable to us that the word "market" would be regarded as limiting the word "place" to a more distinct selling locality and on this construction the farmer producing the eggs can be subjected to a peddler's license requirement.

2. If you wish to ascertain the attitude of the city officials, you can inquire at the office of the city clerk in the city hall, but if you contemplate doing the business only on a small scale, it is reasonably safe for you to wait until the question is raised.

3. This depends on how he handles his business. If he delivers at the time of taking the order, it is peddling. We know of no ordinances in which the word jobber is used in this connection, but if you mean a wholesaler, then the application of this word would also depend on how the selling was conducted. A person who sells directly to the consumer ordinarily is not called a jobber. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

EXECUTOR'S COMPENSATION.

Joliet, Ill., April 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am executor for an estate which consists of apartment buildings, which is still in Probate court. As executor and by agreement of all the heirs [who live out of town] I have charge of the buildings, such as renting and collecting rents and paying bills and general management of same. 1. Does the Probate court allow any compensation for this work? If so what per cent? 2. From whom do I get paid and when? 3. What per cent of the personal property do I get if any? The value of it was placed at $400. H. B. S.

1. We assume that the will does not place the real estate in your custody and hence that your management of the real estate is by agreement of the heirs. If so, your right to compensation would depend on the express or implied agreement on this point.

2. See 1.

3. The Illinois administration act fixes the executor's compensation at not over 6 per cent of the personal property.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LAND BOUNDED LAKES.

Glencoe, Ill., April 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—At school we have been debating on the subject of ownership of lakes that are surrounded by private property in Wisconsin. By answering the following questions for me you can help a great deal to end differences of opinion: In the state of Wisconsin [1] who owns a lake with no inlet or outlet if it is completely surrounded by land owned by a single person? 2. If the property owner owns the lake, can he in any way keep others from swimming, fishing, etc., in the lake? 3. Would regulations of a situation like this be the same in Michigan and Illinois? J. K. C.

1. The United States Supreme court decision in United States vs. Oregon, 2 U. S. L. W. 704, decided April 2, 1935, approves the common law rule that "a conveyance of land bounded upon the waters of a nonnavigable lake carries by implication to the center of the lake."

2. Yes, if it is non-navigable.

3. Yes. No one could reach such a lake without the consent of the shore owner without trespassing on his land.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SHARE IN ESTATE.

Chicago, April 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When a will is made in Illinois, leaving three daughters a certain amount of money, is it possible for the executor to help one daughter, who will become of age next month, by getting her share or part of it now in order to help her out when she is in need? Is it necessary to go to court to secure permission to do this? E. V.

If all of the parties will sign, authorizing the executor to make this payment in advance, we do not see how any one would be in a position to question it. We assume that the will is so worded that no possible contingent interests are involved. We could advise to better advantage if the wording were before us.

BOSTON BULLDOGS ARE NOT BULLDOGS
FURBAY
BILL VENN
215

To owners of Boston bulldogs it may be disappointing to know that these dogs are not bulldogs at all, but terriers. They are American made dogs, with ancestors of both bull and terrier, according to L. A. Fuertes' "Book of Dogs." In 1891 the American Kennel club refused to recognize them, because they were cross-breeds, but in 1893 they became registered under the name "Boston terrier" and are the only breed of dogs that are strictly American.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

STAGGERED DEPARTURES.

New York, April 15.—Apparently the railroads that will operate six and one-half hour trains from Chicago to the Twin Cities have not wholeheartedly heeded The Tribune's suggestion for staggered hours of departure. According to announcement the three trains will all have early afternoon departures within a compass of three hours. In short, they will all be eating out of the same trough.

An early morning departure, following shortly after the arrival of the fast overnight trains from the east, would permit arrival at the Twin Cities to connect with trains reaching Fargo, Duluth and way points the same evening—one night from New York. Likewise, connection would be made with two late afternoon trains to Winnipeg and the Canadian northwest—one business day from New York, one night from Chicago. Such a schedule would also give Twin Cities' business men a couple of hours before the close of the business day.

While doubtless early afternoon departure would secure more of the travel originating at Chicago and terminating at the Twin Cities, a train with morning departure from Chicago would have the field of through business mostly to itself.

REORGANIZING THE LITTLE 19.

Naperville, Ill., April 12.—The I. I. A. C. or "Little Nineteen" could be bettered if a plan such as the following would be adopted:

As it is now championships in the various sports, outside of track, are mythical and no school can be honored without some doubt lingering in the minds of the other aspirants. This could be best offset by dividing the state into three conferences composed of schools from the northern, central, and southern parts. Each year the three winners from these sections would play each other to determine the champion. William Brier.

RHETORICAL QUESTION.

Chicago, April 10.—I see that the so-called New Dealers are flaying the alleged high salaries of officers of private enterprises. It is also noted that Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt's salary as a radio entertainer is revealed as $3,000 a week, a stipend twice that of the President of the United States. Is she worth it?

Erwin Baumruck.

COUNTER-DEMONSTRATION SUGGESTED.

Chicago, April 12.—We have witnessed today a nation-wide demonstration by the pink, red, spineless, and cowardly element of our national youth. Now why not set aside a day and hour when those patriotic, fearless young men and women of our country who would gladly sacrifice their lives for national honor and security might show their true strength and loyalty to our country?

T. Roy Smith.

JOKE OF THE YEAR.

Chicago, April 12.—The writer wonders if any one else of yesterday's news readers except my humble self noticed the greatest joke ever cracked by European diplomats. Russia and France concluded a so-called gentlemen's agreement. If there was just a little bit of humor left among the population of this old earth a roaring laugh should shake our old globe from one end to the other.

F. Roehrborn.

EGGS AND STENCH BOMBS.

Middle Point, O., April 13.—Now that the student demonstrations against war on scores of campuses in the United States are past, it is interesting to study the aftermath of newspaper stories, not for the actions of the pacifist students but for the reactions of the "patriotic" groups. The results are certainly typical.

Here are a few excerpts gleaned from headlines and newspaper stories. They are worth studying: "Barrage of eggs routs pacifists' parade at the University of Chicago," "Students and speaker ducked at East Lansing," "Orators drowned out with pans and drums at Massachusetts Institute of Technology," "Stench bombs used at Harvard."

Then last, but not least, "Policemen club two girl pacifists into unconsciousness at Los Angeles." Patriotism could do no more. However, I am surprised that no one had the bright idea of making all the pacifists kiss the flag. That is usually the bright particular gem of patriotic performance and was used on a war veteran, according to press reports, who during a recent Army day celebration on the Pacific coast refused to warm up to the idea of again making the world safe for munition makers.

Is it any wonder that college and university students are revolting against the entire military psychology?

T. F. Campbell.

A COMFORTABLE BUS.

Chicago, April 10.—For the first time since the beginning of transportation by motorbus in Chicago I have ridden on a comfortable, easy riding bus, in operation on route 34—Diversey boulevard. I was so surprised at the difference in transportation that I thought it best to write to the Voice of the People and express my gratitude and appreciation. What is there to prevent the Chicago Motor Coach company from putting these buses in general service? Certainly the people of Chicago are entitled to equipment as good as this and furthermore should have it. Paul A. Mollan.

SUGGESTIONS FOR PAGE ONE.

Chicago, Ill., April 9.—All my friends are concerned over governmental expenditures and the eventual slump in business which must come when such expenditures cannot be made. It would seem to me The Tribune could do a good service by printing on the front page daily or weekly the rise in the public debt, the rise in the cost of living, the increase in gasoline and sales taxes and the numbers employed by the government to fight the depression. This additional force I am told is over one hundred thousand people. V. E. Freeman.

EASILY.

Chicago, April 12.—I have taken your paper about 50 years and have written for Line and Wake, but can't get one word in the Voice. Can you explain?

V. A. Hamilton.

SUGGESTION.

Chicago, April 9.—Why does not the President give his numerous brain trusters a long or permanent vacation and put in just one brain you can trust?

L. J. K.

DUST.

Chicago, April 12.—I ran a pail of water out of the tap today and got a cupful of sand, yet not a word in The Tribune about the dust storm in Chicago. M. D. S.

BULGARIANS RIOT, CABINET QUITS AS FACTIONS CLASH

Exile of Regime's Foes Evokes Protests.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 18.—A feverish day of arrests, cabinet resignations and incipient disorders was climaxed tonight as Premier Petko Zlateff's entire government resigned and King Boris immediately commissioned Zlateff to continue until another cabinet can be formed.

While the capital still buzzed with comment over the sudden cabinet crisis, reports arrived from the provinces indicating violent reaction to the summary arrest and internment of outstanding opposition leaders, among them former Premiers Kimon Gueorgieff and Alexander Zankoff; Vassil Karakoulakoff, former police prefect; former Director of Police Nat-

A great crowd of Zankoff's adherents gathered at the railway station at Plovdiv to cheer him as he passed through en-route to tiny St. Anastasia island in the Black sea, where he and four others seized today will be interned.

Use Swords and Bayonets.

Gendarmes, reinforced by cavalry, were called out to disperse the throng with swords and bayonets.

Zlateff, raised to power in King Boris' "Royal Putsch" last January, submitted the government's collective resignation to the monarch after three of his ministers deserted him in protest against the arrests.

Receiving the press, the premier explained that Gueorgieff, Zankoff and the others were taken into custody in the lightning-like roundup because of their subversive activities.

Secret conferences have been held at Zankoff's home recently, he said, in which active army officers as well as reserve officers have participated.

As to his possible successor the veteran army man said, "that rests entirely with the king."

Boris' Part a Mystery.

King Boris this evening conferred with Minister of the Interior Krum Koleff and Gen. Todod Radeff, minister of education. Both of them were mentioned as possibilities for the premiership.

Questions as to what part Boris played in the arrests and what his intions were went unanswered. Since the January coup the king has shown an increasing disposition to exert his authority in Bulgaria's government, and some quarters expected new evidences of this tendency might be forthcoming shortly.

The fate of Damyan Zelcheff [also spelled Veltchev], former commandant of the military leader and influential friend of Gueorgieff, remained uncertain tonight, although it was reported he was also slated for internment.

GENE OLIVER'S WIFE GRANTED DIVORCE DECREE

Mrs. Nettie Oliver, 150 Country Club road, Chicago Heights, was granted an uncontested divorce yesterday from Garfield [Gene] Oliver, former county assessor. Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy issued the decree after a hearing in his chambers.

Questioned by her attorney, Frank Teed, Mrs. Oliver testified they were married Sept. 22, 1909, in Janesville, Wis., and that Oliver deserted her on June 28, 1933. That was six days after Oliver was released from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth after serving 14½ months of an 18 month term for evasion of income taxes.

The whereabouts of Oliver, who several months ago said he was in the scrap iron business, were not revealed. He has agreed, his wife said, to pay $12 a week alimony, to redeem jewelry she was forced to pawn to support herself, and to pay the hospital and funeral expenses for a son, Eugene, who died a year ago. Attorneys said the Olivers are about to lose their $100,000 home in Chicago Heights through foreclosure of a $13,000 mortgage.

Defendant in Alienation Suit

Defends Wife No. 2

Bridgeport, Conn., April 18.—(AP)—Carveth Wells, engineer, explorer, and lecturer, testified in Superior court late today that his first wife, Mrs. Luard T. Wells, beat, reviled, abused, publicly criticized, and vilified him in front of his son.

The testimony was heard in the first Mrs. Wells' $50,000 alienation suit against Zetta Robart Wells, wife No. 2.

Wells told of having divorced his first wife in Mexico in 1932, shortly before his marriage to the present Mrs. Wells, and charged his former mate deserted him in August, 1918, in Malay peninsula when he was ill, after six years in the jungle for the British government.

Wells told an incident at the Sherman hotel, in Chicago, in March, 1926, when Mrs. Wells No. 1 is alleged to have admitted to him misconduct with another man. He added: "I didn't believe her at first, but she convinced me."

Wells said he met her in January, 1931, and similar testimony was offered by Commander Eugene F. MacDonald Jr. of Chicago, who hurried by plane to help Wells. MacDonald said Wells was introduced to the second Mrs. Wells in 1931 by a series of letters he wrote to each.

Amelia Earhart Planning Two Nonstop Flights

Los Angeles, Cal., April 18.—(AP)—Amelia Earhart, only woman to fly two oceans, said today she had completed preparations for two nonstop flights, one to Mexico City and another to New York. She plans to take off within a few days on a nonstop aerial journey to the Mexican capital and from there hop nonstop to New York.

Ohio Deputy Sherif Dies Trying to Nab Ex-Convict

Van Wert, O., April 18.—[Special.]—Forrest Good, 40, deputy sherif of Van Wert county, was shot and killed and C. T. Evans, Ohio reformatory parole officer, was injured late today when they sought to arrest a former convict on a farm near the Ohio-Indiana line. Roy Smith, 34, is held as a result of the shooting.

BREMER RANSOM NOTES REVEALED AT KIDNAP TRIAL

St. Paul, Minn., April 18.—[Special.]—Adolph Bremer, 66, millionaire St. Paul brewer, and father of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, who was kidnaped Jan. 17, 1934, sobbed repeatedly today as he told a jury trying Arthur [Doc] Barker and nine other defendants of the kidnaping of his son, negotiations for $200,000 ransom, and his subsequent release 21 days later.

The elder Bremer identified the notes which were sent to him, Bremer's wife, and to Walter Magee, contractor and friend of the family, who served as go-between payoff man for the family.

Magee followed Bremer to the stand and told of ransom negotiations with the kidnapers, among whom have been named besides Barker, Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, fugitives, and George Zeigler, now dead.

Harold Alderton, Bensenville, Ill., farmer, in whose home Bremer was held captive; Elmer Farmer, tavern keeper, accused of having transmitted information for the gang, and John J. [Boss] McLaughlin, Chicago, accused of having passed part of the ransom money, also are on trial.

LEG FRACTURE PROVES FATAL.

Mrs. Julia Nabicht, 57 years old, 916 Oakwood boulevard, died yesterday from complications which set in after she broke her leg in a fall last Feb. 7.

PWA Gives $108,500 to South Bend for Parks

South Bend, Ind., April 18.—[Special.]—The Public Works administration this afternoon allotted a fund of $108,500 to the city of South Bend for improvement of parks, according to information from Washington, D. C. An additional $400,000 was tentatively set aside for the city through personal representations by Senator Fred Van Nuys and Representative Samuel B. Pettengill.

CLOTHES HAVE GOT TO LAST IN OUR HOUSE
I CAN'T AFFORD TO USE CHEAP SOAP

AFTER

Just let anyone try keeping two lively children in clothes on MY strict budget, and you'll know why I have to be so careful about soaps! Whenever a shirt or dress wears out before its time, it means extra scrimping to buy a new one. I've tried all kinds of laundry soaps, and American Family is by far the safest. It keeps Mary Ann's little print dresses looking new until she outgrows them, and Jim's school shirts stay so fresh and white. And then, too, I can't find any other soap that makes such creamy, thick suds in this hard lake water. Why, clothes almost wash themselves in American Family's double-suds!

I was mending every spare minute when I used that awful cheap soap. It just seemed to eat up clothes. I don't know whether it was the strong alkali (I could feel it on my hands) or the hard rubbing I had to do—but clothes certainly didn't wear the way they did with American Family!

Easy to Keep Them Neat Now. American Family gives me so much extra time with the youngsters. And I'm really proud of the way they look—as smart and neat as children who have lots of new clothes!

LEAK DETECTIVES SAVE CITY WATER USERS MILLIONS

Engineers Constantly at Work Testing Mains.

Waste fighting engineer-detectives in the city water department last year stopped leaks in city mains through which water was escaping at the rate of 17,459,000 gallons a day.

The value of the water thus saved, at 3.57 cents a thousand gallons, the figure which the water department uses for the bare cost of pumping, was more than $227,000. Valued at the average rate charged consumers, 6.8 cents a thousand gallons, the waste prevented amounted to $433,000 a year.

Surveys of various types, designed to find and stop underground leakage in the water system, have been carried on since 1907 when the initial effort was started in the downtown area to find and shut off the 15,000 lead pipe connections which had been melted in the great fire of 1871.

Stop Loss of Millions.

The records showing the location of these connections were destroyed in the fire. When the city was rebuilt new connections were made to the city mains, but the old connections remained in the ground, pouring out millions of dollars' worth of water before they were located and shut off.

Frequently these leaks were not recognized as connected with the water system. In the basement of the old Tribune building at Dearborn and Madison streets, built in 1872, there was what employés always thought was a spring.

When the present building on that site was put up, in 1902, deeper foundations were dug. Then it was discovered that the "spring" came from one of the ancient water connections, melted in the great fire.

From 1916 on, systematic surveys of water mains for leakage were made on all streets torn up for paving. Beginning in 1931, these surveys were supplemented by others in which the water department determined the amount of leakage in older areas, where no paving was being done but where the age of the mains made it likely that leakage was highest.

Survey 1,739 Miles.

From 1916 to the end of March, 1935, leakage surveys of all types had been made on 1,739 miles of mains, out of 3,733.62 miles now in use in the city water system. In these mains leaks causing a total waste of 92,667,000 gallons a day were found and measured. Of these the leaks responsible for 84,241,000 gallons of waste a day were repaired.

The discrepancy between the leaks found and those repaired lies in the fact that in some cases, especially in the central district which has the oldest mains, it was sometimes impossible to stop the leakage without relaying blocks or even miles of main, and funds were not available for these major repairs.

By their own estimates, the water detectives are hardly keeping abreast of the leakage as it develops daily in the city's system. They estimated undetected leakage in 1932 at 102,814,000 gallons a day. In 1933 their estimate was 106,840,000 gallons a day, and in 1934 it had risen to 109,198,000 gallons a day.

Worst Leaks Stopped.

These estimates are based, however, on a proration of the average leakage found in the mains already surveyed, and the worst leaks, apparently, have already been found and stopped. This is indicated by figures on the old mains in the central district. In 1931 the mains surveyed in this district averaged a leakage of 204,608 gallons a day for each mile surveyed. In 1934 the leakage found in the same area averaged 132,958 gallons a day per mile, a reduction of 35 per cent.

Also, the surveys have given much information on the causes of leaks and the newer mains in the city are protected against leaks as much as is possible. No longer are mains laid in cinders, in which ground water generates weak acids which eat away the iron pipes. All mains laid in recent years have been tested before they were covered at 100 pounds pressure to the square inch, to detect structural weaknesses in the pipes or leaky joints. In service they carry a maximum of 40 pounds pressure to the inch.

Attorneys at Odds

EDWARD J. REILLY. C. LLOYD FISHER.

New York, April 18.—[Special.—The long known quarrel among counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted of the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., came into the open today. Former Chief Counsel Edward J. Reilly accused his former associate, C. Lloyd Fisher, of unethical conduct. Fisher called Reilly "disgruntled and disappointed," accused him of trying to pay personal obligations with money raised for Hauptmann's defense. Reilly in a letter to the New Jersey Bar association said Fisher gave "lying statements to the press."

Reilly, ousted by Mrs. Haupmann, wrote to Chancellor Luther A. Campbell of New Jersey asking permission to withdraw formally from the case. He also wrote to the New Jersey State Bar association, asking that Fisher's handling of the defense fund be investigated.

"Mrs. Hauptmann has gone around the country collecting funds which, in my opinion, it would be fair to say would equal about $15,000. Fisher must have on deposit in Flemington at least $22,000.

Reilly in his letter added:

"If this appeal [Hauptmann's] is not ready by the 20th of June and if the funds are to be dissipated any way Fisher sees fit to use them . . . we will have a national scandal, and I don't want to be connected with anything of this kind."

GRANDDAUGHTER OF PACKER IS WED TO ENTERTAINER

The marriage of Mrs. Rowena McDougall Urion, divorced wife of Alfred R. Urion Jr., to Eugene Leigh Murphy, former dancer in the closed K-9 club, was revealed yesterday.

The marriage was performed last Friday by the Rev. Harold Blake Walker, pastor of the Fullerton Covenant Presbyterian church, in the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Walter Howe Miller, 1540 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Miller is the widow of the founder of Miller & Hart, Inc., Packing company.

Mrs. Murphy was divorced from her first husband several months ago and met her present husband while she was attending a party in the K-9 club soon afterward, according to reports, which members of the family would neither confirm nor deny. She is the heiress to part of her packer grandfather's fortune.

Brig. Gen. Herron Will Come to Fort Sheridan

Brig. Gen. Charles D. Herron, now executive for reserve affairs in the office of the army chief of staf at Washington, D. C., will assume command of the Sixth field artillery brigade at Fort Sheridan on June 27, it was announced yesterday by the war department. Gen. Herron, a graduate of Wabash college in Indiana, his home state, was a lieutenant colonel in the field artillery during the world war.

FIRE RAINS ON DEMOCRATS OVER RELIEF "SPOILS"

Letter Demanding Support Downstate Assailed.

U. S. Stands Firm

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—Illinois will receive no more federal relief funds unless it complies with requirements for sharing relief costs, Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins declared today.

He said he was not contemplating taking over the relief administration, as suggested by some Republican legislators, but he expressed his determination to make Illinois share its full burden. His statement was made after he was informed that 1 million 400 thousand dollars would be required for Illinois relief during the remainder of April.

"I am not preparing to give Illinois any more money at any time unless it supplies 3 million a month from state funds," the administrator said flatly.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

Springfield, Ill., April 18.—[Special.]—Democrats brought down fire on their own heads in the house today when they attempted to deny that the relief rolls in southern Illinois are being used for political purposes.

Representative Joseph H. Davis [Dem., Murphysboro] furnished the spark that ignited the blaze. He declared that a letter sent from the Democratic chairman of Jackson county to a relief worker soliciting support for Democratic candidates in a recent election had not been sent out promiscuously to persons on the relief rolls.

Takes Floor to Complain.

Davis had taken the floor to complain of the Republican caucus action last night which voted to send to President Roosevelt and Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins a copy of the letter received by Earl Tripp of Elkville, Ill., who has been on relief, from Joe Montgomery, Democratic chairman of the county and deputy warden of Chester penitentiary.

In the almost blunt missive, Tripp was virtually commanded to work for Democratic candidates for supervisors. The letter reminded him that the supervisors control all county road projects and assured him that efforts would be made to reward him for loyalty to the Democratic party.

"The letters," said Davis in his explanatory talk, "were not sent promiscuously to relief clients, but to only about 100 persons who had been employed previously by the district highway engineer. The Democratic county committee, learning that the men had jobs, sent the letters to them. We would welcome an investigation, as it would show more Republicans employed on relief projects than Democrats."

"Typical of Farley" Methods.

"This is an example," Minority Leader Green commented, "of all that is rotten in the administration of relief in Illinois, and is directly in line with the tactics of the Democratic party's political leader, Postmaster General James A. Farley."

In a statement issued yesterday on this matter, Green had included the following paragraph:

"This letter is so political in its nature that no one could deny its true intent. The governor has full knowledge of it. In Mr. Montgomery's statement to the public through the press, he said the letter came to him from high leaders of the Democratic party in this state.

"To date the governor had done nothing to condemn either Mr. Montgomery or the use of relief rolls for political purposes, and he would be in a better position in discussing the matter of politics and relief if he came into this field with clean hands."

Agitation over relief did not stop for the day when the house debate ended. In both houses opposition was fast developing against the proposed plan of senate Democrats to substitute for the Illinois emergency relief commission a state controled relief board.

Charges were made by Green and Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, Republican minority leader in the upper chamber, that this proposal is nothing but an effort by the state administration to pick up votes for its 26 million financing program.

"The proposed plan," said Searcy, "would result in a Simon pure political organization with the strings leading directly to the governor's office where he could pull them." The plan contemplates appointment by the governor of a state director who would name county directors who in turn would name township overseers.

Evidence was seen today also that Democratic state leaders are moving in numbers to aid Gov. Horner in passing the relief program and to place on the leaders as a group whatever blame is heaped upon the party for the tax increases instead of letting the governor bear the load alone.

97TH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Abbie Paul Gill and Lorraine Paul.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Five generations of one family were present yesterday as Mrs. Abbie Paul Gill celebrated her 97th birthday at the home of her son, Henry R. Paul, 2902 Warren avenue, where she has been living. Present were her son, three grandchildren, two great grandchildren, and one great great grandchild, as well as numerous friends and other relatives. Mrs. Gill was born in New York state and came to Chicago 60 years ago. Lorraine Paul, a granddaughter, posed with Mrs. Gill for the photograph.

H. E. PILLIFANT TO HEAD BOARD OF LAKE COUNTY

Harold E. Pillifant of Waukegan was elected president of the Lake county board at its reorganization meeting yesterday. He succeeds Harold D. Kelsey of Barrington.

In his farewell address, Kelsey pointed out that during his administration the cost of Lake county government dropped to $227,202 from $299,386, and the county's overdrafts were reduced to $31,775 from $184,110.

A letter from State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas was read at the meeting. It urged the board to act to prevent disastrous roadhouse fires such as the recent on at the Club Rendezvous in Morton Grove that took seven lives. Similar letters have been sent to the boards of all Illinois counties, the communication indicated. The Cook county board recently adopted stringent fire regulations for taverns and roadhouses in its jurisdiction.

BOARD RENEWS RELIEF SPENDING INQUIRY TODAY

Sifting of "Looseness" Charges Scheduled.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission today will take up again three items of business that were dealt with a week ago, but have since been revived as problems demanding further action.

Charges of "looseness and irregularity" in disbursing relief funds, voiced at the last meeting, will be heard in amplified form this afternoon when the commission members assemble in IERC headquarters at 1319 South Michigan avenue.

The developments which will bring the problems before the commission again are these:

1. State's Attorney Courtney yesterday threw back into the commission's lap its request that he investigate "any irregularities" in the handling of state funds by the IERC.

2. Gov. Horner wired Chairman Robert J. Dunham of the relief commission asking that immediate action be taken to aid public schools which are closed or will close soon for lack of funds, a matter that was postponed indefinitely a week ago because of the shortage of money for regular relief needs.

3. State Auditor Barrett declared he would refuse Chairman Dunham's offer to relieve him of any responsibility in disbursing federal relief funds granted to Illinois, saying he could not legally relinquish this responsibility.

Courtney Asks Questions.

State's Attorney Courtney replied to the commission's request for an investigation in a letter written to Executive Secretary Wilfred S. Reynolds. After quoting the commission's resolution, he said he was unable to determine exactly what it meant.

"However, in order to get to the point," the letter read, "permit me to ask:

"First, have you investigated the alleged irregularities in the affairs of the commission? If so, what are your conclusions? Have you obtained any evidence of criminal conduct?

"Second, as to whether or not there has been falsification of the records of the commission I take it no one is in a better position to arrive at that conclusion than the commission itself."

The state's attorney concluded by pledging his coöperation in regard to "any evidence of criminal acts discovered." Mr. Reynolds declined to comment, not having yet received the letter, beyond saying it would be presented to the commission.

Relief in New Record.

Relief expenditures in the state during March established a new all-time high record, with commitments totaling $13,723,078, it was announced by relief officials yesterday. The previous high record was that of January, when $12,788,564 was spent for the support of 317,700 families and other relief activities. In March the number of relief families was 321,003, closely approaching the record of 322,000 for March, 1933.

Mr. Reynolds announced that overhead expense was brought down to a two year low of 7.87 per cent last month. In only 21 of the 102 counties was the cost of administration more than 10 per cent in March, he said.

FIRE IN MEDINAH CLUB.

SHIPPING ON LAKES OPENS; LITTLE ICE IS SEEN IN SUPERIOR

Marquette, Mich., April 18.—[Special.]—The clearance today of two vessels marked the opening of the 1935 navigation in this ore shipping city.

The first boat to reach Marquette, and the first to make its way through the Sault Ste. Marie locks, arrived here at 2 a. m. It cleared with a cargo of ore from the Lake Superior and Ishpeming dock eight hours later. It was the L. E. Block, of the Inland Steel line. The captain reported little ice in Lake Superior.

Grain Ships at Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 18.—[Special.]—The leaders of five downbound grain freighters arrived here last night after battling heavy windrowed ice in the upper St. Mary's river. The Stadacona of the Canada Steamship company was the first downbound vessel to reach the Soo, followed closely by the Donnacona.

Austrian Fascist Chieftain Leaves for Rome by Plane

VIENNA, April 18.—(AP)—Prince Ernest von Starhemberg, vice chancellor of Austria and head of the Fascist Heimwehr [home guards] left for Rome today by airplane. His departure started speculative rumors that he would confer with Premier Mussolini of Italy regarding the internal situation in Austria, particularly the rivalry between the Heimwehr and the Catholic peasant groups in the government.

PLEA OF GUILTY BY POET HINTED IN MURDER CASE

Dixon, Ill., April 18.—[Special.]—Counsel for Charles Skinner may change his plea to guilty of the murder of Olive Derwent and rest the case on the mercy of the court tomorrow. Skinner is a so-called poet.

Attorney Clyde Smith, new chief of defense counsel refused, however, to confirm that rumor. Harold Nims, his associate, previously has conducted the defense.

The state rested today while the court was crowded and extra guards had been posted outside to prevent any violence to the prisoner who had to be marched through a public corridor from court to the sheriff's office.

Skinner, charged with having shot Miss Derwent, 17, Amboy High school student, on Jan. 30, grinned to his attorney today while a physician told of the dying girl's story. She had named Skinner as having fired at her.

TAX ON MEALS IN HOTELS O. K.'D BY HIGH COURT

The state of Illinois is within its rights in charging the sales tax for meals served in hotels operated on the European plan, the Illinois Supreme court ruled yesterday.

Yesterday's decision was based on the appeal of the Brevoort Hotel Company of Chicago from the denial in the Circuit court here of the hotel's petition for an injunction to restrain collection of the tax. The hotel sought exemption on the ground that the meals served constituted merely an additional service for its guests.

In upholding the lower court, the Supreme court held that the serving of food for money involved the transfer of title to tangible property, though consumed on the premises.

Even Though 7 Wins, It's Still Sucker's Game

New York, April 18.—(AP)—Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine, presiding at the destruction of seized gambling equipment in Brooklyn today, went about to show that roulette was a "sucker's game." He placed a chip on No. 7, a crowd watched breathlessly as he spun the wheel. The little ball bounced over the numbered holes, then dropped—and No. 7 won. Police axes flew with abandon.

SEAGRAM'S is smoother. And there are two big reasons why. First, Seagram's enormous stocks of rich blending whiskey. Second, Seagram's three-quarters of a century's experience in distilling fine whiskey. Crown Whiskey is actually "custom-made" to American taste—that's why more people buy Seagram's Crown than any other brand. At home, serve Seagram's. Away from home, say, "Make mine with Seagram's." Say Seagram's and be Sure.

CREW OF CLIPPER BEGINS ANALYSIS OF FLIGHT DATA

Prepares for Later Hops West from Hawaii.

HONOLULU, April 18.—(AP)—The crew of the Pan-American Clipper, heroes of the islands after their record-smashing first commercial flight between California and Hawaii, started today a forty-eight hour job of checking, segregating, and analyzing data gathered on the trip.

Well rested from the 2,400 mile trail blazing venture which they completed in 17 hours 45 minutes yesterday, the flyers collaborated with executives of Pan-American airways to get a complete record down on paper for use when they push westward this summer to establish commercial service all the way across the Pacific.

Will Spend Week in Hawaii.

Pan-American officials said the plane would spend at least a week in Hawaii, probably making a series of flights over the various islands of the territory to become acquainted with local conditions.

The next major flight will be a return trip to California, after the interisland hops.

Company officials said they might take a different route on the return trip, to land either at Los Angeles or San Diego instead of Alameda, their starting point. This was referred to, however, as a tentative plan.

J. P. Van Zandt, local manager for the company, said a preliminary check of the big flying boat showed she needed little if any mechanical work and would be ready to fly again when fueled and oiled.

Plan Leisurely Week-end.

Records accumulated during the flight from Alameda by Fred J. Noonan, the plane's navigator; W. T. Jarboe Jr., its radio man, and Joseph Eichel, wireless operator who coöperated from the Hawaiian end, made up the data upon which the crew worked today.

Capt. Edwin C. Musick, veteran Pan-American pilot in charge of the flight, said the checking and analyzing probably would be completed in time for his crew of five to spend the week-end at leisure.

The flyers already have tentatively agreed to tackle surf boards at Waikiki beach.

IMMIGRATION FRAUD INDICTMENTS TO BE REQUESTED BY U. S.

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—The federal grand jury will be asked within the week to indict a number of persons charged with naturalization and immigration frauds, and one of them will be a man regarded as a professional dealer in fraudulent naturalizations, Samuel H. Kaufman, special assistant United States attorney, said today.

These indictments will be in addition to four, naming five men, handed up sealed last week. These are understood to name past and present employés of the immigration department here.

Named with the professional trafficker, Mr. Kaufman said, will be persons implicated with him in at least five recent naturalization frauds. He expects to have ten indictments voted.

DIVORCE ACTION STARTED BY WIFE OF R. G. STEWART

Robert Giffen Stewart, 46 years old, of New York, sales counsel to the market affiliates of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, of which he was formerly an official, was sued for divorce in the Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Phyllis Shaw Stewart, 35 years old, whom he married in 1922.

Stewart is the son of Robert W. Stewart, former president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, who was ousted in the famous "battle of proxies" with John D. Rockefeller Jr. in 1929. Mrs. Stewart lives at 5853 Winthrop avenue with her mother, Mrs. A. F. Shaw, widow of a Chicago insurance broker.

In her bill, filed by Attorney Robert E. Cantwell Jr., Mrs. Stewart alleges her husband deserted her in February, 1934. Attorney Cantwell indicated that the divorce will be uncontested, and that Stewart will make an out of court financial settlement with his wife.

TWO ROB CONDUCTOR.

Joseph A. Bennet, 2026 West 67th place, a street car conductor, was robbed of his money changer containing $6 yesterday by two colored men at Wentworth avenue and 47th street.

TRIBUNE STORIES PHOTO COPIED BY RFC OFFICIALS

Articles Tell Loan to Alcohol Diverters.

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—A prolonged investigation, extending over a period of several weeks, has failed to solve the mystery of the motive of Reconstruction Finance corporation officials in obtaining photostatic copies of stories which recently appeared in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE regarding a $25,000 loan to the Clyde Products company of Clyde, N. Y.

RFC officials were embarrassed when a raid upon the company plant last February disclosed that some 75,000 gallons of alcohol, ostensibly withdrawn for the manufacture of white distilled vinegar, had been diverted for beverages purposes. The RFC was placed in the position of having assisted in the financing of a company charged with violation of the internal revenue laws.

The series of stories in THE TRIBUNE told of these circumstances and also of the refusal of RFC officials to reveal the manner in which the loan had been made. A TRIBUNE editorial also commented upon the case.

About a month ago, it was learned, D. C. Somer, connected with the New York office of the RFC, obtained from Edward L. Cleary, a Rochester, N. Y., attorney, copies of THE TRIBUNE stories and also of the editorial.

Somer admitted that he was making photostatic copies of the clippings under orders from RFC headquarters at Washington, D. C. He directed further queries to Washington, declaring he had no idea why the copies were being made.

"There certainly have been plenty of fireworks in the organization about those stories," he commented.

RFC officials at Washington denied any knowledge of the order to make the photostatic copies and a search of the RFC files in the legal and financial divisions and in the office of Jesse Jones, the chairman, revealed no trace of them.

EXPECTS COUNTY HOSPITAL TO GET BACK "A" RATING

Withdrawal of the American Medical association's class A rating from the Cook County hospital may soon be reconsidered, according to indications in a letter yesterday from Dr. William D. Cutter, secretary of the association, to Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board.

The association withdrew the class A rating because the hospital employs graduates from a college not accredited by the medical group. At a conference earlier in the week Smith pointed out that civil service rules do not permit the County hospital to discriminate against any licensed medical school in the state.

Dr. Cutter pointed out in his letter that the medical organization's action against the hospital is not retroactive and so does not affect interns now serving. "It is a pleasure," he wrote, "to add that negotiations already under way seem to justify the expectation that a solution to your problem will be found and that existing difficulties will be removed."

DIES AFTER AUTO CRASH.

Coldwater, Mich., April 18.—[Special.]—Jesse Smoker, 28, of Bronson, injured by an auto on Sunday, died in a hospital here today.

EXONERATE WIDOW OF POLICEMAN SLAIN IN QUARREL IN HOME

Mrs. Sadie Bazarek, 5127 Schubert street, was exonerated yesterday by a coroner's jury of the fatal shooting on Wednesday of her husband, Detective Edward Bazarek, who was attached to the state's attorney's office and eight times had been cited for bravery and efficiency. The slaying of Bazarek, the jury decided, was accidental. Supervising Captain John Horan said the police were satisfied and there would be no further prosecution of the widow.

Mrs. Bazarek testified at the inquest that she had pointed a revolver at her husband merely to frighten him during a domestic quarrel occasioned by his drinking and spending all his last pay. Her son, Stanley, 12 years old, and her daughter, Gloria, 7 years old, declared that their father was good to their mother except when he was intoxicated. They told of beatings the policeman gave their mother.

Capt. Horan said that Mrs. Bazarek's story was supported by records of the county hospital, where she was treated after a beating by her husband.

DON'T BE FAT

IRENE RICH

"Just Eat Sensibly—Drink Welch's Grape Juice"

There's good common-sense back of Irene Rich's simple reducing secret. For, in the Welch process, all the sugar in the juice is natural—the same kind the blood uses for energy. This sugar is quickly and easily burned; actually helps burn up fat! Besides that, Welch's Grape Juice satisfies your craving for sweet, rich foods without adding fat. And Welch's is so healthful—it gives you new vim and pep, puts color in your cheeks. So, you see, you don't have to be fat and old-looking. Look at Irene Rich, past forty, yet beautiful as a young girl—and then start the easy Welch way of reducing today!

NEW REFRESHING DRINKS THAT CAN'T MAKE YOU FAT

BY MARTHA HOWARD

Now that warm weather is here, it's a temptation to order all sorts of rich, creamy drinks that seem so cooling—but that add pounds to your waistline, and heat-calories to your system. Even those tall, tinkly highballs that look so cool contain heat-producing and fat-producing alcohol.

But here are drinks that won't make you fat—and I guarantee they will quench your thirst as deliciously as any ice-cream soda or mint julep that ever lived. They're all made with Welch's Grape Juice—and Welch's, you know, contains a special pre-digested sugar that won't add surplus fat. It is non-fattening, quickly assimilated, gives you lots of pep—and actually helps burn up excess fat!

Grape Juice Punch

This is a very famous punch, and I've been asked the recipe so many times that I am putting it first. 1 pt. Welch's, ⅓ cup lemon juice, ⅓ cup orange juice, 1 cup granulated sugar, 4 cups water, or 2 cups water, 2 cups sparkling water. Combine the Welch's, lemon and orange juices and sugar, and stir until sugar is dissolved. Add water, and serve very cold. If sparkling water is used, add just before serving. Makes 7 cups.

Purple-and-Gold Float

Place a ball of orange sherbet in a highball glass, and add chilled Welch's Grape Juice. Serve—and listen to your friends rave!

Welch's Grape Eggnog

Welch's Grape Eggnog is another delicious concoction you shouldn't deny your family on a nice, hot day. It goes like this: 6 eggs, well beaten, 1 tbsp. granulated sugar, 3 cups chilled Welch's. Combine the eggs and sugar and beat 1 minute. Add chilled Welch's, stir well, and pour into glasses. This makes 4½ cups and serves 6.

There are a lot more recipes for non-fattening drinks you can have free by sending in your name and address to the Welch Grape Juice Co., Dept. 3249, Westfield, N. Y. They will send you their free scientific health booklet: "Keeping Your Weight Down," and "Red-Blooded Children and Athletes." Also a new simple Diet List of many good things to eat, with a weight and height chart, and a personal letter from Irene Rich, herself, telling you how she keeps her weight the same as at 16, although she is now over 40. It is all free.

"Welch's Grape Juice Burns up Excess Fat"

Famous Specialists Give Scientific Proof

DR. H. DORLENCOURT

Chief of Faculty of Medicine, University of Paris. Head of Research Laboratories, School of Puericulture, Medical School.

Paris, April 25—Prominent doctors find Welch's Grape Juice valuable as an aid in reducing. Dr. H. Dorlencourt, University of Paris, says: "Researches explain why grape sugar is rapidly burned, creating strength without causing surplus fat." Other great doctors corroborate these statements, proving that Welch's Grape Juice does help burn up excess fat—lets you reduce naturally without forfeiting energy. Good news for all overweight people!

Doctors say Welch's Grape Juice, because Welch's is always Certified-Pure and Pasteurized—the only grape juice to bear the Seal of Approval of the Good Housekeeping Institute. And Welch's is more economical, for it is always full strength—it contains no adulterants, no water, no synthetic flavors. Accept no cheap substitutes. Your druggist or grocer has it.

Drain out Winter-Worn Oil with all the junk it has collected—and refill with Sludge-Free Iso=Vis "D"

● If you could see the junk that collects in your crankcase, in your oil filter, on your valves and pistons all winter long—you wouldn't leave that old oil in there another day!

Chances are, there are bits of road grit in there. Water. Copper and steel chips. Rust. Dirt.

Besides, if you're not using Iso=Vis "D," it's likely that Sludge has formed. And Sludge is just the sticky stuff to gather up all that contamination and deposit it in and around the vital parts of your engine.

So drain out that Winter-worn oil now. Get rid of it! Let the Standard Oil Servismen flush out your crankcase and put in the correct grade of Iso-Vis "D" for the warmer months. Iso=Vis "D" won't sludge. It will stay cleaner, give perfect lubrication all the time. You'll use less between drains and, it'll put Spring spirit into that engine of yours!

SO LONG, SLUDGE YOUR DIRTY WINTER JOB IS DONE!

Tests show there's more in Winter-made Sludge than meets the eye. Bits of copper, water, steel, rust—and plenty of common gritty dirt. All of it slows up your engine, robs it of power, wastes oil and gasoline—and money!

It took just one ordinary automobile engine to yield this jarful of Sludge—an ugly mixture of broken-down oil and contamination. That's what clogs oil filters and valves, sticks piston rings, makes pistons pump oil. Don't let it stay in your motor any longer, now that Winter's past!

HEARINGS START TODAY ON SCHOOL PROPERTY RENTS

Committee to Determine Valuations.

The committee of appraisers which is in charge of the 1935 revaluation of school board property in the loop and on the near west side will open hearings today in room 1408 at 30 North Michigan avenue. Members of the committee are Wallace G. Clark, real estate dealer, appointed by the Probate court; former Federal Judge George A. Carpenter, named by the school board, and Paul Steinbrecher, realty dealer, appointed by the federal court.

Fifteen pieces of property, ten of which are in the loop, are rented by the board of education on long term leases, signed in 1885 and calling for revaluations every ten years. The lessees must pay yearly rent to the amount of 6 per cent of the valuation.

Seeks to Retain Valuations.

Richard S. Folsom, attorney for the school board, said yesterday that he would ask the 1935 appraising committee to retain the valuations at the figures set by the 1925 appraisers. The lessees have indicated that they consider the 1925 valuation too high in the face of 1935 real estate standards.

In 1925 the properties were valued at a total of $9,517,320. The lessees fought this appraisal, which was declared invalid by the Illinois Supreme court. The case was remanded to the Superior court and the last briefs were filed with Master in Chancery Sidney S. Pollack on April 1.

Properties Involved in Appraisal.

The properties involved in the appraisal include the land occupied by McVicker's theater, 25 West Madison street, valued at $2,033,720, and the land occupied by the Castle theater, 6 South State street, valued at $604,800. The other loop properties are within the block bounded by Madison, Dearborn, Monroe, and State streets.

COLORED FOLK WILL DISCUSS SOCIAL PHASES

Social problems among the colored population on the south side will be discussed at a two day meeting, opening today, in Bethseda Community house, 109 East 53d street. Frayser T. Lane, director of the department of social and civic improvement activities of the Chicago Urban league, will be in charge.

Preliminary reports of a block-to-block canvass being made of the territory between Cottage Grove and Wentworth avenues and 22d and 63d streets will be given. Improvement of living conditions and the betterment of the physical appearance of the district are the aims of the conference.

Among those who will speak are George O. Fairweather, business manager of the University of Chicago; Miss Elizabeth Woods of the Metropolitan Housing council, and Wilson Lovett, life insurance official.

Suicide of War Veteran Is Laid to Ill Health

A coroner's jury returned a verdict yesterday that Herbert Allardice, 40 years old, world war veteran living at the Lincoln-Belmont hotel, committed suicide while despondent over ill health. Allardice's body was found yesterday in the alley back of the Washington hotel, 167 West Washington street. He had leaped from an eighth floor window. In his pocket was a note to his brother, Thomas Allardice, 6323 Cottage Grove avenue, stating the writer had taken poison which did not act quickly enough.

Held as Fake Solicitor for Policemen's Society

Anthony Gallagher, 35 years old, 1132 South California avenue, was held at the Des Plaines street station yesterday after he attempted to get money from John Casey, owner of a cigar store at 32 South Halsted street, on the pretense that he was soliciting for the League of St. Jude, a policeman's religious organization headed by Capt. John Stege.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Tulips and Frostbite

April 18, 1935.

THE amateur tulip "crop" here on the farm received a severe setback early this week as a result of the frosty weather which nipped the growing plants. The housewives out here are none too pleased with the weather man as they survey the frost bitten plants which had begun to stick their heads above ground.

Clarence was commenting yesterday on how the low temperatures early in the week had fooled him. He had started a tractor to sort of check its engine before taking it out for a bit of work in the fields. Before he was through running the machine he found that the water was congealing in the radiator, which convinced him that it was too cold to do any planting with the machine that day.

But the cool weather didn't halt a cleanup of the cattle yard near the big silo. Sleezer, Shadoan, Johnson, and Miller hitched up the horses to the manure spreaders and hauled 26 loads of fertilizer to field number 21 before they called the job complete. Jack and Gene, driven by Shadoan, proved too strong in their harness. This pair of husky work horses pulled so hard on their loads that they stretched a tug, making a repair job necessary. Pat, the new draft colt, was given a stiff workout on this job before it was finished.

A thrilling fight between the cock pheasants has been staged on the Wheaton experimental farm. This scrap was of particular interest because it involved the only one-legged pheasant on the property. The one-legged bird has been on the place for at least two seasons. Eddie, Rawlings, Carl, and others here on the farm have seen this bird from time to time. The past winter he was usually noticed around the duck pond where eight or ten pheasants spent most of their time.

The other day Rawlings was on Pieface, his saddle horse, when he noticed two cock pheasants wading into each other for all they were worth. They were trading lefts and rights at a rapid clip. Rowlings rode up slowly to see the fight. It was then that he noticed the one legged bird, and this cripple was getting the worst of the bout. His opponent was stepping all over him.

After the fight had gone on for several minutes and the crippled bird was down, apparently hopelessly beaten and exhausted, Rowlings rode up to effect a rescue. He certainly was surprised to see the one-legged cock pheasant get up and hop away just as full of life and energy as if there had been no grueling fight. And the valiant crippled bird hopped away in the same direction taken by the victorious cock pheasant, as if to prove that he wasn't intimidated by his stronger rival.

I saw a funny sight the other evening. I happened to be going past the poultry houses, so I took a look at the 200 baby chicks which are housed in two separate brooders. They had eaten all their feed and had gone into the brooders for the night. However, the chicks were in a peculiar predicament, because it was too cold for them outside the brooders and too warm inside. They compromised by going inside the brooder and sticking their heads outside the canvas strip which encircles their houses. I couldn't believe my eyes at first, but after looking three or four times I decided that all those little knobs which were sticking out under the canvas were really the heads of the chicks.

LANE TECH BAND WINS RIGHT TO REPRESENT CITY

Lake View and Senn Rated High.

Lane Technical High school's 90 piece band won the finals last night in the contest to determine which Chicago school organization is to represent the city in the national 1935 high school band contest to be held at a place yet to be determined.

Sharing honors with Lane's band is that of Harrison Tech, which was co-national champion last year and therefore ineligible to qualify. The Harrison band, however, played last night at the finals, held in the Roosevelt High school auditorium, Wilson and Kimball avenues.

Lake View and Senn Next.

Ranking next to Lane at the finish were the Lake View and Senn High bands, which were given superior ratings. The other bands that had advanced in elimination contests to the finals were Calumet, Parker, and Farragut.

Of the Lane bandsmen, 48 are first year men. One of its important players is Herbert Barsch, 260 pound bass horn performer. Capt. Gardner P. Huff is director of the organization, which won high praise from the judges, Otto Kraushaar, of Waupun, Wis.; George Howard, of Mooseheart, and King Stacy, of Lansing, Mich.

Directors in Finals.

Harrison Tech's band is directed by John H. Barrabash. The other directors whose charges entered the finals are: Lake View, Louis D. Walz; Senn, Charles G. Ostergren; Calumet, William J. Morris; Parker, Clayborne Harvey, and Farragut, Joseph Grill.

The contest was the tenth held for a Chicago championship, and more than 3,000 persons composed the audience.

Bank Guard, 68, Routs 4 Bandits in Holdup Attempt

Brockton, Mass., April 18.—[Special.]—Ignoring the menacing muzzles of a machine gun and three pistols, a 68 year old bank guard, opened fire and exchanged shots with four bandits, and put them to flight without loot today when they attempted to hold up the Campbello branch of the Brockton National bank.

PARISH EFFORTS TO HALT MARKET RAIDS TOLD JURY

Certificates of deposit for $2,000,000 which the government alleges were used by Frank P. Parish and his associates in an attempt to halt market "raids" on the stock of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company in 1930 were introduced yesterday before the jury in the court of Federal Judge John P. Barnes. Parish and three other former officials of the company are on trial on charges of using the mails to defraud in the sale of stock to the public.

The certificates had been made payable to the Kentucky Natural Gas company, one of Missouri-Kansas affiliates, in part payment for stock received from the former company, but Parish never gave the $2,000,000 to the Kentucky company, according to the prosecution. He used the money to pay his brokers when they were flooded with selling orders from outsiders dealing in Missouri-Kansas stock, the government contends.

PERSONALTY TAX WORK IS SPEEDED UP BY ASSESSOR

Shifts 35 Clerks from the Realty Department.

County Assessor John S. Clark announced yesterday that he had transferred 35 employés from the real estate department of his office to work on personal property assessment books, and that he expected to deliver the first 1934 personalty books to the board of tax appeals by May 1.

The last of the personalty books will go to the appeals board, under the assessor's present schedule, by June 1. This will leave the board, the county clerk's office and the county treasurer's office three months in which to make the deadline on the first 1934 tax payments. The penalty date for these payments is Nov. 1.

Hope to Meet Date.

Officials in other county departments thought yesterday that they would be able to finish their share of the work connected with the tax billing process in time to meet the penalty date. If they do, it will be the first time since the 1928 reassessment that the penalty date has not had to be postponed, with consequent interest burdens to local governments, all of which are operating on borrowed money.

Personal property taxes are the governing factor in the time schedule. Complaints on real estate assessments are not heard until after the first installment of those bills is paid, but personal property complaints are heard before the bills are sent out.

Under the present schedule, the board of tax appeals will have until June 15 to receive complaints on personalty assessments. More than two months will remain in which to hear those complaints and, after the last of the complaints have been heard, for the county clerk's office to total the assessments and fix the 1934 tax rates.

Month to Compute.

On the 1933 taxes, it required a month to compute the rates, but special circumstances lengthened that period. Ordinarily the rate fixing process can be completed within a week or ten days. Aug. 18 is the last day on which this work must be finished and the bills prepared without postponing the penalty date.

It requires 45 days to extend the taxes and make out the bills, and, starting on Aug. 18, this work would be finished, theoretically, on Oct. 2. If the last bill were mailed out on that day, the thirty days statutory period between the mailing of bills and the penalty date would be fulfilled, and the deadline on personal property tax payments and the first installment of 1934 real estate taxes could be kept at Nov. 1.

TEN BEAUTIES SEEK TITLE OF MIDWAY QUEEN

Ten of the most beautiful girls at the University of Chicago are candidates for "Queen of the Midway" and the voting for the title started yesterday.

The lucky beauty will reign over the Senior Class Fandango, a circus and carnival to be held in the university fieldhouse April 26 and 27.

Voting in the beauty contest is at the office in Lexington hall, and this is one election where buying and selling votes and "repeat" voting are legal. Any one can vote as many times as he desires—as long as he pays 5 cents for each ballot cast.

From the money taken in at the polling place and the receipts from the carnival the class hopes to net $2,500 or more, which will be turned over to the university for a scholarship fund as the class gift.

MUCH has been claimed for various types of dentifrices. Scientific opinion today holds that a safe dentifrice can aid in the keeping of teeth in their natural, healthy condition, but cannot cure any disease condition in the mouth. It cannot safely bleach or whiten teeth. It cannot safely stop gums from bleeding. It cannot take the place of your dentist.

Six Symptoms that only your dentist should treat

Any condition of inflamed or bleeding gum edges.
Any tooth that is sensitive to heat or cold
Any rough spot on any tooth.
Any sensitivity to pressure on the part of any tooth.
Any tooth that feels even a little loose.
Any condition that will cut dental floss when you pass it between the teeth.

SQUIBB DENTAL CREAM

As fine a product as science can create for regular daily use as a dentifrice. Every member of the family can use Squibb Dental Cream with absolute assurance of safety.

DUNHAM TELLS COMMISSION OF PLANS FOR FAIR

Explains How Bills Would Permit U. S. Loan.

Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district, explained yesterday to members of Mayor Kelly's recreation commission how bills pending before the state legislature would enable the carrying out of plans to establish a permanent Chicago Fair on the site of A Century of Progress exposition. The meeting was held in the commission's headquarters at 160 North La Salle street.

Under Mayor Kelly's tentative plan, the Chicago Fair would occupy the full site of A Century of Progress. Thirty acres would be added to Northerly Island, which would be developed as a wooded recreation center. Park, beach, and play attractions would be offered here in the summer, with facilities for winter sports during the cold months. On the mainland there would be many improvements, including an exhibition hall seating 50,000 persons. The total cost has been estimated at $20,000,000.

No Expense to Taxpayers.

"The bills in the house and senate are purely permissive in character," Mr. Dunham told the recreation commission. "Necessarily broad in scope, they do not indicate that all of the powers set forth in detail will be used, since the lake front development plans are tentative.

"The intent of the bills is to give permissive authority for the creation of a corporation which would develop a definite plan. This plan would be presented to the mayor's Chicago Fair commission and the recreation commission.

"The aim would be to continue for Chicago the magnetizing power of A Century of Progress by developing a legal authority which could avail itself of the opportunity of securing federal funds for construction of the project. All of this would be without expense to the taxpayers of Chicago. Bonds given to the government as security would be redeemed with revenues from the permanent Fair."

Reads Pledge to Restrict Parks.

Several members of the commission objected to the bills because of a belief that they would permit various entertainment features not conducive to cultural attainments. Dr. Philip L. Seman, chairman of the commission, read a resolution adopted last October pledging the commission to restrict public parks for rest and recreation, free to all except for refreshments, boating, and special bathing facilities.

"If you mean that all parks should be restricted to intellectual and cultural forms of recreation, I cannot agree," Mr. Dunham declared. "There are thousands of citizens—I am thinking, for example, of those working in the steel mills—who would find nothing for them in such a program. We must think of all types and classes of the people."

Step Toward Home Rule.

Attorney Walter L. Fisher objected to the bills on grounds that politics would be injected into the control of the proposed lake front park. Mr. Dunham replied by pointing out that every governmental activity is susceptible to the influences of politics.

"These bills are a step toward home rule for Chicago," declared A. P. Hodapp, professor of economics and political science at Loyola university. "There would be less interference from state senators under their provisions."

PERSONAL TAX PAYMENT DATE A MONTH LATER

Springfield, Ill., April 18.—(AP)—Your personal property tax bill doesn't need to be paid for another month.

Gov. Horner today signed the emergency bill permanently fixing June 1 and Sept. 1 as the penalty dates for the payment of personal property taxes.

The dates have been a month earlier, May and August, but the 30 day extension of time was was granted by special laws in 1933 and 1934.

SEDUCTION SUITS SEEN AS TEST OF ANTI-BALM LAW

Attempts to Find Flaw in Statute Expected.

Judges and attorneys in Chicago yesterday called the outlawing of "heart balm" suits by the Illinois legislature one of the most equitable steps ever undertaken in this state in the adjustment of human relationships. The bill, passed by the state senate Wednesday without a dissenting vote, has now gone to Gov. Horner for signature and upon his expected approval will become effective on July 1.

The measure makes illegal the filing or the threat of filing civil suits for alienation of affections, criminal conversation or a breach of promise to marry and holds void all contracts or acts for the payment or compromise of these actions. It also prohibits the naming of a co-respondent or participant in marital misconduct in divorce or separate maintenance suits except upon order of the trial judge.

Blocks Secret Blackmail.

The bill thus storms the stronghold of the "gold digger" and deprives this type of person of misusing litigation as a threat for secret blackmail.

The bill was sponsored by State Representative John R. McSweeney [Dem., Chicago] and is modeled on the one approved by the Indiana legislature, which pioneered several months ago in the elimination of "heart balm" actions. The Illinois bill differs from the Indiana measure, however, in that it permits the filing of seduction suits.

Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort had drawn a bill similar in purpose to that of Representative McSweeney but with the variation that heart balm suits could be filed but could not be brought to trial unless the judge assigned, after a hearing on the salient points of the testimony, decided there was a cause of action.

Plaintif's "Day in Court."

If the judge ruled the suit was not brought in good faith and was insufficient in its allegations, he would have the power to dismiss it. This method, Judge Desort said, would not deprive the plaintif of a "day in court," a charge that may possibly be made against the McSweeney bill.

Seduction, the one remaining possible action for heart balm, under the McSweeney bill, was defined by Judge Desort yesterday as "enticing a woman from the paths of virtue and obtaining her consent to illicit intimacies through promises." While lauding the McSweeney bill, the judge pointed out that unscrupulous attorneys might try to bring out evidence of alienation of affections or breach of promise through the "back door" of a seduction suit.

Suits Over Seduction.

"A single or married woman [or her husband] can sue for seduction," Judge Desort said, "asking damages of the defendant for an alleged injury to her reputation. In the case of an unmarried woman, her attorney may be able to bring in evidence that the promise made to her was of marriage, so the suit might actually resolve itself into breach of the marriage promise. A husband suing for the seduction of his wife may be able to show the defendant alienated her affections.

"However, only the most hardened gold digger is willing to admit intimacies from the witness stand, so it appears the action of the legislature will be quite effective in curbing heart balm litigation or threats of it. The very fact of an admission of intimacy may render a woman vulnerable to attacks on her past and a possible defense that she never had a reputation to lose."

An examination of the records of the Circuit and Superior courts disclosed that in the past a total of about fifty suits a year have been filied charging breach of promise and alienation of affections. Only about one suit a year is filed alleging seduction.

Expect Temporary Increase.

Attorney Victor Frohlich and other veteran trial lawyers said that while there might be a temporary increase in the number of seduction suits filed by people trying to find a loophole in the law, the courts will frown on these indiscriminate actions and ultimately they will be reduced to a minimum.

Some attorneys may also try to get "in under the wire" by filing breach of promise and alienation suits before the new bill becomes effective, it was realized.

It is estimated that there are approximately forty of these suits now pending which will not be affected by the new bill. About a half dozen such suits go on trial each year; the remainder are dismissed or are settled out of court.

EX-CABINET MAN, 9 AIDS INDICTED IN CUBAN KIDNAPING

HAVANA, Cuba, April 18.—(AP)—Antonio Guiteras, former secretary of war, navy and interior, and nine other leftist leaders were indicted today for the $300,000 kidnaping April 3 of Eutimio Falla Bonet.

Blaming the leaders of the radical secret society, Joven Cuba, police said Guiteras, half American and half Cuban, led the band of kidnapers who, it was also charged, staged robberies and manipulated extortion rackets to get funds for financing a revolution against the government.

Guiteras was believed to be in Miami, where he has been in conference with other leftist leaders. Others indicted were: Evaristo Ulloa, former captain of the Cuban navy, three former lieutenants of police, Rafael Crespo Tamayo, Roberto Meoqui and Santiago Rondon; Concepcion Valdivieso, a woman; Antonio Casariego, Reinaldo Jordan Martin, Adolfo Carillo Miranda and José Vazquez.

AUSTRIAN WAR HERO GETS 18 YRS. IN TREASON TRIAL

VIENNA, April 18.—(AP)—Alexander Eisler, Austrian world war hero and the recipient of many decorations for valor, was sentenced to 18 years imprisonment today by the court martial which tried him for treason.

The charge resulted from Eisler's activities as chief of staf of the Socialist Republican guards at the time of the February, 1934, rebellion.

"TOOK ALL KINDS OF PILLS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF"

Constipation, Due to Insufficient "Bulk," Relieved by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

A fine letter from Mrs. Snyder:

"I have had trouble* with my bowels for years, taking all kinds of pills and drugs, with no relief.

"One year ago, I saw Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and bought a package. I have good movements every day. I am 73 years old. I am telling my friends what bran has done for me."—Mrs. Sallie Snyder, 918 N. Craft Ave., Hollywood, Cal.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B, as well as iron, an element of the blood.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient to correct common constipation. With each meal, in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables. How much better to use this food in place of patent medicines.

At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BREAKFAST ON EASTER REACHES BRAND NEW HIGH

Cooking Editor Suggests Some Unique Menus.

"Catering to Bridge Appetites," a booklet of menus and recipes for bridge refreshments, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

If undue emphasis seems to be placed on Easter gayety this week, don't think, please, that it's just because of the childish leanings of this editor toward pink nosed bunnies and egg hunts. With what we think is a superb piece of buck passing, we're palming it all off as thoroughly justified answers to all of these dozens of aspiring Easter hostesses who have been writing in. And they really have been, you know—asking suggestions for Easter breakfasts, dinners, children's parties, church parties, and all of the other seasonal shindigs. Of course they're getting individual replies by mail, but the interest in Easter breakfasts in particular seems to be waxing so strong that there was nothing to do but give over today's column to that celebrated function.

We'd like to go into the matter of the egg hunts, of which we're so ashamedly fond, just as the proper take-off for this extra special breakfast. However, it lamentably falls outside the cooking realm, and so with strict, self-imposed intentions to stick to our own business we're going to go into the matter of what's to be eaten after every one's properly ravenous from the exertion of the hunt.

Unless one of your family or your guests has what is called an allergy toward eggs, there's no getting around the fact that you'll have to serve them in some form, just out of conformance to the tradition of the years. Even if some one does, it seems a shame to cheat the rest of the crowd just because the unfortunate soul breaks out into a rash at the sight of an egg. Better plan eggs for the party, any way, and provide something else for him.

The best plan of attack probably is, first of all, to submit these three winning breakfast menus for your approval. Then afterward we can crowd in as many actual recipes as seem needful to us and to those fiendish powers that are always chopping off the tail end of this song and story to make room for some one else's.

Here they are, then, planned with an eye for color as well as taste, and not intended to keep mother glued to the kitchen while everybody else is hunting eggs. (Caught at it—off the subject again!)

Just pour the contents of a couple of cans of the zestful juice into the tray, let it freeze part way, and serve it in tall glasses, with refreshing frozen crystals tingling about in chilly liquid.

The stuffed eggs are a revised edition of the picnic deviled variety. While the hard cooked eggs are still hot, divide them lengthwise and mash the hot yolks with ground cooked ham, a mere dash of mustard, and salt and pepper. Stuff the eggs with the mixture, place them on top of hot toast slices, and cover them with a well seasoned cream sauce and a sprinkling of grated cheese.

Coconut Orange Cookies.

- ½ cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ¾ cup coconut
- 4 tablespoons orange juice
- 2 tablespoons grated orange rind
- 1¾ cups sifted cake flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 cup oatmeal
- 2½ teaspoons double acting baking powder

Cream the shortening, add the sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add the eggs, vanilla, coconut, orange juice, and grated rind. Sift the flour with the baking powder, salt, and cinnamon, and mix with the oatmeal. Mix in the flour mixture and drop from teaspoon on slightly greased baking sheet. Bake the cookies (around five dozen) in a hot oven for about ten minutes.

Next come the goldenrod eggs, which are merely creamed hard cooked egg whites over which the colorful sieved yolks are sprinkled. We have given the waffle recipe before, so if you missed it we'll just have to ask you to write in or telephone.

The mock bunny nest of shredded cereal holds delicious eggs (in the third menu), made from cooked, stoned prunes filled with cold half sections of orange. And lastly the marmalade muffins (we haven't room for a recipe, sorry!) are tempting trifles made by baking ordinary muffin batter around a toothsome center of orange or grapefruit marmalade.

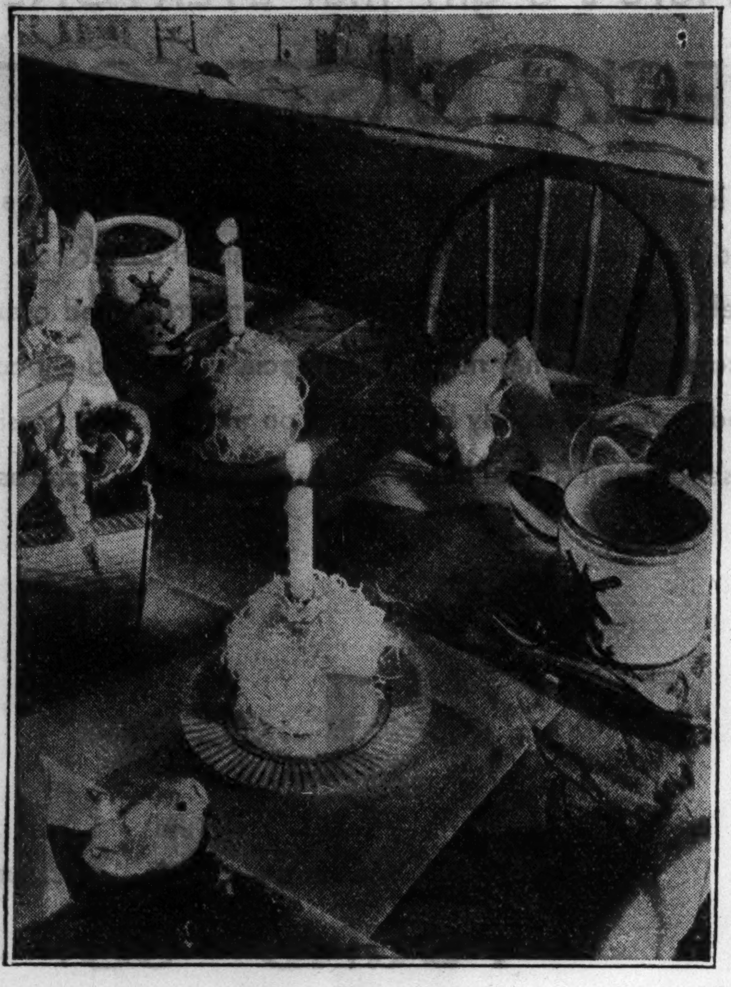
BUNNIES, CHICKS ON GUARD



The bunnies and chicks are guarding candy Easter eggs for the children's party. The birthday candle cakes are for dessert, but they also serve as table decorations.

Household Hints

To prevent curdling of cream of tomato soup add a little flour thickening to the tomatoes. Then add the hot tomato mixture to the milk. Heat quickly and serve at once.

SMOKED HAM SEEN AS MOST ATTRACTIVE BUY

The committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago yesterday issued the following report for the guidance of housewives purchasing meat in Chicago retail meat stores:

"Smoked ham is recommended to Chicago housewives as an unusually attractive meat buy over the coming week-end. A baked whole or half ham makes an ideal dish for the Easter dinner, and by utilizing the remainder of the ham after the Easter meal the housewife obtains meat for her meal at very low cost.

"Lamb also continues to be a good buy."

Seymour De Koven, Artist, to Seek Divorce in Reno

Seymour De Koven, artist and bookseller, said yesterday that he will leave for Reno, Nev., today to establish residence preparatory to suing the former Fay Hart of McComb, Miss., for divorce on grounds of incompatibility. He married Miss Hart in January, 1933, after divorcing Mrs. Rae Adele De Koven in April, 1931.

BOOKLET TELLS "AFTER HOURS" COOKING HINTS

Offers Menu Ideas to Two-Job Holders.

Cooking after office hours is practiced only now and then by some business girls—on such occasions as mother's vacation or maid's night out. But many women in business hold two jobs year in and year out—they must be efficient business workers during the day and capable homemakers out of office hours.

For these holders of two jobs, who frequently run out of menu ideas, Mary Meade has written a booklet suggesting quick methods and short cuts to pleasing, satisfying meals. "Cooking After Office Hours" is its title. Golf and bridge fans, too, will find it a valuable addition to their culinary bookshelf.

How to Obtain Booklet.

To order "Cooking After Office Hours" by mail, send 5 cents, stamps or coin, to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune. Or obtain a copy at once of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents.

PRICES OF FOOD ARE A BIT LOWER; FLOUR IN LEAD

Butter in Downward Trend —Eggs High.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Easter shoppers in Chicago and surrounding suburban food stores will find lower price tags on many staple products today and tomorrow than prevailed last week, with flour heading the list of foods being offered at reduced prices.

According to yesterday's TRIBUNE survey, flour is being sold in most stores this week-end at 9 to 12 cents per 24½ pound sack lower than a week ago. The recent upward trend in butter has been reversed, with the product selling at approximately two cents a pound under last week's prices.

Eggs are still considered high for the Easter season, but some stores are offering them in bulk at about two cents a dozen less than last week.

Vegetables Are Lower.

Retailers are offering fresh tomatoes at two to four cents a pound less than last week, with some stores featuring them on sale at still further reductions. Fresh strawberries are slightly lower in most stores than a week ago. Supplies of this fruit are increasing in the wholesale markets, with the Louisiana crop now coming into full harvest.

Increasing supplies of fresh asparagus, especially from California and Arizona, are resulting in reduced prices. Radishes of good quality are plentiful and are selling at prices considered by dealers to be unusually low for this season.

Lamb Is Best Bargain.

Lamb is considered by butchers to be the best bargain offered this week-end. Most cuts are selling at prices equal to or slightly lower than asked last week, while most fresh beef and pork cuts have advanced.

Cured ham is featured in the butcher shops at more attractive prices than have recently prevailed. Dressed ducks are offered at special prices in some butcher shops. Dressed chicken is selling at about the same figure as last week.

Fish, especially perch and pike, is selling at most meat counters considerably lower than at the beginning of the lenten season.

Potatoes tend to vary from day to day, with Idahos selling in most stores at much higher rates than were asked two weeks ago. Other varieties of stored are quoted at slightly lower figures than last week. New potatoes, however, are higher. Lower grades of sweet potatoes are cheaper than last week. The same is true with low grades of coffee.

New Fruit and Vegetable Can Opens with a Key

A new type of can that opens with a key has been made for fruits and vegetables.

EASTER'S CAKES EASY TO MAKE IN THESE WAYS

Ordinarily we wouldn't care about having our cakes represent a platter of fried eggs. But on Easter that's decidedly the proper thing to do.

The cake is an upside-downer and uses sliced pineapple and apricot halves to resemble eggs. To do it, combine two-thirds cup granulated sugar, one-fourth cup margarine, two tablespoons lemon juice, and one-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar, place them in a heavy nine inch frying pan and cook over a low flame until the mixture is thick and sirupy.

Arragne slices of pineapple in the skillet just to cover the bottom and cook until the mixture again is thick and sirupy.

Prepare a white cake batter and pour over the fruit mixture. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] about 35 minutes. Remove from the oven, invert cake out on a platter, and allow it to cool. Before serving, place a canned apricot half in the center of each of the pineapple slices, and presto! the platter of eggs.

Or to carry out the nest idea for Easter, a pineapple and cheese salad is easily prepared. Cut slices of canned pineapple into fine straws, making them as long as the slices will allow. Roll cream cheese into small egg shapes. Place the pineapple straws in nest shapes on lettuce leaves and place several eggs in each nest.

Should you prefer, the Easter nest may be a candied orange peel one. Prepare the orange peel and while it is still damp shape inside muffin tins. These baskets, when dried, may be removed from the tins, sprinkled with sugar, and filled with tiny candy eggs.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Apples will keep their color during cooking if they are first put in cold water to which a little lemon juice has been added, for several minutes.

WIFE, GRATIFIED AT DIVORCE, ASKS FOR NO ALIMONY

When Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday announced he would award temporary support money to Mrs. Frieda Hansen, 33 years old, 5237 Lake street, her husband, Harold, who had announced in court that he would contest his wife's suit for divorce, changed his mind. Hansen, who lived with his wife only five weeks after their marriage in February, 1934, said he would agree to a default decree if his wife would waive alimony.

"Judge, this woman doesn't want alimony, and except for the fact that she paid the rent and supported her husband from her own funds during their short marriage she would not have asked for support," said Attorney Norman Becker, counsel for Mrs. Hansen. "They had no children and she considers herself well repaid if she gets her freedom."

Mrs. Hansen and two witnesses testified that her husband left her on March 10, 1934, and Judge Desort signed the divorce papers.

ORANGE BUTTER FROSTING.

1 tablespoon grated orange rind
¼ cup orange juice
⅜ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 teaspoon lemon juice
3 tablespoons butter
1 egg yolk
Pinch of salt
3 cups confectioners' sugar.

Let the fruit juice stand with the grated rind for 15 minutes. Cream the butter with the egg yolk and salt. Add sugar gradually, alternately with the strained fruit juice, beating until smooth and of the right consistency.

Governor of Pa. Sends Aid to Mother, Triplets

Somerset, Pa., April 18.—[Special.]—The mother of the famous schoolhouse triplets suffered a relapse today. Her physician barred all visitors and ordered absolute quiet. Meanwhile, a nurse and an inspector sped from Harrisburg to the bleak mountain home under personal orders of Gov. Earle of Pennsylvania, who took the infants, one of whom is ill, into his official arms today.

Survey of Students' Buying Shows Lack of Vegetables

According to studies made of the food eaten in cafeterias at the University of South Dakota, neither men nor women eat enough vegetables, particularly raw ones, and women do not have enough milk and whole grain cereals in their diets.

Mr. B sits down on "Coffee-Floating"

FOR THE ten years of their married life, Mr. Brown had patiently tolerated his wife's enthusiasm for antique furniture. During that time, Queen Anne, Chippendale, Sheraton and Jacobean pieces were shifted in and out of their home.

However, when Mrs. Brown started to serve a different brand of coffee each week—"Just for a change," she said—Mr. Brown lost no time in remonstrating.

"Listen, Mary. I'll make a bargain with you. You can float from one style of furniture to another all you want, provided you stop coffee-floating. There's not one of these brands you've been getting that has a leg to stand on, no matter how you make it, nor what cups you serve it in. You stick to Hills Bros. Coffee. Even though it may cost a little more, you always get more fine cups from a pound than any other brand."

Keep Away from Water

By Alice Campbell.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts a post as companion to Miss Christine Venables, who spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte in southern France. Miss Venables has been receiving mysterious death threats through the mail. Mrs. Mark Venables, stepmother of Miss Venables' adored nephew, Harry, dies suddenly. She had been treated by Dr. Gilcrest of Ste. Brigitte. Miss Venables tells Sarah that she and Maj. Frampton were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Shortly after Maj. Frampton was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron Henri de Bellesnaves and Bimi, his beautiful wife; Beryl Tomlins, town librarian, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Beryl Tomlins is taken suddenly ill and dies. She had taken medicine prescribed by Dr. Gilcrest. Miss Venables receives another threatening letter, telling her she has one more day to live. The fatal day passes safely. Miss Venables takes her medicine and retires. She dies during the night, after declaring that she was poisoned. Sarah tells Dr. Gilcrest that it is up to him to demand a post mortem. It is made but discloses nothing, though the doctor's reputation is damaged. Then the baron dies, apparently a suicide. Dr. Gilcrest conducts a private investigation. The baroness is taken ill and Sarah agrees to stay with her. She distrusts her and the doctor and plans to investigate. That night the baroness has a secret caller. Sarah has hidden behind curtains in the baroness' room. The caller is Harry. He and the baroness are secret lovers, and responsible for the five deaths. Sarah's presence is discovered. She is about to be the next victim when she is rescued by Dr. Gilcrest.

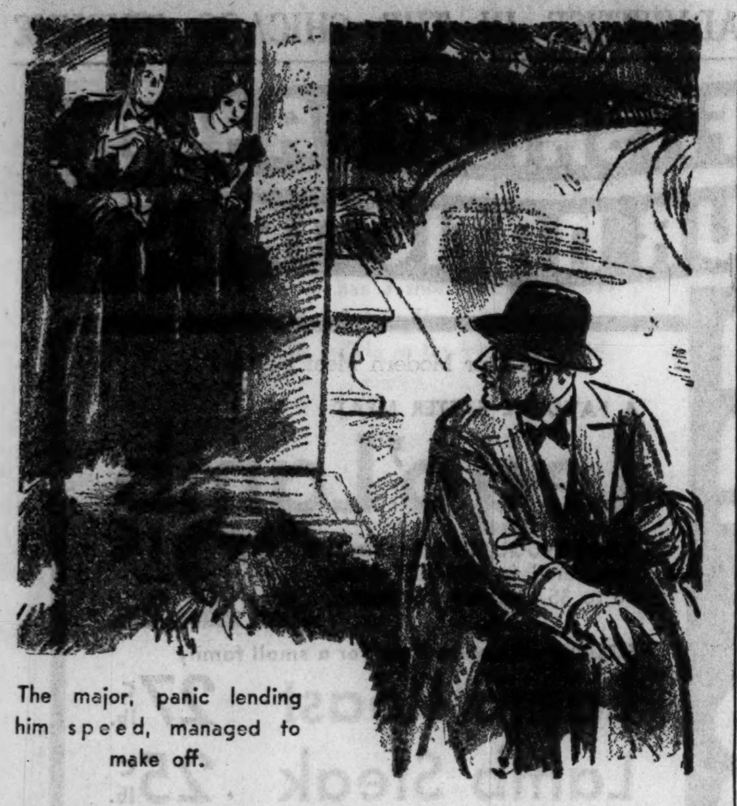
INSTALMENT LIX.

THE HISTORY OF THE CRIMES.

When the sum total of Harry Venable's admissions and other information was dovetailed together, the history of the first four crimes runs as follows:

Very soon after Maddalena de Bellesnaves embarked on her liaison with her friend's nephew she began to envisage a way of laying hands on not only stray pickings from the rich woman's fortune but the actual fortune in toto. She had found a young man whose abject infatuation for her made him her slave. He would marry her if the two obstacles which stood between him and his ample inheritance could be removed, moreover his present financial plight was so desperate that, already conscienceless by nature, he would eagerly agree to her proposals. Actually, of course, there was a third obstacle—her husband; but as Henri had been dying for eight years or more he need present no great difficulty.

It was not hard to bend Harry's weak will to hers, and having won his consent she expounded her plan. Years ago a scientist now dead had told her about a chemical substance, not poison, which smouldered or burst into flame when in contact with water. Introduced into the system it would cause speedy death and in a few seconds eliminate its own traces. The death itself would most probably be diagnosed as natural, but in the event of suspicion arising there was nothing whatever to fear. Maddalena knew that it had been tried once, with complete success, for the scientist had told her so. The substance could be given only in a capsule, which meant the victim must be taking capsules or be persuaded to take them.



The major, panic lending him speed, managed to make off.

Fortunately, as the plotters both knew, Harry's aunt was taking capsules. As the lethal ingredient could be obtained from Brian Gilcrest's laboratory, why not set to work at once? Maddalena herself would prepare a single capsule, Harry would put it with the others in his aunt's bottle, and then in the course of hours or days the dose would be swallowed. Chrissie's death would provide Harry with an excuse to visit the stepmother in Yorkshire, where the funeral would take place. While there he could make an opportunity for getting rid of the other tiresome old hag in the same manner. The stepmother was always ailing, always pleased to try new remedies? He would tell her about a prescription which one of his aunt's friends had used with advantage. Maddalena would provide him with one, in capsule form. The stepmother would get it put up at her own chemists, he would have his private dose ready, and the thing would be done.

The scheme had advanced thus far when a terrifying slip threatened shipwreck to all their hopes. The famous bridge game had just broken up, Maj. Frampton had gone home, and, her husband had retired to bed, Maddalena met her accomplice in the lonely boathouse to hold a conference on the approaching murder of Miss Venables, but the major had not gone home at all. Instead, he had sat down under the sea-side of the little building to breathe the cool breeze, and just too late a retreating footstep warned the conspirators of what had happened. They caught one fleeting glimpse of a blanched, google-eyed face vanishing along the beach. Harry dashed after it, but the major, panic lending him speed, had managed to make off.

Quick? What was to be done? One thing first of all: Christine must be detained till Harry came to fetch her. Maddalena attended to that by telephone, and instantly made a plan to get rid of the would-be informant. It could be confidently assumed that Frampton would not speak of this to any one save Miss Venables herself. His first action would be to inquire at the desk whether she had returned, and then, finding she had not, he would retreat for safety to his room. Only someone with a message purporting to be from Miss Venables could entice him forth. Harry must get himself up as a waiter and deliver the message, directly afterward shoving the man through the open shaft of the lift. Here, this old coat of Sebastiano's would do the trick—and Maddalena had a man's black wig which she had once used for some theatricals. Put it on, smudge a few moles with this eyebrow pencil. There—he was quite transformed.. It would easily wipe off. Climb up the fire escape, if any one caught him he was doing this for a joke—and above all, be careful where he left his car . . .

It worked, precisely as hoped, and without a hitch. No, just one: Vansittart saw him. No matter, the old ass was blind as a bat and almost totally deaf. There had been a short wait before Frampton came up. Harry heard the heavy thump six stories down in the basement, and knew the job was a success. He reached the fire escape, and in two minutes was in his car, speeding toward St. Raphael.

All the same, he was on tenterhooks lest Frampton had spilled the beans to a third person. Had he? Apparently not—but he had done what was almost as bad, left a note, behind Chrissie's locked door, where no one could get it before she did. Harry experienced a paralysis of terror till he had seen the contents. If anything definite were said, he would be forced to strike a second death-blow at once and chance the consequences. Unutterable relief! Only vague hints of a peril unnamed—and better still, while Harry was mumbling that Frampton was drunk, his aunt gave him her own interpretation. Dope peddlers? Marvelous! He must encourage the belief.

Maddalena composed and dispatched the first of the anonymous threats, taking care to leave none of her finger prints on the letter. It did the trick—rather too well. The victim, already intensely miserable in her surroundings, left the same day, to begin a wandering existence during which everything was brought to a standstill.

It may have been the strong streak of sadism in the baroness' nature which made her continue the letters, but be that as it may, before long a secondary result was noted with satisfaction. Harry, whom she was meeting from time to time, declared that constant terrorization was making heavy inroads on his aunt's health. It was even possible Chrissie might die during one of these gastric attacks, and if she survived it was plain she could not keep up this restless life much longer.

Harry angled a Christmas visit to Huddersfield, where, with both his female encumbrances together under one roof, he hoped for immediate results. Not at all. His aunt had contracted the annoying habit of carrying her medicine round in her handbag, the latter never out of her sight, his stepmother, disliking him, sniffed so contemptuousy at his suggested prescription that he retired in despair. It would not do to antagonize Gracie. She knew about the check he had forged and just why his father had tied his inheritance up for years to come. So far she had had the decency not to put Chrissie against him. All he gained by the week's boredom was his aunt's generous Christmas present—a new car, and a fat check. He returned feeling the difficulties of the game were practically insurmountable.

Suddenly luck turned. Chrissie decided to engage a companion and go south. She and Gracie came to London, saw Gilcrest, and Gracie, by all the gods, was ordered capsules! She even entrusted Harry with the prescription. He called for the medicine in person, performed his delicate substitution in the seclusion of a public lavatory, and handed the bottle, wrapped as before, to a messenger to deliver. By morning Gracie was dead. The post mortem demanded by law proved perfectly satisfactory. One obstacle was removed.

ALL PARENTS OWE DEEP LOYALTY TO THEIR CHILDREN

Discipline Shouldn't Mean Ready Suspicion.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

To be loyal to your friends, to your parents, to your country, to your husband, your wife—all this we admire in others and hope we possess ourselves.

But how about being loyal to your children? Some people who really love their children and are almost everything else to them, are not loyal.

Take a common instance like this, that we'll describe:

One Saturday afternoon your neighbor, who has been away from home all day, comes dashing into your house.

"My daffodils are all cut down," she announces. "And I'm going to find out who did it. Mrs. Parkinson said she saw a girl with a blue dress in the garden right after lunch."

At this moment your Sally comes dashing in, in blue jersey, a bulky package under one arm.

"O, mother—I thought you were out," she says, taken aback, and looking odd.

"Where have you been, dear? What is in your package?"

"O, nothing—I mean I can't tell you now, mother. I'll tell you later." And in her excitement the loose package falls, and breaks open, with a shower of yellow daffodils. "O!" cries your Sally, then swoops down in a sort of desperation and gathers them up in protecting arms.

A palpitating silence falls.

"Where," grimly but quietly asks the neighbor, "did you get those daffodils, Sally Brown?"

And now what do you do?

Do you join forces with your neighbor and try to make your child tell where they come from? Or do you accept her refusal to divulge this at the moment, and loyally accept her statement that they are not the stolen daffodils? And are you later rewarded and overjoyed that you did so because they proved to be a birthday surprise for you for which she had saved for weeks?

This is only one kind of loyalty that you can show toward your children. There are many others.

The knowledge that you are unswervingly loyal to him gives deep comfort and a sense of security to your child. "Here," he feels, "is something I can always count on."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

At this time of year families may tire of the flavor of carrots stored in their cellars all winter, but still want to use the supply on hand. Carrot timbales offer variety from the usual buttered carrots, and the milk and eggs help to reduce any strong carrot flavor.

CHESTER GOULD

BEST TO FORBID USE OF LIPSTICK TO GIRLS IN TEENS

Permanents Restricted to Curls at Ends.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A little more sub-deb beauty talk, a mother pleads. Her girl, 13 years old, wants a vanity case for her birthday. She wants a permanent. She wants to be allowed to use a lipstick. "And what can you do with these younger sisters of 19 and 20 year olds who have the whole run of cosmetics on their dressing tables?"

They begin extremely young these days. Much, much too young, we think. But why, we ask, should mothers let these youngsters dictate their own beauty terms? They're not allowed to stay out late dancing. They are not permitted theater engagements because they're not old enough. Mothers should clamp down on lipsticks for 13 year olds and clamp down hard.

As to permanents, there is a large "yes" and a large "no" group. To some youngsters whose stringy hair is an abiding sorrow, the ends could be waved. But a youngster of 14 whom we saw the other day with an all over head permanent, is just no sight of which a mama might be proud. I know the young misses all want the end curls.

If they want them just to keep the ends turned up and off the shoulders, all right. But don't let them have the top hair done. And they will have to be willing, in exchange for the permanent, to submit to oil treatments so that the end hair will not look dried out and strawlike. The girls can get some of the new type curlers that won't bother them as they sleep and do their own wave setting.

As a foundation for permanently healthy hair, I think mothers should see that the misses get an oil shampoo at least once a month, or twice as even better. And teach them to brush the hair straight up from the roots, not tip the head down and brush that way.

I wouldn't let a 13 year old have a lipstick. Let the youngsters go in for good looking nails, however. Without colored polish, that is. They can begin, too, raising better eyebrows and eyelashes for themselves by brushing them with one of the special brushes for this performance and a little vaseline or odorless castor oil may be used to promote the growth.

TRIBUNE RECIPES

HEAVENLY HASH

2 cups fondant
½ cup candied cherries
½ cup candied orange peel
½ cup nutmeats
½ cup raisins [seedless]
⅔ cup coconut [shredded]

DIRECTIONS—Chop the fruit and nuts into small pieces, leaving the raisins whole. Mix fruit thoroughly into the fondant and mold into squares. As much fruit as desired may be used. Coat with chocolate or leave plain.

EVERY AMERICAN ATE 152½ POUNDS OF MEAT IN 1934

Had he his full share last year, each American citizen would have eaten 152½ pounds of meat, or eight pounds more than his share in 1933. This figure represents the per capita consumption of meat in the United States, according to L. E. Kunkle, specialist in meats for the Ohio State university.

But the American is not the big meat eater of the world, Kunkle points out. The New Zealander and the Argentinian eat annually twice this amount. The United States as a nation stands fifth among the meat eaters.

Ever since the meatless days of the war, there has been a tendency in America to eat more meat. Kunkle says the average amounts consumed per person in the years 1915 through 1925 were about six pounds less than the average amounts consumed during the last 10 years. Daily meat consumption in America is 50 million pounds.

Ordinarily, a little more pork is eaten than beef, but last year beef and pork consumption were nearly equal. Cattle and hogs supplied 135 of the 152 pounds. Of the 17 pounds of other meats consumed, 10½ pounds were veal and 6½ pounds were lamb.

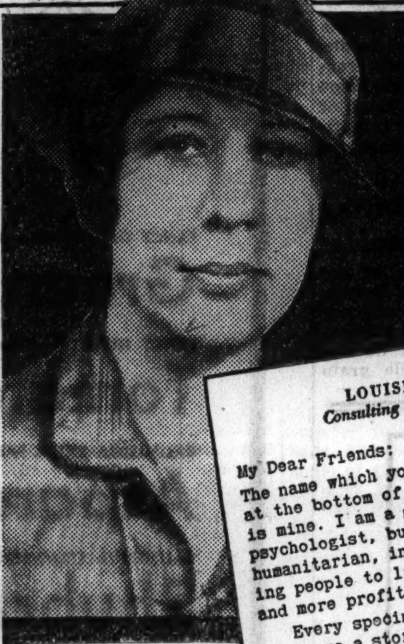
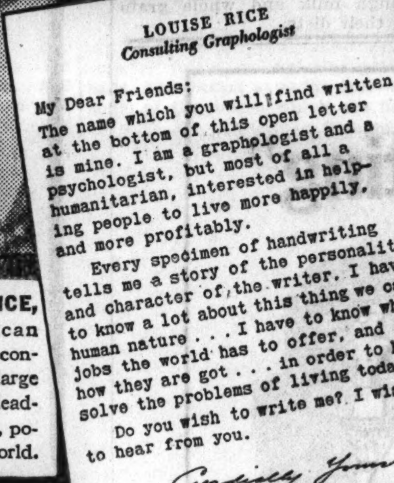
"I will give you a FREE CONFIDENTIAL READING of your personality and character—Just send me a sample of your handwriting with 1 Chipso box-top"



MISS LOUISE RICE, Dean of American Graphologists, is consulted, and paid large fees for advice, by leaders of the business, political and social world.



LOUISE RICE
Consulting Graphologist

My Dear Friends:
The name which you will find written at the bottom of this open letter is mine. I am a graphologist and a psychologist, but most of all a humanitarian, interested in helping people to live more happily and more profitably.
Every specimen of handwriting tells me a story of the personality and character of the writer. I have to know a lot about this thing we call human nature . . . I have to know what jobs the world has to offer, and how they are got . . . in order to help solve the problems of living today.
Do you wish to write me? I wish to hear from you.
Cordially Yours,
Louise Rice

ARE YOU HAPPY— if not, why not? Do you suffer because you are not understood? . . . This personality analysis will help you solve your problems!

Louise Rice Says: "Live and love and work with joy. Let me show you how.

"Are your wishes well suited to your possibilities? Ask me. Popularity is not the reward of beauty nor even altogether of the thing called charm. Your handwriting tells me your individual powers of popularity and success."

Miss Rice will help you solve your problems. Sit down and write her about your hopes . . . your ambitions . . . your discouragements. Ask her to advise you from the qualities revealed in your handwriting.

Easy to Enter!

Just add a "P. S." to your note containing this sentence, "I like Chipso for washing clothes because it makes them wear longer," copied in your handwriting. Attach one Chipso or Chipso Granules box-top (or facsimile). Louise Rice will give you a confidential report free.

WIN A BIG CASH PRIZE!

And—999 Cash Prizes will be awarded for the most interesting personalities revealed in these handwriting entries. You may win a thousand dollars cash—and you have 998 other chances to win a cash award.

Chipso keeps clothes looking new

Chipso makes richer suds . . . washes white clothes WHITE . . . keeps colored clothes BRIGHT. Chipso is gentle—safe for even your nicest things. It's soapier—loosens grimed-in dirt without hard rubbing. And clothes washed this easy safe Chipso way wear months longer . . . Use Chipso for dishes, too! It's quick . . . cuts grease . . . easy on hands. The big Chipso box costs little and goes far. Its richer suds do more work.

When you send in your letter it is automatically entered in the Chipso Personality Contest—you stand a good chance to win a cash prize.

READ THESE RULES CAREFULLY

1. Write a short personal note—just a few words—to Miss Rice. Tell her anything about yourself that you wish to—your problems, your hopes, your ambitions.
2. Add a "P. S." to your note containing the following sentence, copied in your own handwriting.
3. Sign your name and write your address plainly.
4. Mail your note, with 1 Chipso or Chipso Granules box-top (or facsimile) directly to Miss Louise Rice, Chrysler Building, New York City. IMPORTANT: MAIL YOUR ENTRY FIRST CLASS. BE SURE TO AFFIX SUFFICIENT POSTAGE. IT WILL TAKE LESS POSTAGE IF YOU TRIM THE TOP OFF THE BOX TO CUT OFF EXCESS CARDBOARD.
5. The following instructions will help you to get the best reading of your personality and character as revealed by your handwriting:
a) Write in ink on unruled paper
b) Write naturally. "Fancy" handwriting—"tricky" handwriting do not count. Remember, Louise Rice is an expert. She can tell when handwriting is unnatural.
6. Cash prizes will be awarded in order of merit for the 999 examples of handwriting which show the most interesting personality. Judges will be Louise Rice, assisted by Miss Margaret Conklin and Miss Day Holt. Prize winners will be notified on or before June 1st, 1935.
7. Louise Rice will make an analysis of each sample of handwriting submitted and will immediately send you her confidential, individual reading, but the sample of your handwriting will be retained for the selection of prize winners.
8. Contest closes May 1st, 1935. No sample of handwriting mailed later than May 1st, or mailed without a Chipso or Chipso Granules box-top (or facsimile) will be reported upon by Louise Rice except at her regular fee. Remember, your free reading is a present from the makers of Chipso.
9. No member of Procter & Gamble, nor of any affiliated company, is eligible to win a prize in this contest.

NOTE: EVERYONE WHO ENTERS THIS CONTEST GETS A PERSONALITY READING FREE WHETHER HE WINS A PRIZE OR NOT.

Stylish Prints Keep Lead of Spring Parade

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The interest in prints lagged a bit last year, but this spring a good clothes collector can't assemble any sort of a wardrobe without at least a couple of prints. For the cautious soul there are the half and half combines, a costume with probably a skirt, any way a half of the outfit in plain material — the rest in print. Printed taffeta fashions the slip dress in a redingote costume with the coat either of plain wool or plain silk.

Printed accessories solve other problems. A plain silk or wool costume and you can go into the print parade with a belt, neck scarf, and even hat all made of the same printed material. Printed silk underskirts that show when you dash about in your trick slit skirts is still another way of using prints with a knowing restraint.

The most exciting prints to come will be the printed silk suits for street and daytime wear, gay absolutely color-mad prints with dark backgrounds. All the field flower patterns, splashed tropically against black backgrounds, fashion the smartest summer suits you'll ever wear. Thin silks, crêpes, or sheers will be used.

Equally effective cocktail suits of these wild colored silks consist of a long clinging dress with a deftly cut-out back and straps, and a long-ish rather fitted coat with long sleeves. Colored lace blouses are worn with the street or daytime suits and high colored accessories, such as giddy scarlet or orange slippers, a matching chiffon handkerchief, and long chiffon scarf are the telling accents of the cocktail or evening costumes.

The last things to get into print are the lovely rustling taffeta coats that are quilted and lightly padded. These are worn with both daytime outfits in dark colors and with enchanting party dresses for spring and early summer.

Such a coat is illustrated in the fashion photograph. . . . The dress is navy blue sheer with a short sleeved blouse top of small printed soft taffeta. The flaring long jacket coat is of quilted soft taffeta printed in rusty red, green, and blue. It is one perky new outfit, ready for the Easter parade, to be found in a Chicago shop.

Bach 'Passion' a Surrender to Things of Soul

Program Praised as Finest in Orchestra History.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

One comes away from Orchestra hall this week with a pronounced opinion that never in all its years has the Chicago Symphony orchestra done anything as touching, as impressive, as fine as in the penultimate week of its forty-fourth season. For last night there was presented—it will be repeated this afternoon—the "Passion According to St. Matthew," by Johann Sebastian Bach, and one seeks in vain for adequate comment thereon.

For here is no mere case of skilfully turned melody, of artfully wrought climax, of admirable harmonic scheme or imaginative tonal coloring. Yet it has all these and much more. It is religion, complete surrender to the life of the spirit, told in terms of music by one of the greatest masters of all time, and one experiences a fruitful humility of soul in its contemplation.

What is orchestra, what is song, what is opera by the side of such a work? No opera, no matter by what composer, ever had the chilling thrill of the one shout, "Barabbas," by the chorus here.

And one wonders how any other composer ever had the daring to write a sacred solo after Bach had written "In Love My Savior Now Is Dying," as sung by Claire Dux with flute obbligato, or, just before it, "O pardon me, my God," as sung by Kathryn Meisle with flute obbligato. This is the great story, the great drama of all time, set by a man who then and at other times caught sight of the fire of inspiration.

Nothing could have been further from Bach's mind than consciously to write something effective and theatrical, but he could not escape the dramatic feeling in his music. Here was a story to be told partly by orchestra, partly by narrative recitative, magnificently done by Frederick Jagel, Chase Baromeo, and Fred Patten; partly by solo, where Miss Dux and Miss Meisle were even more magnificent; partly by choral comment, and occasionally with a full stop of contemplation by the noble chorales of Bach's time.

The chorus consisted of the Apollo Musical club, the Chicago Symphonic choir, and for a brief time with the addition of fifty singing boys furnished by the Chicago Choirmasters' association. The orchestra, as stated above, was the Chicago Symphony.

Over everything presided Frederick Stock, inspired as never before. He had made a complete revision of the whole score, an edition to make it possible for musicians of the present day. For Bach had an orchestra not to be duplicated today. Many of the instruments, the flute á bec, the viola da gamba, several kinds of alto oboes, have dropped almost completely out of sight, and it is necessary that their music be played by the more modern instruments that have taken their places.

But though times, manners, instruments change, the truth that is in Bach's music does not change. That truth has lived for two centuries; it will live for centuries to come. A masterpiece of genius was unfolded to us at Orchestra hall last night.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

Tantine.

THE most interesting and most charming person with whom I have talked this week—or in many weeks, perhaps—is a woman no longer young; a tall, slender, fragile woman, vibrant with life, with a crown of white hair, and a wrinkled countenance. The wrinkles are perhaps as becoming as the crown of white hair, or as the dramatic black lace hats she affects; it would be sad to think of her without those gentle furrows in brow and cheek, so gracefully has she made them a part of the picture she presents.

A part of the year Miss McLeod —"Tantine" to many people in three continents — lives in India, in the guest house of a Hindu monastery on the Ganges, near Calcutta. A part of the year—in the spring, usually—she lives at her home in Stratford-on-Avon, in the house that once belonged to Shakespeare's daughter, and which has a tree planted by Shakespeare in the garden. The rest of the year she is likely to be found in America. Last year it was Santa Fe, where she made friends with the Indians and the writers and artists alike. This year it was Hollywood, where she visited a famous dancer. At present she is in Chicago visiting Mr. and Mrs. Henry Field.

THE story of Miss McLeod should be run serially, perhaps, to have enough space to give you a glimpse of the wisdom —worldly and otherwise—that her talk reveals. But at the moment I want to tell you the story of Tantine's sapphire, which she wears, set in a Lalique medallion that looks like a carved moonstone, on a slender chain about her neck. She told the story one evening after dinner, sitting in a low easy chair, a black velvet ribbon bound about her white hair, a black chiffon scarf embroidered in gold thread about her shoulders.

* *

MANY years ago a Hindu monk brought a friend to call on her, and her attention was drawn to the beautiful sapphire, as large as a filbert, which hung from his watch chain. When she admired it, he wanted to give it to her, but she thanked him, and said it was impossible. The following day he returned, bearing the sapphire in his hand. Would she not accept it because she loved his people, the Hindus, he begged.

She did accept the gift thus graciously offered—a jewel she later learned was the giver's only possession of value. And for seven years she wore it attached to her watch chain, just as he had worn it. Then, one day, she encountered Lalique in Paris. She showed him the sapphire and asked him to make a reliquary for it. Lalique took the jewel. He kept it a year, and when he returned it to her the sapphire, still in its original setting, was inset in a beautiful Lalique pendant. Tiny, exquisitely carved angels guarded the stone and the rest of the pendant looked like a misty moonstone. Lalique presented no bill.

"Will you not accept it at the same price you accepted the gift of the Hindu—because you love my people, the French?" he inquired.

Miss McLeod finished this tale; I handed back the treasure I had been contemplating as she talked, and there was a gentle silence for a moment. Then she spoke again . . . but what she said next was yet another story.

PARIS TODAY

By MAY BIRKHEAD.

PARIS.—Parisians are always in quest of new restaurants. Although Paris, and France generally, have a world-wide reputation for preparing dishes, yet the eating places, like so many other things, are continually changing. New restaurants come on the map, so to speak, and there is a constant search for unfamiliar places. A restaurant which started in a small way about ten years ago is gradually getting a vogue among the connoisseurs.

Many of them do not like to tell too many people about a new find, for it often means that the prices will go up, or the place will, under pressure of much business, lose its original character. The gourmets like little establishments where often the proprietor and his wife themselves look after the buying and cooking, and know all the secrets of kitchen and cellar. Another thing the seasoned Parisian diner looks for is the special dishes of some province.

We heard the other day of a little place, in old Paris, where the proprietor comes from the Armagnac region, in the high country which is flanked on the south by the Pyrenees. This district is famous for its Armagnac or eau-de-vie, a sort of brandy on the order of Cognac, but distilled from wines grown in the department of Le Gers.

About ten years ago a man from the Armagnac region opened a restaurant in Paris, in one of the small streets not far from the Temple, where Louis XVI. was held prisoner pending his execution. But the Louis in question is the proprietor of this little place, where the tablecloths are of paper, and the floor is sprinkled with sawdust. He calls his joint L'Ami Louis, or Your Friend Louis. He welcomes you what time he can spare from supervising the dishes. If you are resolved on specialties from his country you may have foie gras, sausage, and varied savories, followed by some of the dishes which are brought on with the Armagnac flaming, such as veal kidney, or rognons de veau. When it comes to dessert, you will be attracted by the crêpes, or pancakes, which you also see flaming with the Armagnac, as brandy flames on a Christmas plum pudding at home. And then, after the coffee, in order to have just the right digestif to round off a meal of rich food and drink, you will probably order, to be put in the large globelike thin glasses, a spot of Armagnac—the eau-de-vie—poured from a huge bottle. That you will sip slowly, from the glass which you will warm with your hands. The wines served are from such famous regions as Bordeaux and Burgundy, for those of Armagnac itself are utilized chiefly to make this famous liquor.

Three Surprise Weddings Stir Social Interest

Nanneen Rebori Wires That She Is Bride.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WE intended using as our "lead" this morning something about today being a quiet day socially because it is Good Friday, in fact, we wrote such a story, but we heard so many interesting bits of romantic news that we decided Good Friday's column was going to be too full of real surprises to be headed by the story we had written.

First of all, Nanneen Rebori is married; second, so is Thelma Jensen; third, Lee Alward is going to be married tomorrow night just after her younger sister Pattie is, and last, but not least, Jean Hyman has chosen her wedding day.

Andrew Rebori had the following wire from his daughter yesterday: "Ted and I were married at 10 o'clock last night in Barnstable. We are very happy and hope to see you soon. Sis and Ted," to which he sent this reply, "Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Frothingham, Bass River, Cape Cod, Mass. My hearty congratulations. Wish you every happiness in the world. You can always depend on me to my limit. Dad."

Mr. Rebori wasn't as surprised as he might have been at the news, for Nanneen's letters have been full of references to young Mr. Frothingham ever since she met him two months ago. Her father expected, when he went east in June, to meet the young man, about whom he knows nothing beyond Nanneen's enthusiastic ravings except that he is a graduate of Harvard.

Mrs. Frothingham, who was in her junior year at Wellesley college, made her debut two years ago at a ball given by her father at the Drake hotel, preceded by a dinner at which Mrs. Howard Linn was hostess at the Casino. Nanneen, a member of the Boston Junior league, is a niece of Edward and Richard Prendergast, well known Chicago socialites, for her late mother was their sister.

Miss Thelma Jensen Wed at City Hall.

Thelma Jensen, who made her debut the same season that Miss Rebori did, and Robert O. Hereford, son of Mrs. Henry O. Hereford of New York, were married yesterday afternoon in the city hall by Judge E. H. Wegener of Chester, Ill. James Bateman Jr., with whom the bridegroom has been sharing an apartment in the Marshall Field Garden apartments, was a witness. The bride, who lived with her aunt, Mrs. A. McHenry Harvey, at the Windermere East, went to the Finch school in New York. Mrs. Harvey presented Miss Jensen at a luncheon in the fall of 1933.

Miss Jensen took the leading rôle in the Service club show last fall, delighting every one with her singing. Mr. Hereford, who is a Princeton graduate, and his bride are leaving today for a visit of a week with his mother in New York and upon their return they will be at home for the present at 1434 Sedgwick street. Mr. Bateman is losing his home!

Second Wedding at Reception.

The guests who will assemble in St. Chrysostom's church tomorrow night before 8:30 o'clock were invited to

Big Sisters' Party Monday

Miss Mary O'Brien is one of the young women working with the Big Sisters to make a success of their annual card party next Monday afternoon at the Palmer house. Mrs. George V. McIntyre is president of the organization of Catholic women, whose object is to help spiritually or materially girls and women in need. Mrs. James W. Egan is party chairman and Mrs. Edward Hines is publicity chairman.

New Faculty Members Are Announced by President Hutchins

New faculty members have been engaged at the University of Chicago, President Hutchins announced yesterday. Their services will start Oct. 1. Dr. Samuel Stouffer, professor of sociology at the University of Wisconsin, who was graduated in 1930 from the University of Chicago, will return as a teacher of social psychology.

W. Lloyd Warner, assistant professor of social psychology at Harvard university, will become associate professor in the departments of sociology and anthropology.

Southern Women.

Mrs. Julian S. Hexton was reëlected president of the Southern Women's club at the annual meeting in the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

THE STAGE

The Abbey Theater company of Dublin will return to Chicago May 6 for an engagement of one week in the Blackstone theater. Since its run of five weeks here earlier in the season, the company has been on tour to the Pacific coast. The repertory for the engagement at the Blackstone will probably contain several plays that are new to Chicago.

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne are expected to appear in Chicago early next fall in Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew." Their tour in this Theater Guild production will begin next Monday night in Pittsburgh.

"Life Begins at 8:40," fresh from a long Broadway run, will begin its Chicago engagement in the Grand Opera house tomorrow night. C. C.

May Robson 70; Studio Gives Surprise Party

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 18.—[Special.]—The big event of the day, week, and month was a joint birthday celebration honoring May Robson on the 70th anniversary of her birth and honoring little Cora Sue Collins for her seventh. Announced as a "tea" to the participants so as to leave them unprepared for their surprise, the party quickly engulfed the entire MGM grounds as most of the studio shunted work aside to help the studio's oldest and youngest featured players celebrate.

Miss Robson, who is in her 52d year as an actress, winked back a few happy tears when the head of the studio made a little speech telling how much the company thought of her. The boss then presented Miss Robson with a serving set of solid silver. A vast white frosted cake big enough to support seventy candles and permit one piece for each of 200 invited guests was brought in and Cora Sue helped Miss Robson cut it. Cora Sue received a diminutive white cake, small replica of the big one, with seven candles, but did not cut it.

Both Miss Robson and Miss Collins are playing in Greta Garbo's "Anna Karenina." Miss Garbo, whose three weeks of acquaintance with Miss Robson have been marked by unusual manifestations of friendly interest by the Swedish star, didn't go to the big party. Cora Sue received gifts from all the cast.

All the experts on the Garbo picture pronounce its title as if it were spelled Ka-renn-yin-ah. Garbo, Fredric March, Maureen O'Sullivan, and Reginald Owen are taking mazurka lessons from Margarete Wallmann, in charge of the dance effects, for one of the scenes in "Anna Karenina."

Herbert Mundin says his ambition in life is a mild one, but he doesn't know if he'll ever achieve it: He wants to beat Mrs. Mundin some time playing golf.

Ralph Bellamy got his movie start in the midst of the silent days when he was a bellboy at Balboa Beach, Cal., and the Bill Farnum-Louise Lovely company, making "Wings of the Morning," stopped at the hotel. Miss Lovely fell into a chat with Bellamy, found he wanted to be an actor and obtained a bit in the picture for him. Bellamy hurried to Rupert Franklin, owner of the hotel, to resign as bellhop. This week Bellamy met Rupert Franklin again. The latter was an extra on Bellamy's picture.

Norman Foster has taken a personal film option on the new best seller, "Pumpkin Coach," written by Louis Paul. . . . George Barnes, ace movie cameraman and Joan Blondell's husband, astonished a night club crowd at the King's club by taking a fiddle from one of the orchestra and accompanying Dick Powell, who sang a number, on the violin. . . . Wallace Beery is tuning up his plane for the start of the trout season. He can't pass up a May 1 opening date without being along a trout stream in Idaho.

Bill Haines, who has been in films only rarely in the last three years, but is remembered for his rôles of the smart aleck type at the end of the silent era and start of talkies, is now the interior decorator de luxe around Hollywood. The front of Haines' new shop is a white Virginia colonial with tall pillars, and the inside furnishings spell money in six figures.

Cardinal's Hat Inspiration of Odd Quilt Block

BY NANCY CABOT.

One of our most unusual quilt blocks is the old pieced pattern, "Ecclesiastic," the inspiration of which was a cardinal's hat. The novel, but striking, feature is the reversal of the color scheme. The hat in this particular design is made of white, with soft red forming the facial contour, and a third color separating each hat. "Ecclesiastic" is one of our oldest quilt blocks; its popularity died out for many years, and only recently has it been revived to enjoy its old time favor.

Patterns of this design quilt are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

Three Surprise Weddings Stir Social Interest

Nanneen Rebori Wires That She Is Bride.

witness the marriage of Miss Pattie Alward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan Lee Alward, to Richard Warren Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Morgan Douglas of Winnetka, and to attend a wedding reception at the Fortnightly following the service.

Imagine their surprise, therefore, if Winifred Lee Alward and Ralph Allen Hunt had been able to keep secret their plans to be married at the reception! It is too bad to spoil the surprise and we wouldn't do it if Mrs. Alward had not agreed that it was best to do so since the secret had leaked out.

Lee and Mr. Hunt plan to have the Rev. Thomas Anderson of the Wellington Avenue Congregational church marry them. Miss Dixie Douglas, who earlier will serve her sister-in-law as a bridesmaid, will be the bride's only attendant. Michael Harper of Chicago will be Mr. Hunt's best man. Mr. Hunt and his bride will take a short wedding trip and then will be at home temporarily at 244 East Pearson street.

Miss Lee Alward will not wear the traditional bride's gown, for she will be married in the frock she will wear when she attends her sister as maid of honor earlier in the evening. Miss Pattie is to wear her mother's wedding gown. She and her husband are going to Bermuda for their honeymoon.

Hyman-Harris Nuptials June 5.

Wednesday, June 5, is the date chosen by Miss Jean Hyman and Lincoln S. Harris for their wedding. Where it will be and who will attend them hasn't been decided definitly yet. Miss Hyman is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hyman, and Mr. Harris is a son of the Hayden B. Harrises. Their engagement was announced last fall.

Many Will Attend Church Services Today.

In the year's cycle Good Friday is the one day on which there is almost complete cessation of social activity. Most families will go to their churches for meditation this afternoon or evening just as they will go Sunday for the more joyous services that will celebrate the Easter festival.

These two days provide, without doubt, the most important occasions of the year for a reunion of families at church. Old family pews come into their own once again, but in contrast to the gray scene today there will be the color and gayety on Sunday that will characterize the Easter parade.

Dr. Breasted Will Be Guest at Tea.

Dr. James H. Breasted will be an especial guest at a tea the Cordon club is giving this afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock in the Fine Arts building.

The Cordon will give a frolic, "Hi Edna," written by Mary Cameron, on May 7, 8, and 9 in the clubrooms in the Fine Arts building. The curtain will rise at 8:20 o'clock.

Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne has called a meeting of the women's committee of the Chicago Symphony orchestra after the concert this afternoon in the foyer of Orchestra hall.

Concert to Be Benefit for Nazareth Hospital

A concert will be given Sunday afternoon in the Auditorium theater for the benefit of St. Mary of Nazareth hospital. Artists on the program are Jean Tennyson of the Chicago Grand Opera company; Michael Wilkomirski, violinist, and Isaac Van Grove, pianist and conductor of the Chicago Grand Opera company.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Life is just one bottle of perfume after another around this department this week before Easter. Every time the door opens in pops a messenger bearing fine fragrances. Some are new, some are old. Some bring forth sneers and some loud cheers. But from our point of vantage the whole world seems perfume mad, and we love being right in the middle because we love perfume.

Some utterly luxurious ones came our way yesterday. You can find them in only one shop in Chicago, but they're well worth hunting up. You'll know when you wear them that few other women know about them and that you can easily make them green with envy.

One is very delicate, but it's alluring, too. It's nameless and just about impossible to describe. You'll have to sniff it for yourself and find out whether it suits your soul. One is definitly exotic and you'd better stay away from it unless you've the chic and the distinction with which to carry it. If you can choose it without a qualm you're in luck and we, for one, will be bitterly jealous.

A third is one of the June-night affairs, a lively lilac with a wee touch of come-hither that lilac alone doesn't have. This is a triumphantly successful blend of subtlety and sweetness.

A fourth, called "Buccaneer," has tremendous swagger.

◆

If you know your history of royal Russia you'll remember the elaborately jeweled Easter eggs members of the czar's family exchanged. You may even have seen some of those exquisite mementos of the Romanoffs' reign in the Russian art collections shown here recently.

A Russian perfumer approaches Easter in a fashion that perpetuates the custom. He offers handsome Easter eggs in clear shades of red, green, yellow, blue, or white that contain three dram bottles of his famous and exquisite perfumes.

It's a lovely thing—and the perfumes are among the world's most charming. And it's surprisingly inexpensive. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Congress Hits Nazi Attitudes Toward Women

Orientals Pledge Aid to German Sisters.

ISTANBUL, April 18.—(AP)—Alleged loss of women's rights under the Nazi régime in Germany drew the scathing fire of 300 delegates, representing thirty-five nations, to the Women's International congress, which opened here today.

While the famed Yildiz Kiosk, once the pleasure palace of Kaiser Wilhelm, buzzed to the tongues of many lands, the delegates voted to start feminist counteraction against Nazi policies in which oriental women, just beginning to be freed from male domination, will seek to help save their western sisters from sinking back into like status.

A secret meeting of delegates held before the conference was formally opened saw German delegates sharply questioned as to woman's status under Adolf Hitler.

They were reported to have admitted that the reichsfuehrer's policy of "kinder, kuche, kirche" [children, kitchen, church] has made for lessening of women's rights in the reich. On the basis of their revelations the conference adopted the program of counteraction.

The scene was colorful as women from all over the world gathered in the great palace. Swarthy Indians mingled with fair haired Scandinavians, while the gray haired and austere American and British delegates sat beside black eyed Turkish and Egyptian girls.

Inaugural speeches were delivered in five languages, perhaps the greatest ovation going to the address of Miss Josephine Schain, American delegate. The governor general of Istanbul officially greeted the delegates.

In addition to the status of German women, the conference had on its schedule for discussion child marriage, woman's share in government throughout the world, slavery, and world economic conditions.

Art Exhibits Reflect Spirit of Eastertide

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A beautiful exhibition admirably suited to the Easter season is that of religious paintings by C. Bosseron Chambers, possibly the greatest living artist working in this field, which is on view in the fifth floor gallery of The Fair.

The portrait of Mother Seton, founder of the Order of the Sisters of Charity in America, is of particular significance as it is shortly to be sent to the Vatican where a petition for the canonization of this devout woman is under consideration.

There are twelve canvases in the exhibit and each may be commended for its beauty and spiritual grace. The exhibition could not have been planned for a better time. It is almost an Easter service in itself.

Although spring still seems a little shy about coming to town, I. S. Rosenfels has forestalled its hesitant mood and is leaving it to pout or sulk at will as he takes us immediately into summer with his magnificent exhibit of photographs, chiefly of wild flowers and woodland scenes, current in the Tudor gallery, Chicago Woman's club. This is so fine a showing of skilled photography that to neglect it means a distinct loss.

Marine paintings by Hilda Goldblatt are on view in the Club Woman's bureau, ninth floor, Mandel's. There are several delightful little sketches of boats off the Chicago shore that are vivid, animated and gay. A few larger oils are impressive, but Miss Goldblatt apparently is at her best in the sparkling water colors. The show is full of the feel of summer and sport.

◆

Paintings by Louis Cheskin, decorative and intriguing in design, are hung in the Tower Town galleries as their Easter contribution. It is a most pleasant show, interesting and modern.

Twenty-six paintings by Ellsworth Young are installed in the lounge of the Inter-Fraternity club, 108 South Wabash avenue. "The City," "Wind Wrought" and "East Shore" have received high praise. Among the water colors "McKinlock Campus" and "In Grant Park" are well worth while. It is an interesting and effective exhibit.

The Art institute has arranged an exhibition of reproductions of landscape painting from the 13th to the 19th century in the Children's museum. The survey will interest children of all ages. It is instructive and beautiful.

Jacket Dress Slenderizes

WOMAN'S JACKET DRESS.

A navy blue and white eyelet cotton lends its sheer, fresh quality to this most attractive dress with a jacket. The rever collar of white piqué is accented by a soft, navy blue bow. It's an ideal model to make one appear slender, and is easily made. The sleeves of the dress are short and plain. The jacket is perfectly plain, with full length sleeves flaring slightly at the wrists.

The pattern, No. 3174, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure.

Carries Her Entire Slate Into Office.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. William A. Becker of New Jersey was elected today to succeed Mrs. Russell William Magna as president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The vote, announced at the close of an evening session in Constitution hall, was 1,436 for Mrs. Becker and 619 for Mrs. Flora Byers Gillentine, her opponent in the most hotly contested election in years.

Mrs. Becker, the choice of Mrs. Magna, had a long lead over Mrs. Gillentine and her election had been rather generally regarded as assured until controversy arose over her indorsement of "The Red Network," a compilation by Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling of so-called radicals and communists, among whom were included by the author some of the most prominent men and women in the country.

◆

The fact that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, as well as Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor; Donald R. Richberg, and others closely associated with the present administration, were named in Mrs. Dilling's "Red list" first startled and then alienated daughters who were inclined either to resent Mrs. Becker's indorsement of the book, from which she afterward sought to disassociate herself, to the indignation of the author, or to deplore what they felt to be an injection of the national society into a political and partisan question with which it had nothing, as an organization, to do.

On the other hand, the strong stand for national defense taken by Mrs. Becker was approved by those who preferred such an attitude to the more liberal policies announced by Mrs. Gillentine.

◆

Mrs. Becker's ticket for other offices, all of whom were elected, included Mrs. Julian G. Goodhue, Illinois, historian general.

Mrs. James H. McDonald, Ypsilanti, Mich., was among those elected vice president general.

It was recommended by the congress that the Daughters "call upon the state societies to deny the benefits of their student loan funds to students who pledge themselves never to defend their country or who unite with organizations whose purpose it is to destroy the national defenses of the United States."

D. A. R. Meeting.

The Chicago chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met yesterday in the Stevens hotel. Winthrop Girling, writer, spoke on women in literature. Mrs. Girling named Willa Cather, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Edith Wharton, and Emily Dickenson as outstanding contributors to American literature.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

There seems to be some confusion about the bid out of turn. There are two provinces to this law, depending on whose turn it was to bid when you made your illegal call. If it was the turn of your partner or the opponent on your left to bid, that opponent may demand a new deal. If he elects to let the deal stand, your bid is ignored, and the auction proceeds as if it had not been made. Now let's assume that you bid when it was the turn of the opponent on your right to call. The bidding reverts to him; you can bid again, but your partner has to pass on the next round. This is the same penalty that is imposed for an insufficient bid. If the opponent to your left overcalls, however, your bid stands. There is no penalty for a pass out of turn.

◆

If you happily reopen the bidding, when the auction has been closed, the declarer can call a lead from your partner, the first time that it is his turn to lead. For any other sort of illegal bid, such as doubling when your partner has already doubled, unless it is evident that the call is made in the spirit of sheer fun, the opponent to your left may ask for a new deal or simply disallow your bid. I saw a hand played once where this calling for a lead proved a boomerang. The wrong opponent laid down the ace of clubs. Declarer, after much thought, called for a heart lead. "I have no hearts," replied the other opponent, who had been muttering darkly about sticklers for rules. "I'm leading a small club." "And right back at you with a heart, sport," said his partner gleefully. "The old chiseler! That's the only way the hand could have been set." In the interests of the committee on bridge rules, I must state that such unwillingness to pay a penalty is to be deplored. However, I feel the same sympathy for the declarer in that case that I do for a person who slips on a banana peel. It's very funny, at times.

◆

Instead of calling for a lead when an opponent leads out of turn, the declarer may treat the card led as an exposed card and forbid the partner of the offender to lead that suit when next it is his turn to lead.

Give up this habit of playing before your partner. If the declarer knows his rule book, he can make your partner play either the highest or the lowest card he holds in the suit led; or if he has no cards of that suit, to discard from a named suit; or win the trick by trumping; or not to win the trick. If the declarer has played from dummy, however, you can play before your partner and he can't do a thing about it.

These same penalties may be imposed, if you in any way direct your partner's attention to the trick before he has played on it. You may properly ask, "Are you going to wait all night? It's your turn to play." But you can't say in a significant tone, "That's my ace of clubs, partner."

If you are rushing to catch a train to Bronxville, and have to leave before the end of the rubber, you play what is known as a "railroad rubber" [the term is very appropriate]. The side that has a game adds 300 points to its score.

Toward the end of the play you may discover that you have seven cards, whereas every one else has six. You might as well announce it then and there. The matter is bound to come out, unless you can in some way manage to eat your surplus card. One of your opponents may then demand a new deal. If he does not care to do this, due to the fact that he is well on his way to making six spades, doubled and redoubled, a card must be removed from your hand. If practicable, this card should be the one you might have played to the defective trick.

In the event that you find yourself playing the hand with less cards than any one else, the missing card must be looked for—under the table, in the quitted tricks, or up some one's sleeve. If it is finally discovered that the baby walked off with it, at the beginning of the deal, you must restore the card to the deficient hand. If you find the card in a quitted trick, and you can't decide which card is superfluous, then you can give any card to the deficient hand.

Katharine Cornell to Take "Juliet" on Tour in Fall

New York, April 18.—Katharine Cornell disclosed plans last night for taking "Romeo and Juliet" on tour next fall. Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, and Chicago were on the itinerary, probably to be followed by 10 or 12 one-night stands in other eastern and middle west cities. Following the tour, Miss Cornell will produce for the first time an Ibsen drama, "Rosmersholm," first on the road and then in New York.

Are you a BRUNETTE Turning "Mousey"?

drene SOAPLESS SHAMPOO

It will turn your dull, faded hair into a shimmering crown of glory! Sounds revolutionary, doesn't it? Well, it is! DRENE is neither oil nor soap—yet Drene makes five times the lather of soap! And here's the miracle—Drene never mixes with the minerals in water, perspiration, and scalp-oil, the way soap does, to cloud the hair with unrinsable film! On the contrary it washes away every trace of dirt, oil, dandruff in one lightning rinse. Try it on that discouraged hair of yours—note the clean, silky feel after one quick rinse. The true, deep color of your hair has come back—with a radiant sheen never possible with soap! Get a bottle of Drene today at all dealers.

ITALY CHANGES HEAVYWEIGHT ON BOXING TEAM

K. O. Laria to Fight in Chicago.

BY ED STORER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 18.—Bruno Laria, a strapping youth from Novara, was substituted today as heavyweight on Italy's boxing team that will fight the Golden Gloves champions at Chicago May 22. He replaces Vincenzo Saruggia, who definitly has decided that he will turn professional.

Laria did not compete in the tournament at Milan two weeks ago because of illness, but boxing fans regard him as Saruggia's superior. Laria has the most powerful wallop among amateurs in northern Italy and has a string of knockouts to prove it.

Drill for Two Hours.

Trainer Leo Giunchi assembled his team in Mussolini stadium this afternoon and put them through two hours' strenuous workout for the first time in the presence of boxing federation officials.

Fourteen started training today. The middleweight champion, Bonadio, who won his title at Milan ten days ago, will not come to Rome until a few days before sailing time because he is working in Venice.

Gilberti, the likely selection for light heavyweight on the Italian team, who is a former champion, will arrive in a couple of days. He is competing tomorrow in a big boxing tournament held in Treviso, northern Italy, against the Spanish amateur champions.

Montanari Shows Punch.

In today's training the lightweight, Montanari, showed up especially well. He punches like a heavyweight and will be one of the biggest obstacles the Chicago team will face next month. Montanari will go to Chicago in place of Facchin, it now appears, despite the fact that he was due for military service. Authorities were able to obtain extension of a leave of absence to permit him to make a place on the team.

Facchin, who had been the previous lightweight choice, is out as a candidate, as his job will keep him from participating in further training.

Secretary Edoardo Mazzia of the Italian Boxing federation said tonight he would put on a series of bouts next week and would select the team April 25.

BUDDY GETS DECISION

Kalamazoo, Mich., April 18.—(AP)—Chuck Woods of Detroit and the Baer brothers, Max and Buddy, provided fistic entertainment for 3,000 fans here tonight. Woods topped the card with a 10 round decision victory over Lou Vine of Chicago.

Baer put on four rounds of clowning exhibition work with Battling J. D., a Kalamazoo heavyweight.

Brother Buddy, weighing 246, beat Eddie Anderson, 206, of Detroit in four rounds, and did everything but put him away.

WALTER JOHNSON THINKS RUTH IS DONE PLAYING

St. Louis, Mo., April 18.—[Special.]—Walter Johnson, once one of baseball's greatest pitchers and now manager of the Cleveland American league club, believes Babe Ruth, who last Tuesday began his National league career with the Boston Braves, is through as a player. Johnson based his opinion on Ruth's performance in the American league last year.

"My young pitchers gave him plenty of trouble last year and he couldn't run or field. I'm afraid he is through and doesn't know it," Johnson said. "I can't understand how he can be of any service to the Braves on the field."

International Golden Gloves

Mail orders are now being accepted for the amateur boxing bouts between the champions of Italy and Chicago's Golden Gloves winners at Chicago Stadium, May 22. Address applications to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

There will be no increase in prices. The ringside and center sections of the mezzanine are priced at $3.30. Thousands of other choice seats are available at $2.20, $1.65, $1.10 and 55 cents. All are reserved.

Talking It Over

GEORGE EARNSHAW, White Sox pitcher, had a trick that frequently helped him out when in distress until it recently was called to the attention of William Harridge, president of the American league. . . .

If the day was especially hot Earnshaw would draw two fingers across his brow as if to wipe away perspiration. . . . Then with the wet finger tips he would throw a ball which in effect was a spitball, no longer permissible. . . . Earnshaw got away with it regularly when he was with the Athletics, much to the delight of Eddie Collins, the club's coach. . . . As soon as Collins moved in as business manager of the Boston Red Sox he let President Harridge know about Earnshaw's secret. . . . The Sox pitcher soon received a letter informing him he was violating the rules. . . .

Joe Louis one day ate a ten pound turkey by himself at the home of John Roxborough, one of his managers. . . . Bud Deacon of San Diego, Cal., formerly of Stanford, has cleared 15 feet in the pole vault in practice. . . . He is training for the Olympic games. . . . Last year he weighed only 145 pounds. He now scales 174 and most of the added weight has gone into his arms and shoulders. . . .

His father pulled a throttle on a southern railroad. . . . Many big league pitchers wear woolen undershirts to bed for fear of contracting colds. . . . Torchy Peden's young brother, Sandy, is training for an Olympic cycling championship, after which he expects to turn professional and team with Torchy. . . . KENTUCKY DERBY HOPES

How'm I Going to Pass Up This One?

BY FRENCH LANE

(This is the first of a series of articles dealing with the outstanding candidates for the Kentucky Derby.)

Now if I were betting on Nellie Flag to win the Kentucky Derby this is what I would whisper into my own ear before making the momentous decision to take the wrapper off my bankroll:

"Say, if you really want to make some money this filly is a cinch to win. And if you won't take my word for it just look up the dope. In the first place didn't she win the Kentucky Jocky club stakes last fall in a gallop? And didn't such great Derby winners as Reigh Count, Clyde Van Dusen, and Twenty Grand win that stake the fall before they marched straight home in the Derby?

"Before she scored that victory, beating a lot of the top notch colts of her age, including Gillie, the California Derby winner, she had won the Matron stakes in New York and the Selima in Maryland. The experts didn't rate Chance Sun far ahead of her in the 2 year old championship race last year. In money earned Chance Sun was slightly ahead of her, but as far as real accomplishments were concerned Chance Sun was not more than an inch and a half in front of her in my book.

Mother Was a Stepper.

"Now don't be a chump all your life and cling to the long bearded belief that fillies never beat colts so early in their 3 year old campaign. Didn't Nellie's grand old mother, Nellie Morse, do it when she won the Preakness back in 1924 [may the Lord bless her, for didn't I bet on her that day?], and she probably could have beaten them again in the Derby had she been eligible.

"And say, Nellie's old man, American Flag, wasn't a bum any way you figure it. In my rating he's the best son Man o' War ever sent to the races and as a sire in late years he at times has even made Man o' War look to his laurels.

Runs for Lucky Fellow.

"Furthermore, Nellie runs for a pretty lucky fellow when she struts out in the silks of Warren Wright of Chicago. Do you think he would send her into the Derby if he didn't have a chance to win it? If you have the idea that she's the least bit effeminate take a look at her. Say, she will make some of the Derby colts look like Singer's Midgets when she lines up alongside them at the barrier."

By this time I would have the bankroll out. I would not only have sold myself on a plunge on Nellie Flag, but would also be convinced that I should make a little bet for Jocky Arcaro just to be certain that he gives her a good snug ride.

(The second article of this series on outstanding Derby candidates will appear tomorrow.)

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 18.—Joe Vance, the big boy from Texas, was unveiled as a White Sox rescuer today, but the title holding Tigers spoiled the ceremony. The champions plunked the newcomer for the tying run in the ninth and a moment later were presented with the winning tally because Vance walked Mickey Cochrane, the enemy manager, with the bases loaded. The score was 5 to 4, which was a modest total of runs considering that eighteen Chicagoans and twenty-five Detroit athletes reached first base during the spectacle.

Vance came into the party when there was no further reason for keeping Les Tietje in service in the sixth. Three were on bases and none out at the time. Vance didn't let any one of the three reach the plate. Then he yielded a run in the seventh, putting the Tigers ahead. The Sox responded with a blast that shook the tying run from Tommy Bridges, the curve ball wizard, in the eighth and with another blast that gave them a one run edge in the ninth. But Vance wasn't able to maintain his hold on that slim margin.

Tigers Tie Score.

The first of the series of distressing happenings in the final inning was a single to right by Goslin, who had been somewhat of an annoyance all afternoon. Rogell sacrificed and Walker promptly doubled off the left field fence, sending in Goslin with the tying run. Owen walked and Bridges fanned. Then Vance went into a tail spin. He passed White and next Cochrane, forcing home Fox, who was called into action when Walker twisted a leg sliding into base.

That ended the show with three Tigers still on base, making a total of sixteen stranded runners. The Sox weren't able to equal this mark. Only thirteen of them died on the lines.

A homer by Rip Radcliff and singles by Simmons and Appling let the Sox pick up two early runs off Bridges, but it was apparent that eventually this advantage would mean nothing. Tietje was not only wild but ineffective, although he did manage to wriggle through five innings on a yield of only two runs.

Washington Misses Chances.

Bridges compensated for much of his bad pitching by making Vernon George Washington a goat for the day, although the newcomer did get loose before the finish line was reached. On three occasions prior to the ninth Washington was up with two mates on base. Once he hoisted a foul, once he fanned, and once hit into a double play. But in the ninth Washington doubled to left with one out and on a single by Appling carried in the run that would have meant something if Vance hadn't fallen apart.

Makes Close Decision.

Tietje's first bit of trouble came in the second inning because John Quinn,

Paul Dean, St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, trying out a few curves and fast balls before yesterday's game at Wrigley field. He must have done a good job of warming up because he went on the field a few minutes later and pitched a shutout against the Cubs. Joe Medwick's home run gave the Cardinals a 1 to 0 victory. Senate Votes for Increase in Mutuel Take

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 18.—The senate late this afternoon passed the bill introduced by Senator George Maypole, Chicago, which increases the race track take from pari-mutuel betting pools from 6½ per cent to 7½ per cent. The vote was 37 to 0.

The bill next goes to the house, which is reported to be ready to pass it.

Since pari-mutuel betting on races was legalized in Illinois, the mutuel take has been 6½ per cent and the break on the odd cents was to the penny. The new law not only calls for a 7½ per cent take, but also permits the tracks to break on the payoffs to the dime, which over a season of 150 days will add about another 1½ per cent to the tracks.

Commission Approves Bill.

The bill was approved by the Illinois Racing commission before Senator Maypole introduced it. It was the unanimous view of the commissioners that Illinois tracks could not survive on a 6½ per cent take, and that should the tracks be forced to close their gates, it would bring about a loss in revenue to the state of approximately $700,000. All Chicago tracks, except one, lost money last year, it was pointed out as one of the arguments in favor of the new law.

Amendments to the bill approved today provide for minimum weekday purse offerings of $1,000, with the provision that a stake race be offered each Saturday and holiday that will carry a minimum value of $5,000.

Maryland Has 7 Pct. Take.

Should the bill be approved by the house and by Gov. Horner, Maryland's mutuel take of 7 per cent will be the smallest in the country. The take in Illinois will be the second lowest. All other tracks take from 10 to 15 per cent from betting pools.

LOOK OUT, BAER! WILLARD WANTS TO BATTLE YOU

Atlantic, Ia., April 18.—(AP)—Jess Willard, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, tonight challenged Max Baer, present champion, to a title bout any place Baer names, "and the winner take all." Willard, refereeing a wrestling show, made the challenge from the ring.

"Schmeling challenges Baer. I also challenge Baer. Winner take all," Willard said. "If I can't beat a clown like Baer I'll never admit I was a fighter."

Willard lost the world's championship to Jack Dempsey in 1919, and his age, 47, is almost twice that of Baer, who is 25. The former world champ never has seen Baer fight.

De Kalb Teachers Beat Elmhurst College, 1 to 0

De Kalb, Ill., April 18.—[Special.]—De Kalb Teachers opened the baseball season here today with a 1 to 0 victory over Elmhurst college. Eugene Kylen held the visitors to singles by Allrich and Bork. De Kalb's run came in the first inning when Reino Nori reached first on an error, advanced on a sacrifice, went to third on a hit by William Walters and scored on a double steal.

MEDWICK GETS HOMER TO WIN FOR PAUL DEAN

French Yields Only Five Hits.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

One of the five hits the world champion St. Louis Cardinals made off Larry French yesterday was a homer by Ducky Medwick with two out in the sixth. And that is the main item in the history of how Paul Dean scored his first victory and first shutout of the season, for the final score was Cardinals, 1; Cubs, 0.

The Cubs made eight hits and on four occasions developed what would have been scoring chances against any pitcher but a Dean. But when such threats arose, Brother Paul went to work and made our heroes look just a teeny bit foolish. In the third inning the Cubs had runners on third and first with two out and Cuyler fanned; in the first and eighth innings Augie Galan was on second with none out and each time Herman, Cuyler, and Lindstrom could not move him a foot. In the fourth Lindstrom got an infield hit and went to second on Klein's sacrifice, but stayed right there while Grimm and Hartnett were helpless at the plate.

Ah, There, Charley!

And just to rub it in Paul wound up the game by making Klein line to Frisch and then fanning Grimm—who is out for a world record for nonhitting—and Hartnett for his fifth and sixth strikeouts.

French, in addition to pitching a swell game of ball, also shared batting honors with Herman and Galan, each of whom made two hits. Larry was the only Cub to reach third base. He walked only two and the second was the only inning in which the enemy made more than one hit. One of the pair in the second was an infield scratch. The fifth and last hit scored off French was a bunt which caught Lindstrom by surprise.

Galan Stuck at Second.

After Martin, Rothrock and Frisch had been disposed of in the first inning on infield taps, Galan opened the Cub offensive with a double to left, but he never progressed beyond second. Herman whiffed, Cuyler fouled to Collins and Lindstrom popped to Collins.

Medwick singled to center to get the second inning under way. He went to second on Collins' infield out and to third when Davis caromed a single off French's shins. T. Moore grounded to Lindstrom and Medwick was out at the plate, Lindstrom to Hartnett, Davis stopping at second. Klein came in fast to spear Durocher's fly. In the Cub half of the second Klein bounced out to Collins, Grimm flied to T. Moore and Hartnett fanned.

At the outset of the third inning Dean ran the count to three balls and two strikes, and then took the third strike. Martin bunted out to Grimm and Jurges again threw out Rothrock. In the Cub half Jurges popped to Collins, but French singled to center. Galan popped to Frisch. Herman singled to right, putting French on third. Cuyler was called out on strikes.

Frisch Hits Double.

Frisch opened the fourth with a double to left center and held second while French was throwing out Medwick. Collins walked after a three and two count and the runners moved up while Jurges was throwing out Davis. T. Moore flied to Cuyler.

Lindstrom beat out an infield hit to start the Cub fourth and advanced on Klein's sacrifice. Grimm popped to Durocher and Hartnett flied to Rothrock.

After the Cards had been retired in order in the fifth, Jurges sent Medwick to the left field wall for his drive and French knocked his second single to center. Galan forced French, Collins to Durocher, and was out stealing.

Up and Over!

French disposed of Rothrock and Frisch on easy flies in the sixth, after which Medwick slammed his homer to break up the double row of goose eggs. It was a high shot which cleared the right field screen by several feet. Collins then flied to Galan.

Stadium to Give Kingfish Another Chance.

King Levinsky went to Florida last January, broken in spirit, to recuperate from the effects of a two round knockout embarrassment administered by Champion Max Baer at Chicago Stadium Dec. 28. His departure was the signal for the wise men of boxing to begin ringing what was meant to be the King's death knell. They said he was through as a big money fighter; that he never would recover from the humiliation suffered at the hands of Baer. But they guessed wrong.

Levinsky Regains Standing.

Levinsky gradually regained his standing as a boxer of merit. He did it by going on tour in the hinterlands and chalking up ten consecutive victories, nine by knockouts. The triumphant tour placed Levinsky back in the running for James C. Mullen, Stadium co-matchmaker, yesterday said the wild swinging Chicago heavyweight can have a spot on the next card at the west side arena May 10, provided he signed for a clash with Joe Louis later.

Harold Steinman, representative of Levinsky, said the King will fight Louis for "a reasonable guarantee with a percentage privilege of the net gate receipts." He added the King will be ready to battle any suitable foe within three weeks.

Starts Workouts Today.

Levinsky, who ended his tour by scoring a technical knockout over Hans Birkie at Denver, Colo., Monday, will open workouts at Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon.

Champion Baer and his retinue will return to the loop this morning after featuring shows at Flint, Mich., and Kalamazoo preparatory to leaving again for appearances at Buffalo, N. Y., Monday; Cleveland, Tuesday, and St. Louis on Friday. Max will not box at Buffalo. His duties there will include handling his young heavyweight brother, Buddy Baer, in a four round encounter against Big Boy Bracke. The champion will go four rounds with Eddie Simms at Cleveland.

* * *

Nestor Bruggman, Catholic Youth organization welterweight, will meet Sammy Adams in a six round contest at Marigold Gardens Monday. . . . A four round bout there will pair Eddie Jackson, stablemate of Bruggman, and Hugh Allen, lightweight rivals. . . . C. Y. O. center will remain closed today in observation of Good Friday. . . . Eddie Vlk and Johnny Phagan boxed three rounds yesterday in preparation for ten round conflicts at Ashland auditorium next Friday. . . . Vlk will face Billy Miller and Phagan will clash with Al Diamond. . . .

* * *

Varias Milling, Filipino featherweight, started boxing drills yesterday for his ten round bout with Young Rightmire at Midway arena Monday by going three rounds with Ben Irving. He was aggressive and threw punches continually. In order to correct Milling's habit yesterday to ignore hard counterpunches Trainer Izzy Kline will lengthen today's workout to five rounds. Tony Bruno, Milwaukee, Wis., and Johnny Liston, Chicago, have been matched for an eight round encounter at 160 pounds.

* * *

Bill Treest, Batavia, Ill., light heavyweight, will oppose Mickey Dugan at Cleveland Tuesday. . . . Sig Hart, veteran Chicago fight manager, last night mailed a management contract to Irwin Striebel, 19 year old St. Louis 235 pound boxer, who reached the quarter-finals of the recent National A. A. U. boxing tournament.

* * *

The Campion club of Chicago will sponsor a boxing show at the 132d Regiment armory, Rockwell and Madison streets, Wednesday night. Among the boxers who will appear on the card are Andy Scrivani and Lorenzo Lovings, members of Chicago's Golden Gloves team. Proceeds will be donated to the Campion academy scholastic fund.

13TH INAUGURAL HANDICAP LISTED AT AURORA TRACK

Six Furlong Sprint Will Have $1,200 Purse.

The oldest fixture in Illinois racing will be the feature of the seven race card at the Aurora track when the Fox Valley Jocky club opens the Illinois turf season a week from Wednesday. The Fox Valley Inaugural handicap, a six furlong sprint with a $1,200 purse, this season will have its thirteenth consecutive running. Although in recent years it has been overshowed at Aurora by such races as the $10,000 Illinois Derby, and at other Chicago tracks by such stakes as the American Derby, Arlington Classic, and Hawthorne Gold Cup, none approaches it in number of consecutive modern runnings.

First Run in 1923.

The Inaugural first was run at Aurora in 1923 and has been the first feature of each of the meetings with which Aurora has been opening the Illinois season ever since.

The makeup of the field will not be known for a week, as entries are not due until April 29, and weights and declarations are set for April 30. Many handicap horses will race this season at Aurora, and owners have signified that the Inaugural is their first objective.

The heavier influx of horses into the Aurora stables will come early next week, as the end of racing at Bay Meadows, near San Francisco, and Arlington Downs will release hundreds of thoroughbreds.

Seremba To Have Big Stable.

Frank Seremba will have one of the largest stables on the western turf at Aurora, with 40 horses in his string. Clarence Davison is another that will bring enough thoroughbreds to make him a threat for top honors at the meeting.

By the end of next week, 800 horses should be on the grounds at Aurora, and with additional stables drifting in during the following week, there may be nearly 1,000 on hand for the meeting.

RILEY AWARDED $1,725 IN SUIT FOR HOCKY PAY

Jack Riley, former hocky player with the Chicago Shamrocks and now a member of the Montreal Canadiens team, was awarded $1,725 by a Municipal court jury in his suit for wages due him from James Norris, Chicago grain broker and formerly financial backer of the Shamrocks.

A sealed verdict was opened yesterday before Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby in the absence of Judge J. M. Braude, before whom the case was tried.

The salary awarded was for the 1932-'33 season, during which the team went out of existence and Riley and other Shamrock players were assigned to the Detroit Red Wings.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

KENTUCKY DERBY.

THIS is one of those years when one truly may write of the sixty-first Kentucky Derby, to be run at Louisville May 4, that it is an "open race." From time immemorial that phrase has seen frequent usage. To the usual hazards of Derby prognostications, however, this season we have the added uncertainty of training preparation.

Backward spring and frequent rains in Kentucky and Virginia have so retarded training that many trainers, secretly and often for publication, wonder if their charges will be ready for the test of 1¼ miles. That is why some sharpshooters are looking around among those which raced at Santa Anita, Hialeah, and New Orleans during the winter for a possible eligible for their wagers. Their theory is that such horses would be ready.

Gillie, Mrs. Payne Whitney's surprise winner of the Santa Anita Derby, was not among the 110 nominations for the Kentucky. Perhaps that fact is a headache to the stable now. Neither is Black Helen, which won the Florida Derby. Owner Bradley, with other strings in his bow, evidently figures chances are too strong against a filly's duplicating the one victory of a filly in sixty runnings, that of Regret in 1915. McCarthy, victor at New Orleans, for some reason has not attracted much attention.

* * *

There's one among those winter racers whose preparation we propose to watch. He has been at 50 to 1 in the future books. That's Whiskolo, a bay son of Diavolo-Stonechat, owned by the Milky Way farm of Mrs. Ethel Mars of Oak Park, trained by Bob McGarvey. We saw this fellow in the contention at Santa Anita Derby after half the route had been run. Away slowly, he took the lead around the home turn until Gillie came past him at about the eighth pole. Gillie was patently superior, but Whiskolo was best of the others, including Toro Nancy, winner of the Arlington Futurity and World Series of the Brookmeade stable.

We'll have something to say of the leading candidates soon.

* *

Heredity.

Harvey: With spring approaching, I remember when in Moline H. S. some seven years ago we had a little colored trainer named Alex who died a couple of years ago from tuberculosis. Watching us practice the javelin throw, Alex saw we were not doing well, so said, "Here, give me that spear. That's what we used to kill folks with in Africa." The first time he handled the javelin, Alex, if I remember correctly, threw it 155 feet.

Sam.

Spring Night.

There's a silver sound in April
And a lifting of the heart
In that hour just after twilight
With the coming of the dark;
When the gentle Rain Sprite trails
Her veil across the grass,
And the marshland chorus swells with joy
To hear her footsteps pass;
When Bobbin has been put to bed
And we should go there soon,
But stay our steps with backward glance
At the virgin April moon.

CHANCE SUN HITS SPEEDY PACE IN MILE WORKOUT

Louisville, Ky., April 18.—[Special.]—Chance Sun, Joseph E. Widener's 3 year old, the winter book favorite to win the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs May 4, impressed the turf experts in a mile workout today. Chance Sun covered the distance in 1:41 4-5. He was clocked at the quarter in :49 4-5 and the three-quarters in 1:15 3-5.

Three other Derby candidates worked out. Weston, owned by Jouett Shouse, went the full Derby route of a mile and a quarter and finished in the time of 2:11 4-5. St. Bernard went a mile in 1:42, and Finance, also from the Coldstream stud, covered 4 furlongs in :48 3-5.

WINDUP ON AUTO PROGRAM SUNDAY WILL BE 35 LAPS

The feature auto race at the 124th Field Artillery armory Sunday night will be extended from 25 to 35 laps.

Sunday's program is expected to offer a comparison of the caliber of racing here and that on the Atlantic coast, as two of New York's winning drivers, Wild Bill Holmes and Bozo Balus, will compete. Tony Willman, Ronnie Householder, Pat Warren, and Frank Brisko will oppose the eastern invaders.

TODAY, WHITNEY DERBY PROSPECT, WINS AT HAVRE

Beats Nautch 4 Lengths in Season Debut.

Havre de Grace, Md., April 18.—[Special.]—C. V. Whitney's chances for a victory in the Kentucky Derby were enhanced today when his colt Today made his season's debut and won in a gallop by four lengths.

The race sent Today's price tumbling in future books. He scored in the easiest sort of fashion with Howe stable's Nautch second, five lengths before Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Derby candidate, Bachelor Dinner. Then came Cristate, Soldier's Dream, Be Mine, and Tutticurio. The last named also is a lightly regarded Derby eligible.

Track Is Fast.

The Whitney racer finished the six furlongs in 1:12 1-5, the best time of the meeting. The racing strip was fast for the first time this season, and the colt carried 112 pounds. He was the 11 to 10 favorite.

The fastest 2 year old race of the season was third on the program when Deflate, a Meridian filly of J. P. Jones' won in a gallop at $34.10 for $2. At the end of the four and a half furlongs she was six lengths ahead of the nearest of the others and timed in 0:53 4-5.

Jones Scores with Deflate.

Jones, who was educated for a career in medicine, and is familiarly known as Doc Jones, is one of the most skilled trainers in the local colony. He has been known for years as one who has the ability to uncover a good thing, and Deflate was no exception. She carried his colors, was making her first start, and was trained to the minute.

Taking the track at the rise of the barrier, she was not even pressed. Doc Jones took a chance, in that the race included claiming conditions, and he might have lost his horse.

JAPANESE GOLF STARS ARRIVE IN SEATTLE SUNDAY

Will Tour U. S. Under P. G. A. Sponsorship.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The six members of the Japanese professional golf team which will make a tour of North America this summer will arrive in Seattle Sunday, according to an announcement yesterday by the Professional Golfers' Association of America, which will sponsor the tour.

The team, selected by the Japan Golf association after a number of trials, is the first official group Japan ever has sent to a foreign country, although three of its members appeared in a number of American tournaments in 1931. They are Tommy Mijamoto, Bob Asami, and Jack Yusada. The others are Toichro Toda, S. Chin, and Kanekicki Nakamura. Miyamoto and Yusada are 31, Asami 28, Chin 26, Nakamura 25, and Toda 22.

All Have Held Titles.

Each member of the team at one time or another has held a major Japanese title. Miyamoto, who became highly popular when he visited this country four years ago, was a close student of the leading American pros during his stay here, and is the present professional champion of Japan.

Miyamoto, Asami and Nakamura have held the Japanese open crown. Toda, youngest member of the team, is considered the most promising player in Japan today, and although he has been in big league competition only two years, he has won a number of big tournaments. Last year he scored three firsts, five seconds and as many thirds in Western Japan competition.

The team is managed by Yutaka Kanama, secretary of the Japan Golf association, who will act as interpreter during the tour. Robert E. Harlow, manager of the P. G. A. tournament bureau, is arranging a schedule which will match the Japanese team against all sections of the P. G. A. team. The Japanese will meet the Illinois section team here May 26. The course and makeup of the team has not been decided yet, but will be announced at one of the local group's early meetings.

Here's the List.

April 28—Japan vs. Northwest P. G. A. at Seattle.
May 1—Japan vs. Portland P. G. A. members at Portland.
May 4-5-6—In northern California section.
May 8-9—Japan vs. Southern California section at Agua Caliente.
May 12—Japan vs. Southern California at Los Angeles.
May 16, 17—Japan vs. Midwest section at Kansas City.
May 26—Japan vs. Illinois section at Chicago.
June 3 to 8—In Pittsburgh for national open at Oakmont.
July 11, 12 and 13—In Niagara Falls, Ont., for General Brock open.

The Flossmoor Country club is looking forward to one of its biggest seasons, officials of the club said yesterday. The course weathered the winter well, and the fairways and greens never have been in better condition. A new pump has been installed, assuring the members of well watered fairways throughout the summer. Alterations have been made on some of the old traps, and several new ones added. The sports and pastimes committee has arranged an interesting schedule, which will be climaxed by the club championship, a 54 hole medal play event. The title is now held by Charles Pillsbury. The women's golf and entertainment committee, headed by Mrs. K. T. Sponsel, anticipates a busy year. Several golf events for women players have been set for Thursday, and the usual bridge parties will be resumed.

The Chicago Women's District Golf association will hold its annual spring luncheon Monday at the Chicago Women's club, according to an announcement yesterday by Mrs. George Henneberry, secretary of the association.

WISCONSIN PICKS TOMEK, POSER TO OPPOSE ILLINOIS

Madison, Wis., April 18.—[Special.]—John Tomek and Rolf [Chub] Posen will pitch for Wisconsin in the opening Western conference baseball game tomorrow and Saturday at Camp Randall against Illinois.

Tomek has the better record for this season. Against Illinois State Normal Tomek retired 13 batters in a row and allowed only one hit in six innings. Against Bradley Tech at Peoria he struck out ten and yielded seven scattered hits.

The remainder of the Wisconsin lineup will include Capt. Kenny Nordstrom at shortstop, Charlie Heyer at second, Fritz Wegner at first, Stan Ferris at third, and Chet Carlson, Joe Capicek, and Frank Brilty in the outfield. Toger Reinhart and Steve Rondone will divide the catching.

Injury Spoils Illini Chances in Relay Races

Champaign, Ill., April 18.—(AP)—Illinois will concentrate on individual events in the Kansas relays Saturday, as the result of an injury to Verne Eckert which caused Illini entries in three relay events to be scratched.

Eckert suffered an ankle injury, wrecking Coach Don Seaton's quarter mile, half mile, and mile relay teams.

Irving Seely, who tied with his teammate, Ike Lenington, for first place in the Kansas pole vault in 1933; Bobby Grieve, sprinter; Duane Cullinan, hurdler, and Vincent Van Meter, who has been throwing the javelin around 200 feet in practice, will leave tomorrow for the meet.

INDIANA ENTERS TEN.

Bloomington, Ind., April 18.—[Special.]—Coach E. C. Hayes tonight picked a squad of ten track men who will represent Indiana university in the Kansas relays at Lawrence, Kas., Saturday. Those named to leave tomorrow in the university bus are: Collier, Marker, Gill, Chattin, Hobbs, McCall, Lash, Bicking, Caldmeyer, and Busbee. They will compete in the 100 yard dash, mile, two mile, and medley relays, high jump and discus.

Don Lash, Indiana university's national cross-country champion, and Ivan Fuqua and Charley Hornbostel, former Crimson co-captains, will compete in Princeton university's invitational relay meet June 15, it was learned today.

MICHIGAN STATE TO RACE.

East Lansing, Mich., April 18.—[Special.]—Michigan State college will send one of the best four mile relay teams in the country to the Kansas relays to be held this week-end at Lawrence, Kas. The team will leave today and will be composed of Wesley Hurd, Thomas Ottey, Nelson Gardner, and Charles Dennis.

Hurd has been one of the outstanding milers in Michigan State track history. Until this year Ottey had devoted his efforts entirely to the longer distances. This winter he entered the mile runs and is now among the best milers of the state.

BIG TEN SCHOOLS ENTER.

Lawrence, Kas., April 18.—[Special.]—Three Western conference universities—Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa—are included in the 64 universities, colleges, and junior colleges scattered through 15 states which will send athletes to compete in the thirteenth annual Kansas relays at the University of Kansas stadium Saturday.

This is fewer Big Ten schools than usually enter, yet the field in general is the largest since 1930. The Big Six conference schools are entered 100 per cent and the Missouri Valley conference is well represented. In addition, there are Michigan State, Texas, Arkansas, Arizona, Detroit university, Rice institute and Colorado, in the university division.

The Missouri Valley A. A. U. decathlon, to be run off Friday afternoon and Saturday morning, lists 19 all around athletes, a record entry. Decathlon entries include Ray Patterson of Iowa Wesleyan, who finished second here last year, and Clyde Coffman.

Walton League to Help Hunter Find Shooting Grounds

BY BOB BECKER.

To provide better hunting for sportsmen in Chicagoland the Chicago chapter of the Izaak Walton league has announced the start of a unique service for members and other hunters in this area. This service will find hunting places and advise sportsmen about these areas.

J. R. OFFIELD.

Members of the better hunting committee which will supervise this activity were announced this week by James R. Offield, the chapter's president. The committee will include Stuart Logan, L. H. Barkhausen, and Walter Peacock.

In outlining plans for the committee's activities President Offield said yesterday:

"We plan to establish a committee office in the loop from which information will be sent out to hunters in Chicago and the suburbs informing them about places to hunt and when to go. There is an increasing number of sportsmen who are willing to pay a farmer a nominal charge for hunting privileges. This committee will compile a list of these places for sportsmen, as well as those where no charge is asked.

"The committee also will work with the landowners in developing proper cover for game birds so that there will be an increase of rabbits and upland game in the Chicagoland area. The office of the chapter will, of course, be primarily at the service of members of the Chicago chapter, but it also will be ready to advise all sportsmen on the question of where to go hunting."

President Offield said that the local chapter is considering opening the loop service office in time to furnish information on fishing and camping places, although no decision has been made as yet regarding this step.

To find rabbit and pheasant shooting within a reasonable distance to Chicago has become a real problem for thousands of sportsmen in northern Illinois. Each year sees an increasing number of farms posted against all hunting. In many cases this action is taken because of the conduct of a small minority of irresponsible shooters who ignore the rights of the farmer; leave gates open and generally conduct themselves like anything but sportsmen.

Acting upon the assumption that a farmer deserves reasonable compensation if he attempts to raise a subsidiary crop of rabbits and pheasants, the Chicago chapter's better hunting service aims not only to get acquainted with landowners who will permit hunting on their lands, but also pave the way for compensating such owners if they wish to charge a small fee.

Allison, Hall Reach Final at Pinehurst

Pinehurst, N. C., April 18.—(AP)—Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., and J. Gilbert Hall, Orange, N. J., veteran, today reached the final round of the annual North and South tennis tournament. The final round will be played Saturday.

Allison defeated Hal Surface of Kansas City, 7-5, 6-4, 6-3, while Hall was extended to four sets to take his semifinal match from Archibald Henderson, University of North Carolina player, 6-0, 6-4, 2-6, 6-2.

Jane Sharpe Wins.

Jane Sharpe of Pasadena, Cal., and Mrs. Penelope Anderson McBride of Short Hills, N. J., gained the final round of the women's singles, which will be played tomorrow along with the women's doubles finals, and semifinals in the men's and mixed doubles.

Mrs. McBride defeated Eunice Dean of San Antonio, Tex., 2-6, 13-11, 7-5, in a struggle that lasted three hours and saw nearly every game go to deuce. Miss Sharpe eliminated Florence Leboutillier of Westbury, N. Y., 6-4, 6-4, to gain the final round. Miss Sharpe is the defending champion.

Reach Doubles Final.

Miss Sharpe and Margaret Anderson of Richmond, Va., defeated Mrs. Marcel Rainville and Madeline Deserres, both of Montreal, 6-0, 6-1, in the semifinal round of the women's doubles. Mrs. McBride and Miss Leboutillier eliminated Mrs. H. H. Walsh of New York and Elizabeth Wiel of Menlo Park, Cal., 6-0, 6-2.

Play in the men's doubles advanced to the semi-final round. Ed Fuller and Ramsey Potts, both of the University of North Carolina, triumphed, 6-1, 6-2, over Stuart Kenyon of Miami, Fla., and Don McNeil of Duke university. Allison and Hall eliminated Harvey Harris and Frank Shore, both of the University of North Carolina, 6-2, 6-1.

Rainville and Watt Win.

Marcel Rainville and Laird Watt, Canadian players, defeated F. C. Baggs of New York and Herbert Vail of Pinehurst, 6-0, 7-5. Hal Surface of Kansas City and Barney Welsh of Washington conquered Byron Abels and Ed De Gray, University of Uorth Carolina pair, 6-4, 6-3.

Former Winners to Drive Again in 500 Mile Race

Indianapolis, Ind., April 18.—(AP)—Four former winners of the 500 mile automobile race here—Fred Frame of Los Angeles, Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Cal.; Wild Bill Cummings, and L. L. Corum, both of Indianapolis—have entered the long contest to be held May 30.

Peter De Paolo of Los Angeles and Kansas City, who set a record in finishing first in 1925, may come out of retirement to be the fifth former winner, it was said at the Speedway today. He raced last in 1930.

Meyer is a double winner, having crossed the wire in front in 1928 and 1933. He owns the car he will drive this year and says it will be as fast as any on the 2½ mile course.

Frame won in 1932, Corum in 1924, and Cummings last year, when he set a new track record by averaging 104.863 miles per hour.

Haslin's Single Scores Vergez in Tenth.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 18.—(AP)—The Phillies cut down two big Brooklyn leads by walloping more home runs than their rivals, and defeated the Dodgers, 10 to 9, in the tenth inning today to even the series.

DOLPH CAMILLI.

They caught up after trailing, 5 to 0, and went into the ninth three runs behind. The score was tied when George Watkins drove the seventh homer of the game into the stands with two on base. In the tenth Johnny Vergez doubled, went to third on an infield out, and scored the deciding run on Mickey Haslin's pinch single.

Dolph Camilli hit two of the Phils' homers and John Moore one, while Linus Frey, Sam Leslie and Buzz Boyle were Brooklyn's home run hitters. Score:

REDS BEAT PIRATES, 9 TO 4.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 18.—(AP)—Jim Weaver's debut as a Pirate hurler was spoiled today by the hustling Cincinnati Reds, who chased him in less than two innings and continued their bombardment against four successors to defeat Pittsburgh, 9 to 4. Weaver's wild pitch in the second inning with the bases filled permitted two runs to score.

The Reds combined eight hits in the fifth and sixth innings to clinch the game, their second victory in two days. Both were scored at the expense of the two pitchers Pittsburgh obtained from Chicago in exchange for Larry French. Sunny Jim Bottomley and Sammy Byrd led the Red attack with three hits each.

KELLEY WEIGHS MORE; MAYBE HE CAN RUN FASTER

Boston, Mass., April 18.—[Special.]—Johnny Kelley's extra poundage may prove to be a big factor in the annual Boston marathon which will be run tomorrow. The 27 year old long distance runner, who finished second in the 1934 event, has gained three pounds since last year and trainers believe it will enable him to be a strong contender in the race.

More than 200 runners will compete in the event which will be run over a course of 26 miles, 386 yards. Six former champions, including Dave Komonen, who captured the title last year, are entered. Fred Ward will be the only representative of the Millrose A. A. of New York City.

It's All Settled, Folks: Sox and Pirates in World Series

New York, April 18.—(AP)—If things really do run in cycles of three, then here's one for the hunch players—"the Pirates to win the National league pennant, the White Sox to capture the American league flag this year."

Reason doesn't enter into this at all. It's based entirely on the luck of playing managers in their first full seasons, and the only pair falling into that category this year are Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox, generally picked for last place in the American league race, and Harold [Pie] Traynor of the Pirates, the lone athlete in the National league getting his first full year shot at both thinking up orders and helping carry them out.

Position Means Nothing.

The added fact that they are both third basemen has no bearing on the subject whatsoever.

For the last two years, playing managers trying both rôles from the very start of the season have driven their clubs into the world series. Mickey Cochrane did it with the Tigers and Frankie Frisch, who had the Cardinals part of 1933 as well, not only captured the National league flag but the world championship along with it. The fact that one was a catcher and the other a second baseman has nothing to do with this reasoning either.

Pirates Should Win Series.

In 1933 it was two other freshman playing managers, Joe Cronin, then with the Washington Senators, and Bill Terry, serving his first full year at the helm of the New York Giants, who came down in front of the two leagues in September, and the fact that the Giants also won that world series, to carry out this line of thought to the extreme, would mean that the Pirates would be favorites over the White Sox in the 1935 world series if these daffy cycles of three keep on whirling.

Bucky Harris, back as manager of the Senators, started this by taking over the Washington team in 1924 and driving the club through to the American league title and world series victory over the Pirates in his first full year. Then Roger Hornsby stepped into the leadership of the Cardinals part way through 1925 and in his next full year as manager not only won the National league pennant but scored a world series triumph over the Yankees as well.

Grimm Won in 1932.

Charley Grimm, who managed the Cubs into the 1932 world series after Hornsby was turned loose in August of that year, was among those annihilated by the Yankees in the world series of that year.

Before going too heavily for the Pirates and White Sox, on the sole basis of history repeating itself, lots of playing managers are still trying to win pennants after their first, second, third, and etcetera seasons.

The Phillies, for instance, with Jimmy Wilson in the driver's seat last year for the first time, nearly fell through the bottom of the National league, being held up only by Cincinnati.

Tigers Defeat Sox, 5-4; Get 2 Runs in 9th

the new umpire, didn't seem to make the proper guess on a close play. Greenberg led off with a hard smash at Dykes, who had to hurry his throw. The ball was a bit wide and Bonura had to stretch to get it. Quinn said he stretched so far that he pulled his foot off the bag. The Sox gave him a tongue lashing before resuming play. Goslin then flied out and Rogell walked. The situation was cleaned up on pop-ups off the bats of Walker and Owen.

After Radcliff's homer with two out in the third had given the Sox a slight edge, the Tigers put on a real threat in their half, but there were no developments despite a full house with one out. Bridges started this by doubling to right center. White walked and Cochrane sacrificed. The bags were loaded on a more or less intentional pass to Gehringer. Tietje then fanned Greenberg and personally tossed out Goslin on a slow roller toward first base.

Sox Score Again.

The Sox used only two hits in the fourth to nudge their second run around to the plate. Simmons launched this incident by singling to center. Bonura walked on four pitched balls. Washington elected to hit instead of bunt and finished with a pop foul to Owen. Appling whistled a single past Gehringer, Simmons scoring. Dykes was thrown out by Rogell and Sewell was purposely passed. It turned out to be a good idea. Tietje fanned.

Tietje had more trouble with his control in the home fourth and this assisted the Tigers in collecting their first run. Rogell led off with a pass and dashed to third on Walker's looping single which Hayes couldn't reach. Rogell scampered home on Owen's fly to Simmons. The impetuous Walker stole his way to second and went to third on Bridges' roller to Bonura. White fouled to Sewell for the third out.

Washington Is Tricked.

Washington had a chance for a hero rôle in the fifth, but the famed Bridges' curve was a bit too tricky for him. Hayes singled with one out and was forced by Simmons. Bridges showed his respect for Bonura by walking him. Then Washington succumbed on strikes.

The champions tied it up at 2 apiece in their half of the fifth and might have done far better for themselves if a double play hadn't happened along just when the Sox needed it. Cochrane opened the inning with a single to center and hiked to third on Gehringer's single to the same spot. After Greenberg had popped a foul to Sewell, Goslin's short fly fell for a single in right, Cochrane scoring. Rogell walked for the third straight time, filling the bags. Then Walker bounced to Dykes, who threw to Hayes, who threw to Bonura to complete the twin killing.

The Sox were in a swell spot to transact some business in the sixth but the Bridges' curve ball ruined everything. Appling walked for a starter, Dykes popped out and Sewell singled, putting Appling on third. Tietje fanned. A pass to Radcliff loaded the corners, whereupon Hayes struck out.

Tietje Goes Out.

The contributing factors in the removal of Tietje in the Tiger's sixth were singles by Owen and Bridges and a pass to White, filling the bases with none out. The first thing Vance did about straightening out the situation was to snare Cochrane on a pop foul to Sewell. Then Gehringer sent a wicked hopper back at Vance. Vance grabbed it and threw to the plate to force Owen, and Sewell relayed the ball to Bonura to double Gehringer.

Bridges was up against the wall again in the seventh and escaped again. Simmons and Bonura singled with none out. The opportunity fell apart when Washington banged into a double play and Appling was thrown out by the Tiger curvist.

The Tigers' momentary one run lead in the seventh was due principally to a double by Goslin with one out. Rogell was handled easily on a fly ball and Walker slammed a single into left, Goslin scoring. Owen also singled, but Hayes threw out Bridges. Then the Sox proceeded to tie it up again in the eighth on a pass to Sewell followed by singles by Radcliff and Hayes. And next came the disastrous ninth.

White Sox Start Whitehead Today Against Tigers

Detroit, Mich., April 18.—Jim Dykes, the White Sox manager, is going to spring one of his freshmen pitchers on the Tigers tomorrow when the postponement of last Tuesday is played off. The pick will be John Whitehead. The Tigers' starter will be Gen. Alvin Crowder.

The veteran George Earnshaw will make his 1935 debut Saturday afternoon when the Sox open a three game series at St. Louis.

Al Simmons was complaining today about soreness in his right elbow. He thinks he might have strained the wing when he threw to second base yesterday to kill off Walker, who was trying to advance on a fly ball.

The weather was greatly improved over that of the day previous, but the townspeople didn't show any marked desire to come out and see their champions. There were about 5,000 present. The trimming suffered by the Tigers yesterday was partly responsible.

The Tigers aren't showing any mercy in making their slides into base and the Sox are predicting there will be a war of reprisal before the season has gone many weeks.

Iowa State Polo Team to Encounter Missouri

Ames, Ia., April 18.—[Special.]—The Iowa State polo team, with three veteran members, will play its first game of the season with the University of Missouri at Columbia, May 27. A tentative schedule for the rest of the season bills the Cyclones to meet Missouri here May 9 or 11, and games with the University of Illinois and Ohio State university later in the season.

Monmouth Track Team Beats Macomb, 69 to 62

Monmouth, Ill., April 18.—[Special.]—Monmouth college won the relay and with it the practice track meet with Macomb Teachers, 69 to 62, here this afternoon. Monmouth High school had no trouble beating Roseville in events sandwiched between the college races.

YANKEES DEFEAT RED SOX, 4 TO 0, ON LATE ATTACK

New York, April 18.—(AP)—The Yankees broke into the victory column today in their third attempt of the season, defeating the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 0, behind the steady pitching of Johnny Broaca, who, starting his first full season as a major leaguer, yielded eight hits.

The former Yale star was in trouble several times, but pitched his way out.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The Yanks, held to two hits in six innings, solved Fred Ostermueller for a pair of runs on Red Rolfe's single in the seventh, and nicked Jack Welch for two more in the eighth on Frank Crosetti's double. Both hits came with the bases loaded. Score:

SENATORS, 6; ATHLETICS, 5.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—(AP)—Although Jimmy Foxx made his second home run in two days, the Philadelphia Athletics could not match Washington's early advantage and lost again to the Senators, 6 to 5, today.

Foxx's homer came in the seventh inning, driving in two mates. The A's filled the bases in the eighth, but Cramer fanned to end the rally. Leon Pettit, veteran Southern association southpaw, making his major league debut, fanned Foxx and Johnson in the ninth after Moses had singled.

Hadley, who started for the Senators, drove in Washington's first three runs with a double and a single.

Klein and Durocher grounded to Jurges. After Grimm had contributed his 42d consecutive out to start the home seventh, Hartnett singled to center, the seventh Cub hit. Jurges fanned and French lined to Rothrock.

A double play blighted a Card foray in the eighth. Martin walked with one down and went to second on Rothrock's bunt single to Lindstrom. Then Frisch hit into the double play, Jurges to Herman to Grimm.

Tries to Start Something.

Galan opened the Cub eighth by beating out a slow roller to Martin and went on to second when Martin threw away the ball. After two failures to sacrifice, Herman hit a liner which Collins brought down with a leaping catch. Cuyler popped to Frisch and Lindstrom flied to Medwick.

In the St. Louis ninth Medwick, Collins and Davis supplied infield outs. In the Cub half Klein lined to Frisch and Grimm whiffed to make it 43 times at bat without a hit. Hartnett also fanned, ending the contest.

LEE PITCHES TODAY

Today is ladies' day. The gals probably will see Bill Lee doing the pitching for the Cubs and Si Johnson strutting his stuff for the rejuvenated Cincinnati Reds.

Both Vice President Grimm and Manager Frisch were in favor of postponing yesterday's game at Wrigley field. But the other Cub vice presidents held a meeting at 2 o'clock and voted down Charley John.

Jim Crandall, for many years Al Campion's teammate at the Cub pass gate, yesterday took up his duties as chief of police of the upper deck at Wrigley field.

Chuck Klein hasn't made a hit in the four games he has played since he returned from Chattanooga, but he was hustling yesterday.

Charley Grimm has a long way to go for a no hit record in point of time. Zack Taylor didn't make a hit throughout the 1933 season. Zack wasn't a regular ,however.

In the two games of the season thus far the hitting of the Cub outfield has consisted of a double and two infield singles by Augie Galan and two sacrifices by Chuck Klein. Of the players who played in both games against the Cards Gabby Hartnett has the best batting average, .444. Galan and Herman are tied at .429.

The Reds will be here today, tomorrow and Sunday. The Cubs will leave for St. Louis at noon Monday and will attend a dinner for the world champs Monday evening.

WOMAN BOWLERS START NATIONAL MEET TOMORROW

Ten of the best woman bowlers in the country tomorrow afternoon will begin the national elimination finals at Schueneman's Lake View alleys, 3239 North Clark, for the right to meet Marie Warmbier, match game champion of America, for the title. The field includes four Chicagoans—Cecelia Grob, Betty Kleine, Bess Fender, and Fritzi Trettin.

Others are Lucille Wilson and Ann Johnson, St. Louis; Peggy Lindberg, Gertrude Schuster and Ruth Johnston, Detroit, and Mrs. Grace Hatch, Cleveland, who has 72 medals in national, state, city, and other tournaments.

Four of the ten will be eliminated after 18 games in blocks of six each tomorrow afternoon, tomorrow evening and Sunday afternoon.

The men's finals will open Wednesday night. Twenty-four are in this field which was completed last night with the announcement from Louis P. Petersen, treasurer of the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America, that New Jersey's two representatives will be Mike Lauer, New Brunswick, and Rudolph Galvanek, Perth Amboy.

MAROONS DEFEAT NORTH CENTRAL NINE AGAIN, 4-1

The University of Chicago baseball team won its third victory of the preconference season yesterday, defeating North Central college, 4 to 1, at Greenwood field. It was the second Maroon victory over the Naperville nine.

Connor Laird, Chicago's third starting pitcher, held North Central to five hits while his mates pounded out eleven hits. Edwin Tyk, Maroon second baseman, hit his second home run in two games, driving in Dick Cochrane ahead of him in the second inning. Cochrane, short stop, and Ralph Wehling, left fielder, collected three hits each. Spiegler led North Central with a triple and a single. Chicago beat North Central, 8 to 3, at Naperville Saturday.

The Maroons will meet Notre Dame at the Midway tomorrow afternoon.

PURDUE, INDIANA MEET TODAY.

Lafayette, Ind., April 18.—[Special.]—Purdue will be without the services of John Lang, left fielder, who suffered a fracture of his right ankle against Notre Dame yesterday, when it opens its Big Ten baseball season here tomorrow afternoon in the first of a two game home series with Indiana. The Hoosier rivals are scheduled to meet here again Saturday afternoon.

Coach Ward Lambert still was undecided this afternoon as to how he would fill the vacancy caused by Lang's injury, which is expected to seriously cut down the power of the Boilermaker attack. Leon Dailey, third baseman, may be shifted to left field with Armon at third or Earl Hoagland, veteran reserve, may be given the permanent assignment in Lang's place.

MILLS TO FINISH PRACTICE WITH TWO MORE GAMES

The final of the series of week-end practice sessions of the Chicago Mills semi-pro baseball team will be held tomorrow and Sunday at Mills stadium, 4700 West Lake street. Manager William G. Harley will select the squad after Sunday's drill which will oppose the Duffy Florals in the opening game of the season at Shewbridge field on April 28.

The Mills' home season will start on May 5. Manager Harley yesterday also announced that the schedule for the West Side Amateur Baseball league, which has attracted more than 50 teams, will be adopted at a meeting next Thursday at Mills stadium. It is planned to open the league in May.

PHILLIPS BEATS ENGLEWOOD, 3-0, IN NO-HIT GAME

Langston Abbott Halts Losers' Offense.

The second no hit game of the Chicago Public High School league season was pitched yesterday when Langston Abbott, Wendell Phillips junior, led his team to a 3 to 0 victory over Englewood. It was the second no hit game in two days.

Abbott, who weighs 135 pounds, pitched two one hit games last season. Phillips collected four hits off Chemelik, who went the route for Englewood. Phillips scored its runs in the third and sixth innings.

Marshall Beats Harrison.

A last inning victory by Marshall also featured yesterday's schedule. A home run by Irving Cairo, catcher, with two on base gave Marshall a 6 to 5 victory over Harrison Tech, last year's league champion.

A single by Ed Bartal, following Stuebner's triple in the last inning, enabled Lindblom to triumph over Harper, 5 to 4. Chet Matykiewicz aided in the victory by getting a triple, double, and single in four trips to the plate.

Fenger Wins from Hirsch.

Fenger and Hirsch went an extra inning before the former won, 2 to 1. Fenger scored its winning run when Forte singled and Mosel doubled to right to score Forte.

Be Patient! Stengel Tells All May 9

Philadelphia, Pa., April 18.—[Special.]—Casey Stengel, hailed by all loyal Brooklyn fans as baseball's new wonder man, blossomed today as a prognosticator when he announced that he would make his official prediction on the outcome of the National league pennant race on May 9. And, in setting a special date for his undertaking, he naturally prompted further inquiries as to the whys and wherefores.

"Well," he said, "Monday, May 9, marks the end of the third week of the season, and it takes just about three weeks to learn who is who and what is what with your own and other ball clubs.

'Predictions made before that time are mere guesses. But, give your starting pitchers three, four, or possibly five starts apiece; give your relief hurlers a chance or two under pressure, and give your fielders and hitters 18 to 20 games to establish themselves with their particular departments, and you ought to be able to tell with fair accuracy which clubs are first division and which second division outfits, and possibly, name the actual spots in which they will finish.

"I have said, and I still hold to it, that the Dodgers are 10 per cent stronger this year than last. Almost every other National league manager has said that his team has been improved to the same or to a greater degree. If all of us are right, the Dodgers will remain a sixth place ball club. I have a hunch, though, that some of them have been fooling themselves and by May 9 we'll know whether that has been the case."

POSTL HANDBALL TOURNAMENT TO START SUNDAY

The twenty-fifth annual Postl's handball tournament will start Sunday. The club membership—composed of, business and professional men—numbers many handball players. Of this list eighty have qualified, sixteen for class A and sixty-four for class B.

The following will play for the class A title: R. R. Munroe vs. I. M. Karroll; L. Butterman vs. R. Rose; L. Clonick vs. C. Quinn; M. Bernstein vs. J. Simon; A. J. Schaefer vs. Rev. I. Renklewski; L. Cooke vs. J. Bomash; E. Mulvihill vs. P. Whitman; W. McGinnis vs. Rev. T. J. Burke.

TWO CIRCUSES TO OPEN RUNS IN CITY TOMORROW

Plan Parade and Preview Tonight; Stay 16 Days.

Two animal trainers, a man and a woman, recently injured by their charges in winter quarters, will make their bows to Chicagoans at the simultaneous opening of two circuses tomorrow.

The shows are the Cole Brothers-Clyde Beatty circus, which is to open a sixteen day stay in the Coliseum, and the Hagenbeck-Wallace and Forepaugh-Sells Brothers circus, which is to have a similar run at the Chicago Stadium.

Mlle. Rasputin Hurt by Bear.

The Hagenbeck-Wallace show will feature the American première of Marie Rasputin, 34 year old daughter of Gregori Rasputin, "mad monk" of Russia, who was slain eighteen years ago. She will be unable, however, to appear in her scheduled animal act, because of injuries inflicted on April 10 by a Himalayan bear in the winter quarters of the circus at Peru, Ind. She will be introduced to the audience at each performance.

At the Blackstone hotel yesterday Mlle. Rasputin exhibited fourteen wounds, now healing, which she said were inflicted by the bear's teeth, but declared she would appear in her act as soon as her physicians would permit.

Beatty Recovers After Attack.

The starred trainer of the Cole Brothers circus is Clyde Beatty, who only recently recovered from injuries incurred in winter quarters last January when he was attacked by an African lion. Beatty carries the scars of numerous attacks by the wild animals he has trained. Several times he was critically injured. He will direct his animals at each show.

The Hagenbeck-Wallace circus will hold a preview tonight for invited guests. The Cole Brothers show, which held its preview last night, will have an old fashioned parade tonight. The column is to start at 9th street and Wabash avenue and is to pass State and Madison at 8 p. m. It will wind up at the Coliseum at 8:30 p. m.

MRS. CELESTIA MAXWELL RITES SET TOMORROW

Funeral services for Mrs. Celestia A. Maxwell, 86 years old, will be held tomorrow in the chapel at 63d street and Evans avenue. Mrs. Maxwell died Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Jackson, 3512 Grove avenue, Berwyn.

She was the daughter of the Rev. Nathaniel A. Crary, a leading Universalist of the middle west, and well known supporter of the presidential candidacy of Abraham Lincoln. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery. Mrs. Romani died Tuesday. She was 65 years old. Born in San Concordia, Italy, she was brought to Chicago as a child by her parents and became one of the city's Italian pioneers. With her husband, Virgilio, a business man now dead, she lived on the south side nearly half a century. Surviving Mrs. Romani is her daughter, Mrs. Louise Pellegrini

Hundreds March Behind Body of Police Fire Hero

Policeman Edwin E. Peppard of the Marquette station, who gave his life to save fifteen persons in a burning building at 1209 South Damen avenue early Monday, was buried in Mount Carmel cemetery yesterday. At the family's request, only relatives and a few close friends attended the services in the home of 4817 Cortez street and in Our Lady Help of Christians church. The cortege, however, was joined by several hundred comrades of the policeman, including officials of the police department and of the American Legion.

Two of Triplet Girls Die; Father Still in Jail Cell

Los Angeles, Cal., April 18.—(AP)—Two of the three daughters born yesterday to Mrs. Estella Carranza were dead tonight, while their father sat in a jail cell bewildered by the sudden tragic turn of events and his wife's declaration she did not wish to see him again. He is serving sentence for disturbing the peace. The surviving infant weighs 3 pounds 8 ounces and has a good chance of surviving, doctors said.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Along with radio's tremendous studio audiences [more than 50,000 a week in New York alone] a new technique in gate crashing has been developed. There never are enough passes for all applicants. The Fred Allen show, in fact, has promised all its free seats for a year to come and still the requests pour in. Like Harvey Woodruff, Allen's sponsors are yelling Help! Help! So there are always a lot of aggressive folks trying to push past the doorman—and quite a few succeed.

A favorite stunt is to walk into radio headquarters with a violin. This is one of the best, because doormen seldom have the heart to collar a musician, possibly already late to rehersal. There was one fellow who checked his violin across the street from the Columbia playhouse and used it regularly. Another slipped by as a valet, messenger, electrician, plumber, and sound effects man. On departing he always left a note for the manager telling about his success in breaking in. The manager finally gave him a season pass. But don't let that encourage you.

Studio tickets are free, but there is some scalping. Rosemary and Priscilla Lane of Fred Waring's circus were stopped recently by a fellow who offered them tickets to their own broadcast for two bits. The low price disgusted them.

Col. Stoopnagle was standing at a studio door recently smoking a cigaret just before his show. Up rushed a man pleading, "I am Col. Stoopnagle's brother and I never have seen one of his shows. Couldn't you let me in?"

"Certainly," said the Colonel, "always glad to do something for a brother of Stoopnagle." And then he showed him how to slip in.

Artists who run short of passes sometimes aid gate crashers. One evening Rubinoff tried to smuggle in a party of friends. "I'm Rubinoff," he protested, whereupon a dispute ensued with the page boy. In the mêlée his friends slipped in.

At Chicago NBC studios a favorite gag is, "We just got married—you certainly wouldn't turn us away." Or they say they're close friends of Amos 'n' Andy, or they've come all the way from Gallup, N. M. There were actually two cowboys who came in by freight from Sun Dance, Wyo., to settle a controversy as to whether Bill Childs really does the tap dance with the Greater Minstrels troupe or whether it's sound effects. They got in and one lost the bet, but NBC wouldn't say which one.

Raymond Knight's "Kuku" hour will return to NBC at 9 p. m. Monday, May 6. . . . And the Carefree Carnival will be back at 1:30 p. m. Sunday, April 28, on WMAQ. . . . Mrs. Frank Bering, the former Joan Winters, is playing leading parts in NBC's "Lights Out." She portrayed the countess in Wednesday evening's show.

Max Baer will return to the air in a new serial titled "Lucky Smith," to be inaugurated over NBC at 9:30 Monday, April 29, under the sponsorship of a razor blade concern. The same sponsor is negotiating to put on the Baer-Braddock championship fight on June 13 over the combined NBC networks.

Aileen Stanley, musical comedy star, cabled relatives here yesterday that she suffered only bruises during the Atlantic storm which caused injuries to several passengers aboard the liner Washington which docked yesterday at Southampton. Miss Stanley is to begin a radio engagement over 2LO in London early in May.

DUTCH SCHULTZ SCORNS PLEA OF GUILTY IN TRIAL

Syracuse, N. Y., April 18.—(AP)—Dutch Schultz, once overlord of a Bronx "beer empire," has no intention of pleading guilty midway in his trial on charges of income tax dodging, he and his counsel made clear today.

MARGUERITE SCHOLL.

Most spirited witness of the trial thus far was pretty brunette Marguerite Scholl, 24, stenographer and general office assistant in the "automobile financing" company office operated by George Yarlas and Dick Wolf, bookkeepers for the Schultz enterprises.

She described a raid by federal agents and police there in June, 1931—a raid in which records being used in the trial were seized. Pay rolls delivered to her by Yarlas and Wolf carried, among other names, she said, those of Schultz, Wolf and Yarlas.

She flared up with a spirited "I did not," when, on cross-examination, J. Richard Davis of defense counsel, asked her if she had ever received "dresses and things" from any one in government employ.

F. Dumont Smith, 'Kansas Lawyer with Monocle,' Dies

Hutchinson, Kas., April 18.—(AP)—F. Dumont Smith—known as "the Kansas lawyer who wore a monocle"—died today at the age of 74. A native of Illinois, Smith also amazed his Kansas constituents in 1905 while a state senator by wearing dove colored spats and swinging a cane. He created wide attention in 1931 when he differed sharply with Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart, Harvard historian, on the latter's George Washington bicentennial pamphlet, which Smith said was filled with inaccuracies.

Mrs. Ella Severn, Niece of James A. Stillman, Dies

Kalamazoo, Mich., April 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ella Goodrich Severn, wife of Herman H. Severn, dean of Kalamazoo college, died today. She was a niece of the late James A. Stillman, New York banker.

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—Rallying tendencies, although not very pronounced, characterized in trading in the listed bond market today in the last full trading period of the week. United States government bonds, which were lethargic most of the day, stiffened at the close and finished generally higher, up 4-32ds to off 2-32ds point on the day.

Although the turnover in the government issues on the stock exchange reached $2,673,500, a single transaction in the fourth Liberty 4¼s accounted for $1,000,000 of this amount. The block changed hands at the closing price of 102 18-32ds, off 1-32d point from the day before.

Cheaper Money Aids List.

The government list, as well as the highest grade corporation groups, were aided by yesterday's slicing of the official call money renewal rate to ¼ of 1 per cen, a new record low. The sale of a substantial issue of notes by the state of Massachusetts, at exceptionally low interest, was also a sustaining market factor.

A recovery in railroad bonds was the principal feature of the domestic corporation group. Many of the rail issues erased their losses of the day before by advancing a point or more. The Chicago and North Western issues, notably, recovered 1 to 2⅜ points. Public utility and industrial bonds were irregularly easier.

Foreign Issues Firmer.

Most of the net changes in prices of leading foreign loans were fractional, with the average a shade higher for the day. German government bonds continued easier, the 5½s establishing a new low for the year at 27. British and Japanese government loans were fractionally lower as French and Italian government issues climbed fractionally.

In view of the fact that security exchanges will be closed tomorrow for the Good Friday holiday, trading was rather apathetic. The turnover amounted to $10,574,000, par value, against $11,254,000 Wednesday.

National Baking.

Investors' Guide: I have National Baking preferred stock. I received my regular dividend up to June 1, 1932. Since then I have heard very little from the company. I shall appreciate information on it.—Miss N. M. H.

Answer: The principal product of National Baking company, Omaha, is "Omar" flour, which is sold extensively in the middle west. It also operates bakeries in Columbus, O., Indianapolis, Milwaukee, and Omaha.

The company has failed to show a profit in the last three years. Net loss for the year ended June 30, 1934, was $80,000, against losses of $104,000 and $70,000 for the two preceding years. Profits in the period from June 1927, to June 30, 1931, ranged from a low of $152,000 to a high of $316,000 a year.

Current assets on June 30, 1934, were $1,831,000, and current liabilities were $348,000. Although during the year ended June 30, 1934, consolidated funded debt was reduced $96,000, working capital at the close of the fiscal year was $1,283,000, against $1,381,000 the year before.

Funded debt totals $605,000. There are outstanding 11,737 shares of $100 par 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock and 148,169 shares of $1 par common. Nothing has been paid on the preferred since March 1, 1932, while nothing has ever been paid on the common.

Marion Steam Shovel.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me some information about the bonds known as Marion Steam Shovel?—Mrs. L. B.

Answer: Earnings of this manufacturer of power excavating machines, cranes, and similar equipment reflect the severity with which inactivity in the durable goods industry has hit some of the companies engaged in this division of industry.

A slight pickup in activity during the second half of 1934 enabled the company to report a profit of $47,000 for the period. This cut loss for the full 1934 year to $215,000, against losses of $571,000 for 1933, $678,000 for 1932, $447,000 in 1931, and $685,000 in 1930. In 1929 net income was $524,000 and interest was covered 3.62 times. Interest currently runs about $139,000 a year.

A strong current position has enabled the company to absorb these losses without serious damage, but profit and loss deficit has increased to $2,511,000. At Dec. 31, 1934, working capital of $3,529,000 compared with $2,311,000.

The 6s, due 1947, constitute the only funded debt of the company. They are more a speculation than an investment.

BOND REFUNDING OF $100,000,000 EXPECTED SOON

Additional Large Loans Are Considered.

New financing next week is expected to top the $100,000,000 mark, according to estimates made in the financial district. Among the large issues expected next week are a refunding issue of $73,000,000 of Southern California Edison company 3¾ per cent bonds and $12,000,000 of first mortgage 4 per cent bonds of the Monongahela railway. The week after, stockholders of the Edison Electric Illuminating company of Boston will hold a special meeting to consider plans of the management to refinance its large short term debt into long term bonds.

Registration of the prospective Commonwealth Edison 3¾ per cent bonds is expected near the end of the month. It is understood that an underwriting group of seven houses has been formed to handle a $29,000,000 issue. Five of the houses would each take $5,000,000 and two $2,000,000 each.

Another Utility May Act.

The Public Service of Northern Illinois may call its first lien and refunding "H" 6½s of 1952 soon, it is said. The issue is redeemable at any time at 105 on thirty days' notice.

The Monongahela railway has applied to the interstate commerce commission for authority to issue new bonds, and approval is expected shortly. The new bonds would run for twenty-five years.

With the proceeds of the $12,000,000 issue the company would retire its $5,000,000 first and refunding 4½ per cent bonds, which are owned in equal amounts by the Pennsylvania railroad and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie. These two roads, with the Baltimore and Ohio, own all the stock of the Monongahela. On completion of this financing the $12,000,000 bonds will constitute the only debt of the road.

Utility Plans Refinancing.

Stockholders of the Edison Electric Illuminating will hold their special meeting on April 30 to consider the refinancing plans. For years it was the company's practice to make periodic stock sales to finance construction, but market conditions in recent years have not been conducive to that form of financing.

The last issue of coupon notes was issued since the securities act went into effect, and the company then avoided the necessity of a registration statement by placing the securities privately with banks. The fact that in the present instance the management will ask approval of the stockholders suggests the likelihood of either a long term bond offering or a combination of bonds and stock.

Oil Refunding Likely.

Several large units in the oil industry have been mentioned as likely to enter refunding operations to reduce fixed charges. Ohio Oil company is said to be negotiating for the sale of an issue of bonds to retire its 6 per cent preferred stock. Texas corporation and Consolidated Oil recently were reported considering new issues for refunding purposes.

Massachusetts yesterday awarded $5,396,400 of its notes. Of the total $4,000,000, dated April 25, 1935, and due April 15, 1936, went to Salomon Brothers & Hutzler at 0.24 per cent and $1,396,400, dated April 25, 1935, and due Nov. 1, 1935, went to the First Boston corporation at 0.21 per cent plus $71 premium.

A syndicate which included Halsey, Stuart & Co. and Lehman Brothers was awarded $1,846,000 of 2¾ per cent 21 year average of New Jersey institution construction bonds on a bid of 100.15.

VOLIVA MAKING FINAL FIGHT FOR ZION INDUSTRIES

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion City, was reported to be making a last ditch fight to retain some semblance of control over Zion Institutions and Industries, Inc., following postponement yesterday of a scheduled hearing in proceedings to reorganize the concern under section 77B of the bankruptcy law, until Wednesday.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson had specifically instructed attorneys to eliminate provisions in the present plan under which Voliva would gain practical control. Counsel for both sides, in asking the postponement, indicated that an agreement was about to be reached.

Wall Street Security Corp. Case Postponed to April 29

Examination of the affairs of the Wall Street Security corporation before Referee Archie H. Cohen was postponed yesterday until 3 p. m., April 29. Harold J. Green, attorney for W. W. Porter, head of the company, which is in bankruptcy, said his client is ill. The Wall Street Security and a number of other investment companies controled by Porter recently was investigated by agents of the Security and Exchange commission, who secured a court order stopping their operations.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firm today. While spot prices remained unchanged at 3.30c per lb, shipment sugars sold at further advances. Sales reported included 18,000 bags of Philippines due May 15 at 3.35c and 60,200 bags of Porto Rican and 81,000 bags Cuban for May, June, and July shipment at 3.33c to 3.38c to outport refiners. Operators bought 42,700 bags of Cubas for August shipment at 3.38c and 28,000 bags for September shipment at 3.40c.

Early declines of 1 point to 3 points in futures on realizing or liquidation were recovered in the later trading in trade buying and covering. From the extreme decline there was an advance of 3 points to 4 points, with some of the more active positions at new highs for the season. Realizing checked the upturn and final prices were slightly below the best. Sales were 27,950 tons in the No. 3 contract and 11,000 tons in the No. 1.

BUTTER PRICES UNCHANGED TO HIGHER; EGGS ADVANCE

Trade in butter and egg futures yesterday was relatively slow, but there was no material pressure and at the close butter prices on the Chicago Mercantile exchange were unchanged to ¼ cent per pound higher and eggs ¼ to ⅜ cent per dozen higher. Potatoes finished unchanged to 2 cents per 100 pounds lower.

The into storage movement of eggs and butter remains relatively light, only 30,000 cases of eggs and 178,000 pounds of butter moving in at the four leading markets. Collections of eggs in the midwest during the last week were reported as 5 per cent less than last year, while on the Pacific coast there was a reduction of 12 per cent. The American association reported butter production 9 per cent less than a year ago.

PRICES OF COTTON FUTURES ARE 5 TO 15 POINTS HIGHER

Liquidation of a large line of long cotton, said to have been for continental accounts, caused a sharp break in futures early yesterday, but the offerings on the decline were absorbed by trade interests, and the market rallied sharply as the selling let up. The finish was about the top with net gains of 5 to 15 points in Chicago and 10 to 14 points in other markets. Strength in stocks was a factor toward the last. Spot cotton closed 10 to 15 points higher, with New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 12 cents and New York 11.90 cents per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

LARD DECLINES 10 CENTS AS COMMISSION MEN SELL

Spreading operations between lard and cottonseed oil continue to furnish a good part of the trade in the former, and actions of the grain markets at times result in moderate buying and selling. Commission houses sold lard against purchases of cottonseed oil. The close was 10 cents lower. Bellies were 10 to 20 cents lower. Provision experts claim that as a result of the limited arrivals of hogs there is little lard being made at the present time. Cash lard closed at $12.70, loose and leaf $12.62, and bellies at $16.50 per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

HIDE FUTURES.

Reports indicating tanners were after additional supplies of spot hides, with sales reported of 16,000 South American hides to this country and 5,000 to Germany in addition to sales of 15,000 to 18,000 at Chicago at full prices, had some effect on the futures market in New York yesterday. Removal of hedges against the spot sales was a factor. At the close futures were 1 point to 13 points higher with sales of 127 lots or 5,080,000 lbs. HOUSE BANKING BILL FRAMED TO SUIT ROOSEVELT

Control of Reserve System Provided.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—In almost precisely the form the Roosevelt administration desires, the omnibus banking bill of 1935 was completed today by the house banking and currency committee. The redrafted version will be introduced in the house tomorrow by Chairman Steagall [Dem., Ala.].

The bill would institute a permanent federal deposit insurance system to supplant the present temporary plan, which expires next July 1; it would alter the present organization of the federal reserve system in regard to appointment and powers of federal reserve bank governors; it would assure federal reserve board members better salaries and pensions on retirement, and it would broaden the powers of the federal reserve board over open market operations, reserve requirements for member banks, and rediscount rates.

Gives President More Power.

The bill gives the reserve board a veto power over the election of governors of the federal reserve banks. It also makes the governor of the reserve board removable at will by the President, with no requirement that cause be shown. It authorizes the board to seek, so far as can be done by monetary and credit regulation, to promote business stability and mitigate unstabilizing influences upon the general level of production.

The deposit insurance provisions in the final draft call for insurance of accounts up to $5,000, with all banks assessed annually at ⅛ of 1 per cent of their average deposit liability. Representative Steagall asserted this would protect 90 per cent of the depositors of the country in full, and that 14,000 of the 15,000 banks in the nation were insured.

Nonmember Banks Gain Point.

Existing requirements that state nonmember banks must join the federal reserve system by July 1, 1937, in order to continue their insurance, were omitted from the final draft. This stipulation had been fought from the outset by small banks operating under state charters, and by members of congress from rural areas, who contended the reserve system held no benefits for such small institutions.

Some changes in the original draft, suggested by the hearings of Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the federal reserve board, were incorporated. One of these would direct the reserve board "to exercise such powers as it possesses in such manner as to promote conditons conducive to business stability and to mitigate by its influence unstabilizing fluctuations in the general level of production, trade, prices, and employment, so far as may be possible within the scope of monetary action and credit administration."

Sidestep "Commodity Dollar."

This clause was inserted to supplant strong sentiment in the committee that the board should be instructed so to manipulate the money and credit of the country as to restore prices to a certain level [usually 1926 was taken] and to maintain them there. This "commodity dollar" philosophy was supported principally by Representatives Goldsborough [Dem., Md.] and Cross [Dem., Tex.]. The committee finally voted down Goldsborough's suggested amendment along this line.

Meanwhile the senate banking subcommittee prepared to begin hearings on the measure tomorrow. Its chairman, Senator Glass [Dem., Va.], is insistent that the centralization provisions be stripped from the measure. The committee will hear the views of Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, on the provisions of the bill affecting that institution. Senator Glass plans to go from that section to the one making technical changes, taking up the centralization provisions last of all, in an effort to drop it from the bill.

WM. B. MAYOR IS PROPOSED AS HUPP PRESIDENT

Detroit, Mich., April 18.—[Special.]—The name of William B. Mayor, veteran automotive engineer, today was proposed as president of the Hupp Motor Car corporation when rival factions of stockholders entered peace negotiations.

Following a conference with Edward J. Moinet, federal judge, counsel for both sides indicated that a settlement will be possible when they meet again Friday morning.

Tentative agreement was reached on these points: Archie M. Andrews, chairman, and J. Walter Drake, former chairman, rivals for control, will be asked to withdraw from the board of directors; a new and harmonious board will be selected, and application for a temporary operating receiver will be withdrawn.

A broad hint for warring factions to eliminate themselves had been given previously by Judge Moinet in open court. George L. Schien, general counsel for the corporation, said that Andrews would withdraw when a constructive program has been developed.

NEW YORK STORE BUYS VANDERBILT MANSION CORNER

New York, April 18.—(AP)—The sale of one of the most historic corners on Fifth avenue, the site of the old Cornelius Vanderbilt mansion, for a price reported in the neighborhood of $3,000,000, was announced today.

The property was sold by the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York to the newly created 754 Fifth Avenue corporation, a subsidiary of Bergdorf Goodman, a department store. It has a frontage of 135 feet on 58th street and 85½ feet on Fifth avenue.

The sale marked the first division of the property since Frederick Brown bought the old mansion for $6,000,000.

Cheap Money Cuts Income of Investors

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Want any money? It's yours almost for the asking.

There is only one proviso. You must be able to show that you can pay it back when your loan comes due.

If you are a broker you can go to a bank and borrow $20,000 on a call loan at the rate of $50 per year—or the price of a new suit of clothes.

If you want to play the market you can buy stocks on the margin and borrow money from your broker for as little as 1½ per cent per annum, provided your account is big enough to be attractive to the broker and your credit is good.

Big commercial and industrial corporations in sound financial condition are now getting money to cover current needs for as low as 1 per cent.

* *

Never was there a time in the history of the country when there was such a plethora of idle cash seeking investment. The banks of the nation carry deposited in the federal reserve banks more than 2,200 million idle dollars over and above the amounts the law requires them to carry with the reserve system.

Banks are combing their customer lists striving desperately to find some way to lend out a few additional thousands here and there. Insurance companies have the same problem. Private trusts are so hard put to find a way to invest their funds that they are scrambling to buy long term municipal bonds that yield less than 3 per cent.

* *

All this is the direct result of the government's program of manipulating interest rates to abnormally low levels. The treasury is borrowing short term money from the banks at less than a quarter of one per cent on a yearly basis and its long term bonds are selling to yield little more than 2½ per cent.

It is commonly believed in financial circles that one of the chief purposes of this "easy money" squeeze is to enable the treasury to make a fine showing and that the treasury expects to put out a long term bond issue at about 2½ per cent. It is also believed that the treasury will be able to do something of the sort.

But the "easy money" squeeze works both ways. Banks already having eliminated the interest that they used to pay on demand deposits in conformity with recent legislation now are beginning to talk about reducing interest rates on savings deposits. They must find a way to reduce their outgo because the income from their loans and investments is drying up.

* *

Investors are chagrined to discover that corporations whose bonds they hold are taking advantage of the opportunity to call in these bonds and offer in exchange bonds paying lower rates of interest. Individuals who have retired to live on the income from their investments are thus confronted with the necessity of lowering their standard of living.

Thus, the conservative fellow who didn't go in for Middle West stock or real estate bonds is now beginning to take his licking. The bonds that are being called are those of the gilt edge variety. The investor whose bonds are called is able to buy new bonds of a similar degree of soundness but they pay him 25 to 40 per cent less income.

* *

Where the mad rush of easy money will end no one at present presumes to predict. If markets were active and possibilities of corporate profits were not so effectively dimmed by threatened legislation in Washington and increased operating costs resulting from tax boosts and NRA there are many who believe a wild speculative boom would ensue, especially in view of the 40 per cent cheapening of the dollar.

But people with money to lend or invest are frightened. They want to put their funds only in highly liquid loans and investments so that they can turn them into cash, if necessary, on short notice.

Meanwhile the government takes advantage of the situation that it has created and continues to borrow more money and at continually declining interest rates.

Call money at ¼ of one per cent is just as abnormal as call money at 6, 8, and 12 per cent just before the big stock market break in 1929. Everybody concedes that present money rates can't stay where they are indefinitly, but when the break will come—whether it will be six months, a year or two years hence—nobody knows. Nor does anybody presume to predict just what will be the ultimate result of reducing the earning power of money practically to the zero point.

COCA-COLA NETS $12.49 PER SHARE; TOTAL $14,328,668

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—The Coca-Cola company and subsidiaries reported for 1934 consolidated net profit of $14,328,668 after all charges, equal, after dividends on the class A stock, to $12.49 a share on 985,900 no par common shares.

Profit and loss surplus on Dec. 31, 1934, amounted to $24,762,053. This compares with $28,118,335 a year earlier.

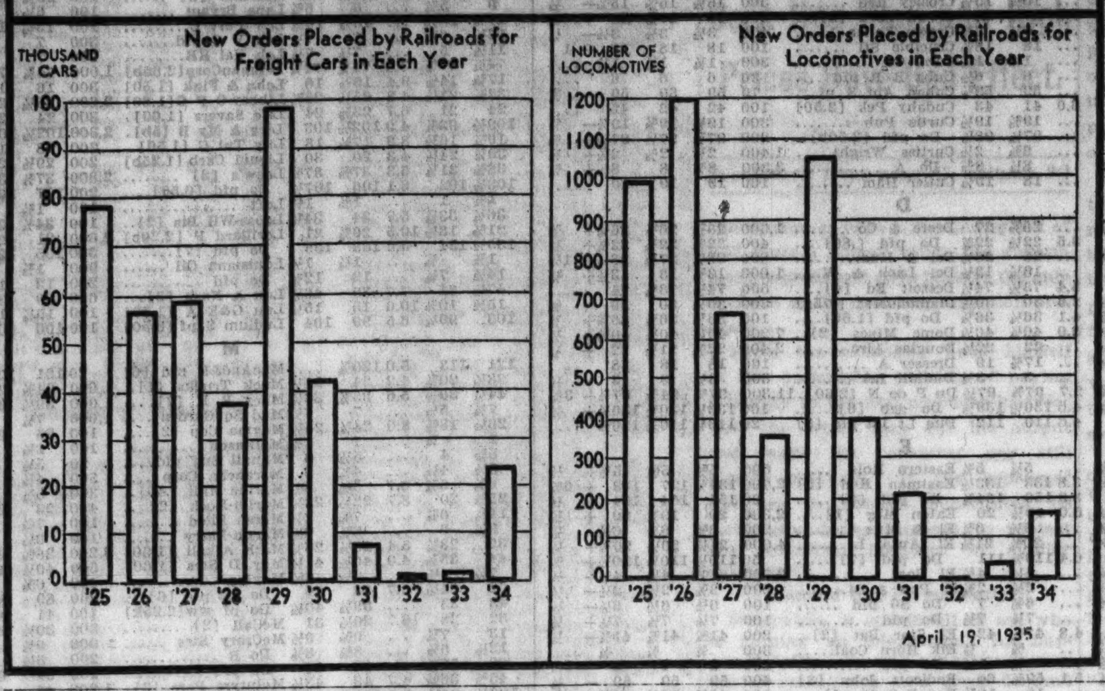
Current assets, including $6,878,440 cash and United States and Canadian government securities, amounted to $20,070,909, and current liabilities were $3,959,125. This compares with cash and United States and Canadian government securities of $4,219,239, current assets of $14,534,458, and current liabilities of $3,615,300 at the end of the previous year.

CHICAGO YELLOW CAB QUARTERLY INCOME TREBLED

The Chicago Yellow Cab company yesterday announced that net income for the first quarter of 1935 trebled that of a year ago and at the same time declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, payable June 1 to stock of record May 20.

Net profit after charges for the first quarter amounted to $70,206, equivalent to 17½ cents a share, compared with a net of $23,370, or 6 cents a share, in the corresponding period of last year.

Orders for New Railroad Equipment Increased Last Year—Still at Low Level



Jobs, Pay Rolls Increase Again, Perkins Says

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—Factory employment and pay roll figures for March showed an upward swing for the fourth successive month, Secretary Perkins announced today. Jobs increased 1.5 per cent and pay rolls 2.5 per cent as compared with February, she reported. Employment rose 2 per cent above the level of March, 1934, and weekly pay rolls were 9.3 per cent above a year ago.

It was estimated that the rise in employment for March in the combined industrial groups returned 121,000 workers to employment and that the weekly pay rolls were $5,400,000 larger than in the preceding month. The manufacturing industries employed about 97,000 more workers in March than in February and the increase in weekly wages was $3,500,000.

Index at Higher Level.

Using the period 1923-1925 as 100, the bureau of labor statistics' index of factory employment for March was 82.4 and the index of factory pay rolls 70.8. Excepting April and May of last year, the March index of employment reached the highest point recorded since November, 1930. The March pay roll index exceeded the level reported in any month since June, 1931. At the same time another governmental agency reported farm and food prices at the highest level in five years.

Secretary Perkins said that employment in reporting establishments last month was larger by 2,810,000 and weekly pay rolls higher by $17,000,000 than in March, 1933, the low point of the depression.

"While employment in the durable goods groups of manufacturing industries continued to lag considerably below the level of the nondurable goods group, the durable goods expansion was again more pronounced than in other groups," Miss Perkins said.

Group Index Rises.

"The increase of 2.2 per cent in durable goods brings the index for this group to 70.8 [on the 1923-1925 base], indicating that approximately 71 out of every 100 workers employed in this group in 1923-1925 were employed in March.

"In the nondurable goods group, the gain of 0.7 per cent in employment raised the index to 94.8, indicating that nearly 95 out of every hundred workers employed in the nondurable goods industries during the years 1923-1925 had jobs in March. The gains in pay rolls in these two groups were more pronounced than the employment gains, rising 3.6 per cent in the durable goods group and 1.7 per cent in the nondurable goods group.

"The increase in employment in retail establishments in March reflected seasonal expansion for spring trade. It is estimated that nearly 36,000 workers were returned to jobs in various lines of retail business. Wholesale trade establishments reported a decline of nearly 9,000 workers."

ESTIMATES OIL TAXES ARE FIVE TIMES PROFITS

Cleveland, O., April 18.—(AP)—Baird H. Markham, director of the American petroleum industries committee, told delegates at the annual convention of the National Petroleum association here today that oil taxes are almost five times as great as oil profits. He said taxes amount to $1,000 for every worker in the industry and that, on a per vehicle basis, gasoline taxes had increased 22,500 per cent in 16 years.

"The petroleum industry has been a shining target for sniping revenue hunters," Markham said, "because it is commonly supposed to deal in 'liquid gold.' In the last few years, however, oil has been liquid gold only to the government, which has obtained more money by taxing petroleum products than has the industry that produces, refines and markets them."

WORLD MARKETS TO CLOSE TODAY

Security and commodity exchanges throughout the Christian world will be closed today in observance of Good Friday. Banks and stores will remain open.

The Chicago Board of Trade and the New York and Chicago Stock Exchange will resume business tomorrow morning. The cotton market and other commodity exchanges in New York will not resume operations until Monday morning.

English markets will not resume business until Tuesday morning.

LOWLY FREIGHT CAR PRIMPING UP; TRIES STREAMLINED STYLES

Baltimore, Md., April 18.—(AP)—Not to be outdone by stylish locomotives the prosaic freight car is now being streamlined.

Eight of the new freight carriers, each of a different design, have been completed in the Mount Clare shops of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad here. Today they took their first trip when they zipped across the rails behind a new design locomotive to Washington.

New box cars of startling appearance, with rounded tops like covered wagons of old; aluminum alloy hopper cars which can discharge cargo across the tracks instead of on them, as present hopper cars do, and other "futuristic" cargo-haulers, were in the "twentieth century freight train" that rolled for the first time today.

All of the vehicles are built of light alloys. The railroad is trying out the new type vehicles and will decide if it will replace present equipment with them.

DUTCH GUILDER GAINS SLIGHTLY; FRANC DECLINES

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—Foreign currencies showed irregular movements in trading today. Dutch guilders not only held their own but gained slightly against the dollar, rising 1 point to close at 67.49 cents. Ninety day futures in the guilder continued to improve, the discount amounting to only 2.10 cents compared with 2.15 cents yesterday.

Scandanavian currencies were steady to 1 point higher and German marks rose 1 point. Other leading currencies were steady to lower against dollar values. French francs dipped ⅛ point to 6.59⅛ cents, making the dollar worth $1.0064 against francs, compared with $1.0062 yesterday. Based on the old parity of the franc the dollar was worth 59.44 cents, against 59.43 cents yesterday. The pound eased ⅛ cent at $4.85½.

Swiss francs lost 2 points to close at 32.34 cents, and belgas declined 1 point to 16.92 cents, or 3 points below its new parity. Lire dipped off 1¾ points to 8.28 cents. Chinese silver currencies were steady to lower as the price of commercial silver again started upward. Hongkong dollars fell 20 points at 52.65 cents, but Shanghai dollars were unchanged at 39.70 cents.

In London the price of bar silver rose 3-16 penny to 30 15-16 pence a fine ounce, equivalent to 67.61 cents, and in New York the price of foreign mined silver for domestic use gained ⅝ cents to 67⅝ cents an ounce. Bar gold prices in London rose 3 pence to 143 shillings 7 pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.83.

The Federal Reserve bank of New York reported as additional for Wednesday the receipt of $18,127,100 gold from Holland, but had no reports of additional engagements of gold abroad.

BANK CLEARINGS GAIN, BUT FALL BELOW YEAR AGO

New York, April 18.—(AP)—Bank clearings last week showed irregular changes, but the total was under the heavy volume reported for the like week last year. The total for the 22 leading cities as reported by Dun & Bradstreet was $5,321,203,000, against $6,021,939,000 for the 1934 period. The figure showed a gain of $118,255,000 over the preceding week.

New York clearances were again sharply below those of the previous year, while the aggregate for outside centers was 3.5 per cent higher. The former at $3,535,396,000 were down 17 per cent. The outside total was $1,785,807,000.

Chicago had a small gain at $245,200,000 against $244,300,000. Gains were smaller at other key cities.

BANK OF FRANCE SHOWS FURTHER DECLINE IN GOLD

PARIS, April 18.—(AP)—The Bank of France, for the second successive week, today reported a loss of gold holdings which dropped from 81,985,000,000 to 81,384,000,000 francs during the week ending April 12. [The franc was quoted today at 6.589 cents.]

This is the lowest point the holdings have reached since Aug. 17, 1934. The drain on gold, which totaled 1,250,000,000 francs during the previous two weeks, was attributed by banking circles chiefly to repatriation of Belgian capital, although there have been small shipments to London and New York.

Sues to Block RFC Voting Utility Stock

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—Norman C. Norman, New York jeweler who carried his action to obtain enforcement of the gold clause in Baltimore and Ohio bonds to the United States Supreme court and who defied the NRA jewelry code, today brought an action in the Chancery court at Wilmington, Del., to restrain representatives of the Reconstruction Finance corporation from voting the controling stock in the Utilities Power and Light corporation, dominated by Harley Clarke of Chicago.

The RFC became a party at interest in the Utilities Power and Light system six weeks ago, when it elected five of the eight directors to the board of Public Utilities Securities corporation, whose principal asset consists of 500,000 class B voting shares of the Utilities Power and Light corporation.

This indicated, according to financial observers, that the RFC would dictate the election of a majority of the directors of the Utilities Power and Light corporation at its next annual meeting.

Stock Pledged to Bank.

All the common stock and a note of the Public Utilities Securities corporation had been pledged with the Central Republic Bank and Trust company of Chicago by Harley Clarke to secure a loan made by the bank to the Webster Securities company, Clarke's personal company. The RFC came into possession of the collateral together with other holdings of the Chicago bank to secure its loans to that institution. In addition, the Webster company had pledged 182,000 additional Utilities Power and Light B shares directly owned by it with the Chicago bank, making an aggregate of 682,000 shares out of 2,107,000 total voting shares, now in the hands of the RFC.

In addition to 80,000 common shares, all originally owned and later pledged by the Webster company, the Public Utilities Securities corporation has 100,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative participating preferred stock outstanding, on which arrears amount to some $2,000,000. Large blocks of the stock are held by two large New York investment and banking organizations.

Files Receivership Suit.

It is as a holder of 100 shares of the 7 per cent preferred stock that Norman today filed a receivership suit in the Chancery court of Delaware against the Public Utilities Securities corporation, alleging that the defendant corporation is insolvent and unable to meet maturing obligations.

The chancellor issued an order restraining the directors of Public Utilities Securities corporation from voting the 500,000 Utilities Power and Light class B shares or from creating a new voting trust in which the shares are to be held, Norman said today. The orders will be served upon the directors at their meeting here tomorrow, he said. A hearing on the appointment of a receiver will be held in the Delaware court on May 6.

Meanwhile, no call has been issued for the annual meeting of Utilities Power and Light corporation by the present management, although the meeting normally would be held on April 24 at Richmond, Va., on the grounds that the annual report has not yet been completed. Requirements of the New York Stock exchange, where certain shares of the company are listed, are that the annual report be forwarded to stockholders at least fifteen days in advance of the annual meeting.

WEST SIDE ATLAS BANK REPAYING ANOTHER 12½%

The West Side Atlas National bank has yielded another 12½ per cent repayment to depositors, raising the total return to 41 2-3 per cent since closing. The current distribution amounts to approximately $105,000. Previously 29 1-6 per cent, or $247,200, had been repaid.

Checks are ready, Receiver J. L. Mitchell announced yesterday, and will be given to depositors on presentation of their certificates of proof of claim. He requested depositors who have not filed claims to do so at once.

The present payment was made possible largely by liquidation through the Home Owners' Loan corporation and a further loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Estimates of the value of remaining assets, published in SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE in connection with the March 31 report of condition, indicate another 20 per cent for depositors before liquidation is completed.

EASTMAN KODAK SHARES RISE $8, COCA-COLA $11

Many Other Issues Gain Sharply.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 18.—Jumps of $11 a share in the price of Coca-Cola common and $8 in that of Eastman Kodak were outstanding in a strong but highly selective market on the stock exchange today.

Regulars of the trading fraternity could recall only one other performance to compare with that of the two specialties since the market's big depression cave-in, that one being in Homestake Mining, which occasionally swings as much as 10 points on a single sale.

Both Coca-Cola and Eastman reached new tops, the cold drink issue going to $206 and the camera stock to $134.75, but profit taking shaved both showings slightly in the final few minutes of trading. Coca-Cola closed to $205, up $10 on the day, and Eastman at $133, a gain of $6.75.

Profits at High Level.

The secret of Coca-Cola's fresh popularity came out in the later stages of the excitement in the form of an earnings report showing that the company's profits for 1934 had topped $12 a share compared with a little less than $9 a share in 1933. The issue has been selling around the 200 mark for several weeks, but here of late has been somewhat on the down grade supposedly due to disappointment over the corporation's failure to declare a share split-up as it was widely expected to do when the price reached $200.

Brokers attributed the strength in Eastman to investment buying rather than to any special development, although there have been reports of new discoveries with earning possibilities for the company.

A dozen or so other specialties and preferreds, most of them in the higher priced brackets, came in for a fling in the later trading. Allied Chemical went ahead 4 points. Helme rose 4⅛ points and American Can bettered its standing by about 2 points a share.

Preferreds Rise Sharply.

Preferreds to rise 3 to 5 points or more included those of American Metals, Blumenthal, Ludlum, Louisiana Oil, Pacific Telephone and Telegraph, and North American Edison. Both classes of Gillette sold to new tops.

American-Hawaiian Steamship dropped nearly 2 points on a few sales, Morris & Essex fell 6½, and New York Shipbuilding slipped 5.

Motor accessory shares were again buoyant with the lower priced issues featuring the demand. Better earnings statements for the first quarter formed the background for the interest in this department of the market.

Borden was a feature in the foods division, turning active and strong on official statements showing improvement in the corporation's earnings for the first three months of the year.

The utilities paid little attention to forecasts of a toning down of provisions of the holding bill. Among the rails, Union Pacific moved up 4 points.

DOUGLAS FINDS NRA PUTS PRICES BEYOND REASON

The NRA, as now administered, is raising prices beyond a reasonable level in many cases, Prof. Paul H. Douglas, professor of economics at the University of Chicago and former member of the consumers' advisory board of NRA, asserted last night at a dinner of the Educational Buyers' association. The annual convention, at International house on the Midway, is being attended by purchasing agents of universities, whose direct expenditures are more than 50 millions annually.

While criticising NRA sharply, Prof. Douglas urged its retention in some form. He advocated elimination of price fixing and limitation of output provisions, as well as restoration of competition. The economist called NRA an "honest and admirable" attempt to emerge from repression by collective action, and put the blame for most of its abuses in the lap of industry. Complete repeal and a return to "ruthless individualism" would not help the situation for consumers, Prof. Douglas declared.

Prof. Douglas' program for protection of buyers would include a minimum basis for labor, unemployment insurance, and a "genuine system of collective bargaining." Vigorous steps should be taken to prevent private monopolies and monopolistic price fixing. Enforcement of codes of fair practice, such as prohibition of industrial espionage and misrepresentation of products, would be placed under a government agency.

SOUTHERN GAS COMPANY

To the Holders of the First Mortgage Six and One-half Per Cent Sinking Fund Gold Bonds of Southern Gas Company, due November 1, 1935.

REDEMPTION NOTICE

NOTICE is hereby given that, pursuant to the provisions of the Indenture of Mortgage dated as of November 1, 1925, executed by Southern Gas Company to The First National Bank of Kansas City, Trustee, and C. W. Allendoerfer, Co-Trustee, United Gas Public Service Company (as successor to Southern Gas Company) has elected to exercise its option to redeem, and will redeem on the next interest payment date, to wit: May 1, 1935, all of the First Mortgage Six and One-half Per Cent Sinking Fund Gold Bonds of Southern Gas Company, due November 1, 1935, issued and outstanding under said Indenture of Mortgage. The aggregate principal amount of bonds to be redeemed is $473,000 or such lesser amount as shall be outstanding on May 1, 1935, it being the intention of the Company to redeem all the bonds of said issue outstanding on said date. Said bonds will be redeemed on May 1, 1935 at The First National Bank of Kansas City, Kansas City, Missouri, by payment of the principal amount thereof, plus accrued interest thereon to the date of redemption, together with a premium of two and one-half per cent (2½%) of the principal amount thereof. From and after such redemption date, interest in respect of said bonds shall cease. Said bonds, with the coupon due November 1, 1935 attached, should be surrendered to The First National Bank of Kansas City, for redemption, as aforesaid. The May 1, 1935 coupon should be detached and presented for payment in the usual manner.

Dated Houston, Texas, March 29, 1935.

Corn Reaches New Peak, but Wheat Droops

With other grains declining the corn market yesterday advanced and the May future contract, under which deliveries begin in ten days, reached a new high quotation for the season. Apprehension that supplies of corn in the Chicago market will prove insufficient to fill requirements on the May delivery furnished the basis for strength in the market.

May corn sold as high as 90⅝ cents a bushel, the best figure it has commanded, and closed a cent a bushel higher at 90¼ cents. Other corn futures were up a ½ cent a bushel. Aside from the activity in corn the market was a quiet affair. The approach of today's holiday induced holders to sell out pending resumption of trading.

Market Holiday Today.

The Chicago market will be closed today but will resume business tomorrow morning. In the foreign markets, however, trading will not be resumed until next week. The Buenos Aires exchange will reopen Monday morning but no business will be transacted in Liverpool until Tuesday.

Trading in wheat yesterday was dull. Closing quotations were ⅜ cent a bushel lower. Light rains were again reported in some sections of Kansas and Oklahoma, the region now supplying the crop news that is determining prices. The best rains were received in the south central part of Kansas and adjacent territory in Oklahoma. While the moisture received is considered inadequate it was enough to discourage any active buying of wheat futures.

Prices on July Futures.

	Yesterday.	Wednesday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	99¼c	99½c	96⅞c
Corn	83⅜c	82¾c	82⅜c
Oats	42⅞c	43c	42⅛c
Rye	61¼c	61⅝c	60½c

While weather conditions in the southwest remain the dominant price influence at present attention is gradually shifting to the spring wheat country.

Seeding of the spring crop has progressed slowly, although it is expected operations will be speeded materially next week. Rains which fell recently have put the ground in excellent condition but farmers have been unable to obtain seed from the government in time to plant as early as usual.

Planting Later Than Usual.

Ordinarily planting in South Dakota is well under way at the beginning of April, while North Dakota and Minnesota reach their peak between April 15 and 20. Reports from those states, however, state that little seed has been put in the ground up to this time.

A bumper crop of wheat in the northwest is necessary if the country is to produce enough to supply its own needs for a year. With the winter crop currently estimated at 436 million bushels, it will take about 200 million bushels of spring wheat to bring total production up to rated annual domestic consumption of 625 millions.

NEWSPAPER ADS IN MARCH 3.6% OVER YEAR AGO

Newspaper advertising volume in 80 cities during March showed a gain of more than 5,000,000 lines, 3.6 per cent, over the same month last year, which, in turn, was 30 per cent better than March, 1933. The total last month was 155,876,000 lines, compared with 150,439,000 in March, 1934, the Advertising Age reported yesterday.

Classified advertising, referred to as an unusually sensitive business barometer, climbed 19 per cent from March, 1934, to 24,478,000 lines this year. Retail and general lineage, without the benefit of Easter advertising as in 1934, held better than even. The former gained 1 per cent to 89,513,000 lines and the latter 2.7 per cent to 28,985,000 lines. Automotive advertising of 7,685,000 lines was 10.3 per cent under March, 1934, but financial advertising reversed recent downward trends to total 3,158,000 lines for a gain of 3.3 per cent.

Magazine advertising also is showing substantial gains, Advertising Age reporting an April total of 1,669,000 lines for an 8.1 per cent gain in 84 publications.

Newspaper advertising during March showed an increase of 5.2 per cent over February, according to the index of Printers' Ink. This represents the change in March lineage from February after the usual adjustments for the number of days in the month and for seasonal fluctuations. For March the index figure stood 77, compared with 73.2 for the preceding month. The March index also shows that there has been a moderate pickup from March a year ago.

AMERICAN LARD MARKET ABROAD RUINED BY AAA

Corn-Hog Plan, High Prices Cut Trade.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Foreign markets for American lard have been drastically curtailed and in many instances have vanished as a result of restriction in production brought about largely by the AAA efforts to lift prices of agricultural products.

This year the United States, historically a dominant lard exporting country, will not produce enough lard to supply normal domestic requirements. This deficiency is being made up by importation of foreign edible oils, upon which American consumers must pay a duty of 3 to 4 cents a pound.

The dislocation of the lard industry resulting from the government's ambitious corn-hog production curtailment program is clearly shown in comparisons of this year's estimated production and consumption with the statistics of years prior to establishment of the triple A.

Output 1½ Million Pounds.

Normal production of lard in the United States, based on federally inspected hogs, is 1 billion, 550 million pounds. Of this total approximately 975 million pounds goes to supply the home market, while the balance, amounting to 575 million pounds, is sold in the export market.

In 1934 the effects of the AAA program, aggravated by the corn crop failure, began to be felt in the lard industry. In the first part of the year production and consumption of lard in this country ran fairly close to normal. Toward the end of 1934 prices started to rise, partly as a result of the decline in production resulting from the government's pig slaughtering and partly in anticipation of the further decline in production which was then in sight.

Lard in 1934 sold at the highest prices in six years, reaching a top quotation of 12.97 cents a pound. The highest price in 1933 was 7.90 cents a pound, while in the depression low year of 1932 lard sold at 5.37 cents.

Consumers Resist High Prices.

High prices caused consumers to switch to lard substitutes and domestic consumption for 1934 fell moderately below the normal figure. Total production last year aggregated 1 billion 333 million pounds, or more than 200 million pounds under the normal output. The high prices prevailing in the latter part of the year cut the total domestic consumption to 913 million pounds, or 62 millions under the theoretical normal requirements. In the export market the United States sold 434 million pounds, compared with "normal" exports of 575 millions.

But 1934 showed the results of only the first phase of the AAA program. The effect of that experiment is cumulative. The farm supply of hogs at the beginning of 1935 was the smallest in 60 years. Lard production in the first three months this year amounted to approximately 210 million pounds, against 404 millions turned out in the first quarter of 1934.

Consumption Falls Further.

Domestic consumption fell from 234 million pounds to about 170 millions. Sales in the export market dropped from 128 to 50 millions. In February this year lard sold above 14 cents a pound and is currently quoted around 13¾ cents a pound.

It now is estimated that production for the full year will amount to about 675 million pounds, or 300 millions less than the rated normal domestic requirements. On this basis if it is assumed the year-end stocks amounted to no more than 30 million pounds there will be available this year enough lard to allow domestic consumption at the rate of only 72 per cent of normal.

Importers have long since sized up the situation and have not been slow to act. Between 250 and 300 million pounds of foreign oils have been purchased for shipment to the United States during the current year for the specific purpose of supplying lard substitutes.

Consumer Must Pay Tarif.

These imports include Egyptian cottonseed oil, German peanut oil, sesame oil crushed in Europe, and Manchurian soy bean oil. The duties on these products range from 3 to 4 cents a pound, which the American lard user must shoulder. On domestic lard the Ameri-

MEMBER BANKS SHOW BIG GAIN IN IDLE FUNDS

Form Vast Reservoir for Credit Expansion.

A big increase in the excess reserve funds of the member banks of the federal reserve system occurred last week, it was shown in the weekly banking statistics issued last night. The increase, amounting to 214 million dollars, boosted the total of bank reserves to over 4½ billion dollars, of which more than two billions represents an excess over legal requirements and constitutes a big reservoir for potential credit expansion.

Coincident with the expansion in reserves the country's stock of monetary gold reached another new peak of 8 billion 672 million dollars as a result of importations during the week of 58 millions from foreign countries.

Result of Federal Financing.

The expansion in reserves was in part the outgrowth of the April 15 refinancing of the federal treasury. The deposits and cash account of the treasury with the central reserve banks showed a contraction of 227 millions for the week as a result of redemptions of maturing securities. The money paid out by the treasury found its way back to the member banks, boosting deposits and reserves. The direct deposits of the treasury with the member banks showed no change.

The biggest expansion in several weeks in direct loans to industry was disclosed by the combined statement of the 12 reserve banks. The total of such loans was increased nearly 5 million dollars to over 26 millions.

The combined statement showed a gain of over $90,000,000 in gold certificate reserves, indicating the treasury had made another large transfer of gold certificates to the reserve banks in order to supply itself with funds.

Hudson Motor Loan Reflected.

The increase is believed to represent in part the advance made to the Hudson Motor Car corporation. The Hupp Motor Car corporation has applied for a loan of 2 millions but it is not known what action has been taken.

The statements of the member banks' condition in New York and Chicago revealed substantial deposit increases in both centers. Indicated gross deposits of the Chicago banks were 94 millions higher as funds withdrawn from the state over the April 1 tax assessment date continued to trickle back. In New York deposits were up 163 millions.

The most conspicuous change in outstanding bank credit was a gain of 114 million dollars in brokers' loans of New York banks. Other types of credit showed little change in volume.

Buy More Federal Bonds.

The investment of the New York banks in government bonds was up 9 millilons. Chicago banks invested another 18 millions in government bonds, 2 million more in other securities, but reduced loans moderately.

The directors of the New York Reserve bank met yesterday but failed to cut the rediscount rate of 1½ per cent, as had been expected in some quarters. The call money rate on the New York Stock exchange is now at an all time low figure of ¼ of 1 per cent, but if member banks borrow from the reserve they must still pay 1½ per cent.

DRY GOODS.

New York, April 18.—(AP)—Cotton goods were steady and quiet today, with sales light, both in finished and unfinished divisions. Acetate rayon yarns have been reduced 2 to 8 cents a pound. Men's and women's wear goods were quiet, due in part to the observance of religious holidays. Silk goods continued very quiet. Burlaps were inactive.

TEXTILE UNION JOINS ATTACK ON PROCESS TAX

Penalizes Industry, Says Labor Leader.

Augusta, Ga., April 18.—(AP)—Thomas McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, today joined in the attack on the cotton processing tax. McMahon declared that the tax penalized a basic industry. He said that he did not oppose benefits to farmers, but felt they should come from another source.

"The processing tax on cotton and the import of foreign cheap textile products have a tendency to hurt those engaged in the industry whether as employers or as employés, but the solution of these two problems will not bring about peace to the industry as a whole, and that peace is desired alike by employés, employers, and the government," he said.

Ask President to Act.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—Charging that the New England textile crisis is being exploited by opponents of President Roosevelt, fifteen house Democrats from that section petitioned the President today to investigate the situation and consider measures to be taken.

The petition was in the form of a resolution adopted at a conference attended by Secretary Roper, Secretary Hull, Isador Lubin, commissioner of labor statistics, and representatives of textile code authority and the Cotton Textile institute.

"In view of the critical condition and the serious permanent problem of the textile industry, it is recommended that an appropriate committee of the cabinet be appointed by the President to consider what measures should be taken to relieve the present emergency and to make long term plans for meeting the present conditions of the industry," said the resolution.

Ask Federal, State Probes.

Boston, Mass., April 18.—(AP)—Urgent requests were voiced here tonight for immediate investigation by state and federal agencies of the extent and causes of the cotton textile industry's plight.

At the same time, Brooks Stevens of the Lawrence Manufacturing company, one of Lowell's largest cotton mills, was making known his opposition to the suggested closing of mills in protest against the processing tax as likely to be "more severe on labor than on the government."

"Overproduction is the real cause," Stevens asserted. "As soon as prices go up, consumption falls off, and with so many spindles operating throughout the country, overproduction has resulted.

"Japanese competition is not a contributing factor in the situation, but it does take advantage of the prices being up over here."

ALLEGHANY CORP. REPORTS LOSS IS REDUCED IN 1934

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—The report of the Alleghany corporation for 1934 shows a net loss of $983,042 after charges, interest and general expenses, against a net loss of $1,336,806 in 1933.

O. P. Van Sweringen, president, said that pending adoption of a plan for the reorganization of the Missouri Pacific Railroad company, "It is impossible to determine the effect of such reorganization upon the large investment in that railway system, on which investment this corporation received no income in 1934. In the meantime, this investment continues to be carried on the books at cost."

The balance sheet of the corporation and its wholly owned subsidiary, Terminal Shares, Inc., as of Dec. 31, shows securities held as investments at a cost of $159,260,888 had an indicated market value of $58,013,767 based upon closing bid prices Dec. 31, and $53,905,145 based upon closing bid prices April 15 last.

U. S. BEGINS PROBE OF JAPANESE OIL MONOPOLY ACTS

TOKIO, April 19 [Friday].—(AP)—The American consul general at Mukden opened an investigation today of allegations of the first instance of coercion of American interests since the Manchukuo oil monopoly went into operation.

Reports from Antung, Manchukuo, said Japanese agents intimidated native agents in charge of a Standard Oil company warehouse and compelled them to sign reports conforming to monopoly regulations which the company previously had refused to sign.

Joseph C. Grew, the United States ambassador, it was disclosed, gave the foreign office two days ago America's latest protest against the monopoly. It reiterated charges of treaty breaches and held Japan responsible for losses of American companies as a result of the monopoly.

James T. Pardee Elected Chairman of Dow Chemical

Midland, Mich., April 18.—(AP)—James T. Pardee of Cleveland, secretary and vice president of the Dow Chemical company, was elected chairman of the board today, succeeding A. E. Convers who died a week ago. Leland I. Doan, general sales manager, was added to the board. Directors approved payment May 15 of the regular preferred stock dividend of 1¾ per cent and the regular common stock dividend of 50 cents.

Ulen & Company Profits Gain Slightly Over 1934

Ulen & Co. and subsidiaries yesterday reported earnings of $50,444 in the first three months of 1935 before extraordinary credits to surplus. A net loss of $14,173 was recorded after various surplus adjustments were made. The profit compares with earnings of $45,888 before adjustments in the same months last year. Ulen reduced its debt by $327,625 in the first quarter of this year.

AMERICAN LARD MARKET ABROAD RUINED BY AAA

Corn-Hog Plan and High Prices Have Bad Effect.

can consumer pays a processing tax of 2.47 cents a pound, which the government collects and pays back to the subscribers of the corn-hog reduction program.

Thus, the consumer finds himself in the unenviable position of paying a bounty to the hog producer in order that the latter may cut his output and make the consumer pay still higher prices. If the consumer switches to foreign substitutes he must pay duties imposed to protect the American producer of similar substitutes.

Demand Cut Permanently.

Meanwhile, it is difficult to see who is gaining an advantage. As happened before the war years, consumer use of substitutes cuts down demand for lard. Many consumers never return to lard, finding the substitutes preferable.

At the same time, high prices and low production cut down foreign sales. Today the United States sells lard to the United Kingdom, Cuba and to Mexico on a limited scale. The continental European market has been all but lost. Germany, at one time the second largest consumer of American lard, now sells us lard substitutes.

European Sales Drop.

In the period from Nov. 1, 1934, to April 6, 1935, continental Europe took only about 3½ million pounds of American lard, compared with 54 millions in the corresponding period of the preceding year. The United Kingdom brought approximately 62 million pounds, against 118 millions in the preceding year. South American and Central American countries cut their purchases to 836,000 pounds, from the 3½ millions taken in the comparable period a year earlier. Total American exports of lard in the week ended April 6 were estimated at 1,578,000 pounds, against 6,876,000 in the same week of 1934.

Paradoxically, while we have not enough lard for our own needs we will continue to sell some in the foreign markets. Export lard is exempt from the processing tax, so that the foreign consumer does not pay the 2.47 cents a pound which the American consumer is penalized.

BUYERS FORCE PRICES OF TOP CATTLE LOWER

Packer buyers yesterday forced lower top cattle prices that had equaled 15 year highs for this time of the year in midweek. The sharpest decline of the season was the result. Prices for well finished steers were off 50 cents from the previous day's levels. Late bids indicating 75 cents reduction were turned down by sellers. Most of the steers eligible to sell over $13.50 were carried over unsold.

No sales yesterday were made over $13.75, although the trade is carrying a nominal quotation up to $15 for the kinds that sold at $15.50 in midweek. Notwithstanding the demoralizing break in top grades of steers, most other cattle were bought on a steady to weak basis, showing 25 cents loss only in spots, while some of the butcher stock actually brought strong prices. The bulk sold at $9.25 to $13, with plain kinds down to $8.

Lamb prices improved again, rising 10 to 25 cents. Packers and shippers bought selected grades of wooled lambs up to $8.65. Few native spring lambs were available and these sold quickly around $10, averaging 50 to 55 pounds.

The smallest Thursday receipts of lambs in six weeks offset the bearish reports from wholesale lamb markets.

Receipts of hogs were extremely light, but not light enough to offset the restricted buying of pork in the east, where fresh pork cuts have dropped $1 to $2 in the last few days. An extremely draggy trade developed for hogs after prices had opened in line with the previous session.

The close was 5 to 10 cents lower with the top price $11.40. Only 8,000 hogs arrived at Chicago yesterday, compared with 19,871 a year ago and 21,215 two years ago.

JONES SEEKING LOWER RATES ON RAIL BANK LOANS

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—The question of lower interest rates and fixed maturity dates for the $62,900,000 demand loans of the New York Central railroad held by eleven banks was discussed informally today by Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and Harold Vanderbilt, a director and member of the executive committee of the New York Central.

Jones is seeking to have the banks convert this floating debt into five and ten years' notes bearing interest below the present 4½ per cent rate. He said that it is his understanding that the banks are disposed to lower the interest rate t 4 per cent, the same figure that New York Central is paying the RFC for $27,499,000 owed it, but that they are opposed to changing the demand status of the loans.

Continental Can Reports Higher Profits for Year

The Continental Can company for the 12 months ended March 31 had net profit of $10,687,060, equivalent to $4.01 a share on 2,665,191 shares of common stock. For the 12 months ended March 31, 1934, profit was $7,942,941, or $4.53 a share on 1,754,124 common shares.

Gov. Merriam Vetoes Train Limit Bill; Labor Protests

Sacramento, Cal., April 18.—(AP)—Gov. Frank F. Merriam today vetoed a bill limiting the length of freight trains to 70 cars, and Assemblyman Hunt of Los Angeles immediately announced railroad labor would start a movement to recall the governor.

CONGRESS ASKED TO DELAY BILLS FOR COURT RULE

Manufacturers Seek Ruling on Power.

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—The board of the National Association of Manufacturers, meeting here today, urged congress to withhold action on proposed legislation affecting the right of the federal government to regulate intrastate commerce until the Supreme court has passed on the extent of the government's jurisdiction.

This would include not only the extension of the NRA but also the Wagner labor bill and the 30 hour week bill, the association said. The administration was commended for its appeal to the Supreme court in the poultry cases, seeking a decision on the authority of the government to supervise and regulate employment relations in local acts of production and service.

"In view of the fact that twenty-one federal courts throughout the United States have emphatically declared that various assertions of the right of federal authority to control local relations were all outside the authority of the federal government, it is important that pending legislation relating to the 30 hour week bill, the Wagner labor disputes bill, and the extension of the NIRA be held in abeyance until the court responds to the request of the government to define clearly its powers," the board announced.

"A decision by our highest court will dissolve the fog of uncertainty which has hung over the country for the last two years and tended to contribute to the multiplying obstructions which have beset the pathway of recovery."

SUSPEND SWITCH RATE BOOST IN LOCAL DISTRICT

The general increase in freight rates recently ordered by the interstate commerce commission has been suspended by the Illinois commerce commission for the Chicago switching district, G. H. Shafer, transportation rate expert for the Illinois commission, announced yesterday. Suspension of the order will mean a 10 per cent saving for Chicago shippers, it was explained.

The Chicago switching district roughly is bounded by Waukegan on the north, Hammond on the south and an irregular line east of Aurora on the west. Switching charges some time ago were ordered increased in the Chicago switching district by the interstate commerce commission and had the commission's newest increase been allowed to stand shippers here would have been doubly penalized, it was pointed out.

Other suspensions ordered by the Illinois commission were on coal shipments from the Belleville and southern Illinois regions to Alton and East St. Louis, and on shipments of hollow building tile from Sheffield to Chicago. The latter suspension was granted to equalize Sheffield rates with those of Ottawa to Chicago.

CENTURY RIBBON MILLS PRESIDENT IS PAID $55,140

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—The Century Ribbon Mills, Inc., paid its president, Herman Levy, compensation of $55,140 during 1934, a registration statement filed with the securities and exchange commission revealed today. Irving Levy, vice president, got $39,660.

E. M. Schnadig, president of the Chicago Mail Order company, received remuneration of $50,000; E. L. Schnadig, vice president, $23,999; C. A. Bethge, vice president, $21,999. Shareholdings, as of Feb. 9, included: E. M. Schnadig, 14,122; Stephen Hexter, vice president, 6,917; C. A. Bethge, 6,000; J. L. Schnadig, treasurer, 19,641; R. L. Arnheim, secretary, 1,500; B. J. Rosenthal, chairman, 114,665; W. T. Bruckner, director, 1,100.

The Zenith Radio corporation report showed E. F. McDonald Jr., president and general manager, to be the largest stockholder among officers and directors, with 54,981 shares as of March 30. Other holdings included: Paul S. Klugh, 30,600; Hugh Robertson, treasurer, 3,350; U. J. Herrman, 3,435; E. A. Tracey, vice president, 2,400.

LA SALLE AND STEVENS HOTELS ARE ADJUDGED BANKRUPT BY COURT

The La Salle and Stevens hotels yesterday were adjudged bankrupt before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, and orders were entered which provide for liquidation of the properties. The court specified that both hotels are to continue in operation pending final liquidation.

Thurlow G. Essington, equity receiver for the La Salle, was named receiver in bankruptcy to continue in charge until further order of the court. Arthur Hall and C. Wayland Brooks, trustees of the Stevens property, will continue to direct operations there.

In the case of the Stevens, Jacob I. Grossman presented a master's report, which was approved by the court. It showed insolvency, with debts aggregating $27,183,000. Fair market value of the property were put at $7,350,000 and cash and other assets at $1,437,000—an aggregate of $8,787,000, or less than one third the indebtness.

The Central Life Assurance company of Iowa, which took over the Illinois Life Insurance company, is a substantial creditor and owner of the equity in both properties.

RECOVERY NEEDS ARE OUTLINED TO ECONOMIC CLUB

The immediate goal of the nation is to add one-seventh to present industrial production and one-seventh to the present volume of employment, Dr. Walter Lippmann, noted economist, stated last night in a talk before the Economic Club of Chicago at the Palmer house. This would mean substantial recovery, he indicated.

Discussing various yardsticks for measuring the distance the country has traveled toward recovery, he made the following points:

The purchasing power of farm prices, which fell six-tenths of its predepression level at the low points of 1932 and 1933, is now within one-tenth of the pre-depression level.

The number of unemployed is estimated at 9,500,000 and it is usually supposed there were at least 2,225,000 unemployed in 1929. So the net additional unemployment is somewhere around 7,000,000 men, including about 1,000,000 who have been added to the working population by the growth of the whole population. Seven million unemployed are about one-seventh of those that the census regards as gainfully employed.

Thus, Dr. Lippmann said, "if we could increase the employed by about one-seventh of its present volume, if we could increase industrial production by about one-seventh of its present volume, if we could increase the purchasing power of farm prices by about one-seventh, we should be somewhere about normal."

One of the principal obstacles to recovery, Dr. Lippmann continued, is lack of confidence. Confidence could largely be restored, he said, by deliberate negotiations between business men and investors, on one hand, and labor politicians and the consuming public, on the other, to settle their differences.

NATIONAL DAIRY CHIEF REPORTS HIS PAY $108,000

New York, April 18.—The annual salary of Thomas H. McInnerney, president of the National Dairy Products corporation, is $108,000, he disclosed at today's meeting of stockholders. He said salaries paid to the eleven chief executives of the company total $320,000.

He added that he voluntarily took a 40 per cent cut in his salary in 1932, while all officers and directors' salaries are 31 per cent lower than the rate prevailing in 1931. Employés salaries are 14 per cent lower than in 1931. For the first five years after the corporation's formation in 1923 he took no salary at all as president, he declared.

McInnerney's remarks on what he termed "government interference and control laws" stressed the point that while the milk control laws and the AAA programs may have been laid out with good intentions they are not working out. The big corporations, he continued, can compete on a fair basis if the milk control laws are enforced.

HOME OCCUPANCY IS NEAR 100 PCT. IN SOME CITIES

BY AL CHASE.

Residential occupancy in many cities is close to the 100 per cent mark, especially Detroit, Mich., and Des Moines, Ia., where nearly every house and apartment is occupied, the Mortgage Bankers Association of America announced yesterday. Farm occupancy in many parts of the nation also is close to 100 per cent. In several states farm sales are active and considerably higher and the tendency throughout the country is for higher prices for improved real estate of all classes.

These statements were obtained from a questionnaire sent to approximately 100 cities in all states. Thus far returns have been received from twenty-two states and eighty cities.

Milwaukee Reports 98% Occupancy.

Milwaukee reported a 98 per cent occupancy of its homes. In addition the city indicated rents have climbed 20 per cent in the last year.

"The percentage of occupancy in the Chicago area for apartment houses and single family dwellings appears to be about 95 per cent," said George H. Patterson, secretary and treasurer of the mortgage association.

"Sales have been made recently on all classes of property in amounts somewhat higher than the original first mortgages. The feeling in general is that the average sale price, particularly on bungalows and homes, is rising."

In other Illinois cities, outside the metropolitan area, occupancy was reported at 97 to 98 per cent. Sales made during the last year have been principally single family homes. There has been a general improvement in prices obtained for the different classes of properties, the survey said.

Farm Prices Are Higher.

In Iowa the survey reported land selling $25 an acre higher than last year. There were few vacant or abandoned farms in that state, it was stated. In Minnesota practically all farms were occupied. Farm purchases throughout the middle west are being made mostly by farmers, not speculators, the survey stated. All insurance companies answering the questionnaire reported better farm prices.

In Miami, Miami Beach, and Coral Gables, Fla., the survey reported occupancy standing at about 98 per cent. Several sales have been made of all types.

U. S. AND ITALY AT STANDSTILL ON TRADE TREATY

ROME, April 18.—(AP)—The Italo-American trade treaty negotiations came to a standstill today as a result of the United States' conviction she had been made the victim of discrimination by Italian quota regulations. Italy, it was learned definitly, has decided not to send a special delegation across the Atlantic to negotiate the prospective treaty.

Reliable sources said the United States was willing to negotiate a commercial treaty with Italy along "modern lines, but was balked when Italy interposed certain trade regulations of her own, which not only reduced American imports into Italy, but attempted to make the newly restricted import quotas the basis of negotiation."

The new regulations prohibited Italians from importing more than 35 per cent of the goods they bought abroad in 1934. The United States believed, however, it was said, that while the new quota was enforced with regard to her Italian exports, other nations were permitted to send the same quantity of goods into Italy as in 1934.

MICHIGAN FARM LEADER FLAILS METHODS OF AAA

Lansing, Mich., April 18.—[Special.]—James F. Thomson, Republican commissioner of agriculture, today assailed the Agricultural Adjustment administration for methods which, he declared, will spell eventual ruin for the farmer. He credited AAA policies for virtual elimination of foreign markets for the agricultural surplus.

"What does it profit to have temporary artificial increases in the prices of agricultural products by the manipulation of the AAA and wake up to find that our foreign markets have been lost?" he asked. "Increased unemployment, impoverished tenant farmers, more on the relief rolls, and a heavy financial and economic loss annually is what agriculture faces as export trade steadily decreases.

"I am opposed to the governmental policy of restrictions and scarcity when there are 12,000,000 unemployed and 23,000,000 on the relief rolls. If the government is right that a policy of producing less makes for wealth and prosperity, then it must follow that producing next to nothing would make us fabulously wealthy."

FRANCE STUDIES TRADE POLICY TO FAVOR "FRIENDS"

PARIS, April 18.—(AP)—France today studied a new commercial policy which will permit a freer exchange of goods with countries with whom she has close political and economic links. The plan, it was said, is likely to mean a relaxation of the whole quota system of imports, which has caused much protest, especially from American business houses, and will have some bearing on the Franco-American commercial treaty negotiations.

Minister of Commerce Marchandeau revealed Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin requested him to make a close study of the French economic and commercial policy. Asked if that would mean an end of the quota system, he replied:

"Perhaps. In any case a new plan, containing basic reforms with a new commercial policy, soon will permit us to direct our new commercial accords toward a free exchange, by strengthening these accords with those countries with whom we have good reasons to increase our friendships in the field of politics as in economics."

AMERADA'S NET PROFIT 4 TIMES TOTAL FOR 1933

Amerada corporation and subsidiaries yesterday reported 1934 profit of $1,736,420 or more than four times as much as in 1933. This was equivalent to $2.20 a share on 788,675 outstanding at the end of the year, compared with 50 cents a share on the 767,375 outstanding a year previously.

A Jacobsen, president of Amerada, said in the annual report that a strong financial position has been maintained with current assets totaling $5,544,731, or 12 times current liabilities of $448,059 at the end of the year. He also said results of the year's exploration and drilling activities were "gratifying."

SINCE 1893

Women have been learning Beauty Culture at Moler's—

Because—
It is the original—the first institution of its kind in the world.

Because—
Its schooling duplicates shop work serving the public rather than student practice work on each other.

Because—
All Moler Teachers are specially trained—no inexperienced operators pressed into service.

Because—
Their 3 kinds of teaching qualify for 3 kinds of positions.

Because—

Because—
Moler's class A schooling at half rate saves $100.00.

Open day and evening. Call, write or phone.

Community Motors
23,851 Satisfied Used Car Buyers

Recommend This Way:

1. Select a dealer upon whose integrity and reputation you can rely completely.
2. Set a price range within which you can sensibly afford to purchase.
3. Decide beforehand on one or two makes of long standing and good reputation.
4. When you find the car meeting your requirements, check the serial number to be certain of the year.
5. Give the car a thorough driving test and check the tires, brakes and other mechanical parts of the car.
6. Don't be misled by high pressure salesmanship.
7. Finally, make certain that you have selected a dealer to whom you can return for satisfactory treatment if anything unforeseen develops.

because

WHEN MEDWICK WAS OUT AT THE PLATE.
In the second inning of yesterday's game the Cards' star left fielder singled, went to second on an infield out and to third on Davis' single. But when he tried to score on T. Moore's grounder to Lindstrom, Hartnett tagged him. Note the speed with which Umpire Moran called the play. (Story on page 31.)
